No. 23,537. Registered at the General Post Office, Sydney, for transmission by post as a Newspaper. SYDNEY, MONDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1912. 16 PAGES. PRICE 1d.

SUMMARY.

The fall of Kirk-Kilisse, and the demoralisation of the Turks have created a profound impression in Vienna.

The Bulgarians regarded Kirk-Kilisse as the Port Arthur of the war.

Influential newspapers declare that the claim of the Powers that Turkish integrity must not be interfered with cannot be upheld.

In official quarters in Berlin it is believed that the Powers will intervene after the first decisive battle.

The whole of the Turkish Asiatic force is concentrated at Adrianople.

With the capture of Sienitza, the Servians claim to dominate the Sandjak of Novi Bazar.

The Turks attempted to retake Novi Bazar, but the attacking force was practically annihilated.

Details of the Battle of Kumanovo state that both sides fought with the utmost ferocity.

The Servian artillery annihilated three squadrons of Turkish cavalry. The Turks are reported to have lost 5000 men.

After the fighting at Kumanovo the Servians marched on to Uskub, which they entered unopposed.

The Servians have captured Vuchitra, five miles from Mitrovitza.

The Montenegrins advanced on Scutari, but were checked by a withering Turkish fire. It is believed the Turks are preparing to retreat.

General Vukovitch has now subdued the Moslem Albanians, and his way is clear to Ipek, 25 miles south-west of Novi Bazar.

After severe fighting for three days the Turks retired from their positions at Kiaffa, in Epirus.

The Greeks are now marching on Philippiada and Strebina.

Fighting is in progress about 25 miles south of Janina.

A reconnaissance showed that the village of Koumtsades had been looted by the Turks.

All the young male Christian children had been killed, and the women and girls have been outraged.

The army commanded by the Crown Prince of Greece entered Kozani, about 20 miles north-west of Serfidze, without opposition.

The inhabitants welcomed them in a most enthusiastic fashion.

France and Spain have agreed on all points in regard to Morocco.

There are conflicting reports concerning the illness of the Czarovitch. One version states that he was deliberately shot in a groin.

The public is clamouring for the publication of the true version.

Mr. Roosevelt has so far recovered that he has resumed his electioneering campaign.

The ex-President is receiving many threatening letters, and he has been provided with a special police guard.

The first elopement by aeroplane is announced from Indiana.

A couple flew 75 miles, were married, and telegraphed the fact to their irate parents, who finally forgave them.

Katmai volcano, British Columbia, is in active eruption. The sea is said to be covered with ashes and pumice-stone.

In a match against British Columbia at Victoria the Australian cricketers scored 395.

The Australian Rugby Union footballers defeated California University at Berkeley by 38 to nil.

A block at the corner of Moore and Pitt streets has been acquired as a site for the Commonwealth Bank.

It is stated that the owners of the block have asked £100,000, and the matter is now the subject of negotiation.

A picnic party of 18 at a harbour resort was seized with ptomaine poisoning yesterday.

Fifteen of the number were admitted to Sydney Hospital in a serious condition.

The delegates to the Country Press Association were the guests of the Government at a harbour excursion on Saturday.

The Government, Mr. Trefle stated, was framing a bill to remove the last remaining embargo of the penal days from the press.

"I do not believe in the Labour platform a bit," remarked the Speaker, Mr. Willis, who was among those present.

He, however, thought the present Government had done much more good than its predecessors.

The purser of the Prinz Waldemar, Otto Mertens, shot himself on board the vessel at Brisbane, and died in the hospital.

The names of Mr. J. A. Hogue, Dr. R. Bohrsmann, and Mr. Tate are to be submitted for the Liberal selection for the Glebe.

Twenty Greeks sailed by the Orvieto on Saturday to join their countrymen on the battlefield.

Last week £1000 was cabled to Athens, and it is expected that another £1000 will be sent this week.

A number of members of the Institute of Journalists visited the Government training farm at Scheyville on Saturday.

The demand for boys from this training ground was stated to be far greater than the supply.

Unrest has prevailed among a section of the United Clerks' Union since a change was made in the executive functions.

The Congregational Union of Victoria desires to secure an adequate conscience clause in the Defence Act.

Queensland is setting aside four or five islands as sanctuaries for marsupials.

While a cantata was being produced at a Sunday school at Tumolly a Father Christmas caught fire.

A panic ensued, the building being crowded. No one was seriously injured.

The conference of the Federated House and Ship-painters, Paperhangers, and Decorators' Association has been concluded in Melbourne.

A ballot is to be taken on the question of making an appeal to the Federal Arbitration Court for registration.

Thirty thousand people attended the afternoon and evening sessions of the South-street band contests at Ballarat.

The A grade contest was won by the Geelong Municipal Band, the first prize for which is £200.

The change from electricity to oil in the Macquarie Lighthouse at South Head is not approved by shipmasters.

The Bishop of North Queensland retires in March next for reasons of health.

In the interstate cricket match at Adelaide the South Australians in their second innings scored 410.

Western Australia, which is quite outclassed, has lost three wickets for 69 in its second innings.

Culwulla III. won the 10-metre class event in the vice-commodore's races of the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron.

There was an enormous attendance at Henley-on-Yarra on Saturday, both in the afternoon and at night.

The contingent of Australian cadets who toured Canada returned by the Zealandia yesterday.

The third round of the competitions for the cricket premiership was commenced on Saturday.

University's four for 267 against Glebe was the highest total of the afternoon.

Monoplane won the Canterbury Handicap, and Salarino the Flying Handicap.

There has been a shortage of potatoes on the Sydney market, New Zealand and Victorian supplies having to be depended on.

The position has now slightly improved, the new Clarence River potatoes having come to hand.

Owing to the smallness of the shipment, there has so far been no appreciable decline in prices.

Barrier silver stocks recovered on Saturday, and a fair amount of business was recorded in the leading stocks.

Forecast.—Scattered showers, with thunder in the north-eastern districts, south-eastern corner, and parts of the coast; otherwise fine generally.

AN UNPRECEDENTED EVENT.

GRAND OPENING,

NEW COSTUME SHOWROOM,

AT FARMER'S TO-DAY.

SEE LARGE DISPLAY ADVERTISEMENT, PAGE 4.

"UNPRECEDENTED—HAVING NO PRECEDENT OR EXAMPLE; NOT PRECEDED BY A LIKE CASE; NOVEL, NEW, UNEXAMPLED; NOT BEFORE EQUALLED; NOT MATCHED BY ANY OTHER INSTANCE."—Dictionary Definition.

And we are confident all who visit Farmer's Grand New Costume Showroom in connection with the opening displays this week will ENDORSE THE USE OF THE WORD UNPRECEDENTED.

Our Patrons will pronounce the Showroom one of the finest, most spacious, commodious, convenient, and comfortable to be found in any capital city in the world, and certainly the FINEST IN AUSTRALIA.

The handsome fixtures and fittings enable us to show hundreds of Costumes at a glance, and in every respect shopping will be rendered pleasurable. The New Showroom, in short, is a testimony to the outstanding excellence of FARMER'S GOOD COSTUMES, and

A MAGNIFICENT MONUMENT OF MODERN MERCHANDISING METHODS.

We would emphasise the fact that Farmer's, especially in Costumes, cater for all classes of the community, and our Costume Display to-day and all this week will demonstrate MORE FORCIBLY THAN EVER THAT QUALITY MEANS ECONOMY.

Farmer's give the same careful attention to the style and value of the HALF-GUINEA COSTUME as to the distinguee Race Model at 30 guineas or more.

We invite you to inspect the Showroom to-day and following days of the week; to walk around at your leisure and examine the splendid values and THE UNIQUE STYLES IN COSTUMES AND COSTUME SKIRTS.

PARCTISE ECONOMY AND BUY AT LASSETTERS'.

LASSETTERS'.

ECONOMY—contrary to the usual interpretation of the word—means "the art of SPENDING," and not, as ordinarily understood, "the art of SAVING." True economy means getting the BEST VALUE for a MONETARY OUTLAY.

The same mental confusion often exists when people use the words "CHEAP" and "DEAR," when all the time they really mean to say "LOW PRICE" and "HIGH PRICE." Charles Dickens had the same idea when he put into the mouth of one of his best-known characters—WILKINS MICAWBER—the phrase, "CHEAP and NASTY." A low-priced article is often enough DEAR AS POISON; in other words, it has very little VALUE. LASSETTERS pride themselves upon the fact that in purchasing in their store you can always obtain VALUE. Upon this they have built up their reputation during the past 62 years, and upon this they stake their reputation FOR THE FUTURE.

Below are a few lines to which we call attention as being of SOLID VALUE, although NOT high in price, the buying of which will evidence TRUE ECONOMY.

THREE LINES IN COATS.

ALL-OVER EMBROIDERY COATEE.—This is a Cossack shape, in a good all-over Embroidery, quite the thing for the season, and suitable for the hot weather. Price, 9/11.

WHITE LINEN COATS. These are ¾ lengths, are tailor-made, and have coloured facings on collars. These are great value at 21/. Our Special Price, 12/11.

We are doing two good numbers in CRASH MOTOR COATS. These are made to button right up, and have tabs and buttons on the inside and at cuffs and collar. We are running these in two styles and qualities. Price, 21/ and 24/6.

THREE WHITE COSTUMES.

WHITE MUSLIN AMERICAN WAIST AND SKIRT COSTUME, with dressed collars, in a fine quality Swiss Muslin, beautifully tucked and hemstitched, suitable for mornings or for nurses' wear. Price, 8/11.

WHITE MUSLIN BLOUSE AND SKIRT COSTUME, made in a FINE QUALITY Muslin, with a good YOKE PIECE in fine EMBROIDERY, suitable for any occasion for ladies preferring a TWO-PIECE Costume. Price, 12/11.

CHARMING ONE-PIECE ROBE, in WHITE ORGANDIE MUSLIN, nicely made and tucked, and trimmed with good Muslin Insertion. Several designs. Price, 14/11.

THREE GOOD SKIRTS.

NEW SIX-GORE WHITE ORGANDIE MUSLIN SKIRT, with panels back and front, side gores, with rows of tucks at foot. This is a good plain skirt, always neat and good looking. Price, 5/11.

Very special number in WHITE PIQUE, also in WHITE LINEN. This is a plain, good six-gore Skirt, nicely cut and finished, and we are doing all sizes up to 26-inch waists at the same price. Great Value. Price, 7/11.

NEW THREE-PIECE SKIRT, in WHITE LINEN. This is the Skirt that BUTTONS ALL THE WAY DOWN, so that there is no trouble with the LAUNDRY. In a good quality pure Irish Linen. Price, 15/9.

FREE CARRIAGE.

LASSETTERS pay CARRIAGE on all Drapery, Clothing, and Showroom Goods to any part of the Commonwealth, or to any port in New Zealand or the Pacific Isles.

COMFORT IN HOT WEATHER.

The VALUE of a RELIABLE REFRIGERATOR is an UNKNOWN QUANTITY to those who have NOT USED ONE. Once a REFRIGERATOR has been ADDED to the FAMILY STICKS, NO self-respecting HOUSEWIFE would GO THROUGH the HOT SUMMER weather WITHOUT USING it to the FULL capacity.

The CHILCOTT is a RELIABLE REFRIGERATOR—it comes from ANTHONY HORDERNS' CABINET WORKS. It is SCIENTIFICALLY constructed to SECURE the MAXIMUM efficiency with a MINIMUM consumption of ice; it is LESS trouble to WORK than ANY OTHER Refrigerator on the market, and is an IDEAL FOOD PRESERVER.

CHILCOTT REFRIGERATORS are made in FOUR STYLES and SEVERAL SIZES, to meet the REQUIREMENTS of SMALL families as well as the NEEDS of BIG BOARDING-HOUSES and RESTAURANTS, and are quoted at

ANTHONY HORDERNS' FAMOUS LOW PRICES.

THE CHILCOTT REFRIGERATOR.

THE CHILCOTT REFRIGERATOR No. 1, with solid sides to Ice Box, and corrugated iron shelf to Provision Chamber. Fitted with castors. Size A and B are finished Grained Oak; size C is in Solid Ash.

Size.	Length.	Depth.	Height.	Price.
A	2ft 1in.	1ft 4in.	3ft 5in.	£4
B	2ft 3in.	1ft 6in.	3ft 5½in.	£4/10/
C	2ft 6in.	1ft 7in.	3ft 8in.	£5/17/6

THE CHILCOTT REFRIGERATOR No. 2, with louvred sides to Ice Box, and heavy wire shelf to Provision Chamber, fitted with castors. Finished Grained Oak.

Size.	Length.	Depth.	Height.	Price.
D	2ft 3in.	1ft 9½in.	3ft 7½in.	£5/15/
E	2ft 9in.	2ft 0in.	4ft 2in.	£7

THE CHILCOTT REFRIGERATOR No. 3 is a roomy ICE CHEST, eminently suitable for Restaurants, Hotels, Butchers' Shops. Design in No. 3, Size F, has two Provision Chambers, each 2ft 8in x 1ft 4in, with wire shelves; Ice Box in centre, with solid sides and wire ice tray; small Provision Compartment on top, 1ft 8in x 1ft 4in. Measurements over all—Length, 4ft; depth, 2ft 2in; height, 4ft 2in. Grained oak, without castors £11/7/6

THE CHILCOTT REFRIGERATOR, Style No. 4, Size G, is admirably adapted for a large family. It has Provision Chamber, 3ft 4in long, 2ft 4in high, and 16in deep, fitted with heavy wire shelves, and has four doors; Ice Chamber is placed in centre at top, and measures 18in x 16in x 9in deep, with louvred sides; there are two small Provision Chambers with wire trays, each measuring 14in x 10in x 9in deep. Measurements over all Length, 4ft; depth, 22in; height, 4ft 3in. Grained Oak, without castors £11/2/6

STATIONS AND FARMS FOR SALE.

CULLEN and WYNNE have for SALE some very fine PROPERTIES, all areas, all descriptions, all wishes of LAND, and prices. Here are a few to consider for SALE: A very cheap, compact, and nicely situated little FARM, of 47 acres only, ½ mile from post-office. All the above land is cleared and well improved. A few acres been ploughed. But the whole lot could be very nice. Cottage, 4 rms., kit., and bathroom, stable and shed, securely fenced, fowl runs, and the price is only £550. Very small deposit, balance easy.

WHAT ABOUT THIS FOR A CHEAP DAIRY FARM? 720 ACRES, in the famous Kangaroo Valley, [illegible] miles from factory and post office. The K. Valley river runs through the property; 200 acres of rich river flats, excellent for maize-growing, yield 80 bushels, balance of land hilly, but well grassed; from 70 to 100 cows can easily be milked on this fine property. House of 7 rooms, dairy, c. bails, hay shed, and stables. The farm is divided into 20 paddocks, and laid down chiefly with English grasses. The owner selling on account of old age. The price is only £4 per acre, on easy terms.

DAIRY FARM of 200 acres to lease, 3 years, with option of 2 more, at £55 per year, 100 acres netted in, well improved, nice Cottage, 4 rms., kit., bails, dairy, sheds, etc., 5 miles out. Price of stock and plant, £150.

56-ACRE FARM, suit dairy, etc., £800.
100-ACRE FARM, Mixed Farm, £400.
48-ACRE ORCHARD FARM, £400.

CALL ON OUR Mr. WYNNE TO-DAY, at Byers' Great Southern Hotel, between 12 a.m. and 4 p.m., and he will give you full particulars of terms, etc., of any of these farms.

DAIRY FARM ON PENRITH FLATS. 100 ACRES, mile stn., good creek, W.B. Cottage, 4 rms., brick dairy, bails, sheds, etc., 10 acres under oats, 20 good cows, 4 pigs, few fowls, 4 horses, carts, ploughs, scarifiers, harrows, harness, separator, and furniture. WALK IN WALK OUT, £[illegible]. Torrens.

THE DRAMA "STRUCK OIL."
Through the Portrayals of the Roles of John Stofel and his Daughter Lizzie, the play appeals not alone to the sense of the Humorous, but to the deepest feelings of Home-like Sympathy, while its Humour is simple and unaffected, its pathos is equally simple and True-hearted. One Chief Element in the Play's Great Prosperity is its Constant and Unvarying Purity. Not once in its long Career has an unfavourable Comment been made upon its Tone of Language, but its Moral Composition has always been praised.

THE MASTERPIECE OF SENSATION,
THE LEAP TO DEATH.

It is unutterably impossible to do justice by mere description to the Magnificent Incidents in this Film. It is unquestionably one of the richest in Sensation and Unique Episodes that has ever been screened.

THE DARING DIVE INTO MID-OCEAN.
THE LEAP TO DEATH.

This Film was staged by the firm who were responsible for that still popular masterpiece of sensation,
THE WRECK OF THE AURORA, and it is certain that their latest production is entirely worthy of its predecessor.
THE LEAP TO DEATH
is a somewhat original love story developed in a series of wholly original and eminently sensational situations. Constant change of background and of incident renders it a most fascinating picture, apart from its main theme, though the latter also is ingenious and thoroughly dramatic.

BOOK IV.

CHAPTER IV.

THREATS BETWEEN THE LINES.

Annibal de Braye was dead. He had been dead a week when the travellers landed in Europe. That mighty frame, so full of passionate life; that heart, at once fierce and childish, had passed to eternal stillness. His had been so dominating a personality, his presence had been of a vitality so immense, so rousing, so authoritative, that Ughtred's first sensation on hearing the news was a surprise almost amounting to incredulity. The telegram of evil tidings met them at Naples, on the day after the funeral at Overbecq; and Ughtred instantly decided to take his wife straight home to Honor Maxwell.

M. Vaucelin met them at Calais, quite openly and garrulously tearful, with the melancholy pomp of the ceremony still graven about him. In the dim chapel, under the gleam of the old solemn windows, they had laid him; his dust would mingle fitly with his "Moult noble, moult puissant" forbears.

Annibal de Braye was the last of a great line. The younger branch of Kleenebecq could scarcely claim the same blood, certainly not the same spirit. Of the pure race none now but Solange.

In the large stiff bedroom of the Terminus at Calais, overlooking the harbour, Solange and Vaucelin sat opposite each other, upon the two walnut beds, with the simplicity of their race, while Ughtred, apart, watched them, feeling all at once so immeasurably distant from them both and from the whole situation that it was almost as if another sphere held him. The details were mercifully scant. Annibal had been struck down as by a blow from a mace, and had expired in a few days without recovering consciousness.

"I should never have consoled myself if I had not been there," the good-natured Vaucelin declared. "And yet what could I do? I held that poor cold hand, but, God knows, he was already very far. Ah, I had written to you. Had I not reason to be anxious?"

"And I wrote to him," answered Solange, "and he never received my letter. Oh, poor Uncle, it would have made him so happy."

Tears ran down her cheeks as she spoke; easy, tender tears, like her grief, which was full of love and truth, yet left the deep inner content of her heart undisturbed.

Vaucelin gave a start that set him dancing on the springs of the narrow white bed. He clasped his hands in a spasm of woe-stricken intuition.

"Ah, ciel," he exclaimed, "is it indeed so? Heaven is cruel, my child. Ce pauvre ami . . . and it was all his desire. Ah, if he could have held your little one in his arms. No, I cannot resign myself."

But Solange had a smile through her tears. The sweetness of her hopes welled up even through the bitterness of this moment. Ughtred turned abruptly to look out, unseeingly, over the white glass roofs of the station upon the green waters and the great parapets of the harbour.

Marriage, birth, death—all these primal events of humanity, Solange took them with a large, unquestioning simplicity. His own analytic, unquiet spirit was far from such acceptance. The emotion common to life he had always dreaded.

The marriage that had been thrust upon him, the existence that was to spring from it, seemed still to him mysteries so fraught with possible tragedy that he shrank from gazing deep into them. And now, in this rush of natural experience, he was brought face to face with the fact of death. His vivid imagination pictured the scene he had not witnessed: the crashing fall of the mighty man, the awful inertness of that splendour of strength; the death-bed; the horrible journey with the coffin; the funeral. He saw both the chapels, one up in the north country, the other in the dreaming Flemish plain—those sanctuaries in which his soul had known such novel and tormenting moments—saw them black-draped, dim with incense vapour. He saw the catafalque and the yellow tapers, the garlands of flowers. In his nostrils rose those poignant vapours, associated now with the taint of death. Death! The darkness of it all was about him. He seemed to be under the shadow of its wings. As he stood, staring forth upon the sunny sky and dancing waters, the whole bright vision turned black before him, as if a pall had fallen. Bitten at the heart by an anguish that had no distinguishable shape, he glanced quickly at his wife.

She had flung herself back on the bed, leaning on her elbow, in an attitude that threw into relief the vigorous lines of her young figure. In spite of the journey's fatigue and of the anxiety that had accompanied it, in spite of the shock of grief, there was not a line upon her smooth, ripe face. The tears had not dried upon her cheeks; but her eyes shone with an indomitable brilliance from under her stained eyelids.

"There is the very triumph of life!" he thought. And once again the unreasoning panic took his heart. "Life has you in its grip," John Gordon had written to him once. It was true. The horror, the cruelty, the hazard of life had fastened upon him. He was no longer only the unwilling victim of nature's purposes; he had become her servant. He had taken another's life and made of it what she would. Whither were they being hurled; how would it be with them both? Solange caught his wistful glance upon her and smiled. His heart grew warm—a second before so chilled. Was she not Nike? What could conquer Nike?

The lazy mood of sensuous content had fallen from him from the moment of her tidings at Assouan. The old self-torturing spirit had returned, but with this difference: the problem was no longer how he should endure his unchosen existence, but how it would fare with that other life laid into his charge with the most awful completeness of responsibility. Not only one like now?

M. Vaucelin slid off the bed, wiped his eyes, pocketed his handkerchief, and looked at his watch; then in a sudden bustle declared he had only just time to catch his Paris express.

"Don't move, my child. Take care of thyself. Take care of her, my friend!" He kissed her on both cheeks. "What a pearl, hein!" He wrung Ughtred's hand, hurried to the door and came back, exclaiming at his own stupidity. "Tut, tut! I lose my head in these emotions. I have a letter for you." He flung it on the bed. "From thy aunt, little one. She remains at Overbecq for a week. Sapristi, but I must hasten!"

The door was closed with a slam. Ughtred and Solange stared at the black-bordered letter; and then their eyes met, and it came upon the man, with a singular impression, that, in all the details Vaucelin had poured into their ears, in all Solange's questions, there had been no mention of Aglae.

For himself, the thought of her had haunted him often enough. Elusive she had ever been to him. Now the sense of that elusiveness was so intensified in his mind that he could not picture her, amid all those scenes of woe, with any substantiality. A faint shadow about the death-bed, a something in trailing widow's weeds, something without eyes, without face, slow-moving, kneeling beside the catafalque, dragging long misty crapes among the incense clouds! Never anything more. Was Aglae weeping, or—horrible suggestion—behind those films of mourning had she a secret smile? Or was she just . . . thinking?—Hecate, sitting alone in the deep caverns of her mysterious soul. He looked at the letter with repugnance.

"I am going to read it," said Solange in her brief accents. She took it up then as if it were a noxious thing that she was loath to touch. Then she met her husband's eye, flushed, and, with the jerk of the head familiar to her old defiant moods, tore open the envelope. Ughtred walked to the window again, anxious that she should not think him perturbed. He was, however, acutely conscious that the touch of that hand, even from a distance, was bound to be troublous to them both.

"Read."

Solange's voice was harsh. She came towards him and thrust the letter into his hand, avoiding his glance.

Then, in her turn, she moved away.

Vaguely he felt what this mutual shrinking from another's hurt meant for them both—what of separation, of doubt! But, as his eyes followed the lines of delicate writing, every thought became merged in one of boundless consternation.

"Dear child," wrote the Comtesse, "the catastrophe that has overwhelmed me touches you, I know, very keenly; but with what a difference! You are starting on life; I see all finished that meant life to me. You are now everything that I have left in the world. Have you room in your young happiness—ah! the sorrow could not kill that—for a creature so broken, so hopeless as myself? Let me come to you, at least for a little while, my children, till I can accustom myself to the empty desolation of my house. Do not be afraid of my tears, for when I look on you I will find smiles. Ta pauvre et vieille tante qui t'aime."

"But it is impossible!" exclaimed Ughtred.

IT IS CRIMINAL TO NEGLECT THE SKIN AND HAIR.

Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin trouble—mental because of disfiguration, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin, and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of Cuticura Ointment, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. 20 K, Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

"THE UNSEEN EYE."

Randolph Bedford's new four-act play, "The Unseen Eye," presented by Talbot, Ltd., at the Palace Theatre on Saturday night, revealed itself as a melodrama of stock-exchange and city life, possessing some new features of a minor character. Incidentally, the production seems to prove that no drama can be "Australian" that does not reproduce the characteristic colouring of settlement outback. At any rate, there is nothing in the new play that is essentially local except a clever perspective view of Flinders-street, and a beautiful painting of the lily-bearing ponds in Alexandria-avenue, Melbourne, both from the brush of Mr. Harry Grist; the story, the characters, and the action applying equally well to London, Johannesburg, or New York. A capital cast, headed by Miss Madge McIntosh, and Mr. George E. Bryant, gave vraisemblance to the complications of the plot, and the whole was warmly received by a crowded audience.

The title of the melodrama refers to one of the novel incidents of the story—a camera that is silently projected from the corner of a room, and, before swiftly disappearing into a recess, "flash-lights" any person who opens the safe door after its owner has set his burglar trap. "The Unseen Eye" worked smoothly, and delighted the house. A second up-to-date device showed a business man dictating a letter into a phonograph; and a phonograph which had been the only witness to a murder, registered, and subsequently repeated in the presence of the police, the conversation between the murderer and his victim before the fatal shot was fired. This second "unseen eye" is calculated to inspire awe in the great heart of the gallery during the present week, but on Saturday the effect was partially marred by two of the all-principals who fired off excited dialogue at one another over the head of the unprotesting machine. There are clever lines in the new play, various small-aprop-isms from a loquacious slavey who was afraid of being persecuted in the police court, and sewered for damages, convulsing the house; and there was an unexpected shout of laughter which quite startled the artists when the "slavey" remarked, "I'm a bit soft with him 'cause he's a emigrant." However, as a whole "The Unseen Eye" must be passed in as a useful melodrama, not calling for close analysis. The reception was cordial, and after all the principals had acknowledged the applause at the end of the evening, Mr. Bedford was called forward amidst enthusiasm. In a speech of thanks to all on the stage, the author recognised the generous encouragement of the audience as an incentive to better work in the future; and so the first performance upon any stage was brought to a happy termination.

The hero of the story is Eric Forbes, a straightforward young man of property, who has become a partner with the scheming Roderick Speed in a financial bank which has failed. Eric has also taken up a great parcel of shares in the same speculator's worthless "Blue Duck" mine. Mr. Gerald Kay Souper, who plays the part in a manly and engaging fashion, has a prettily-written comedy-scene in which Eric releases his sweetheart, Mabel Haughton, from her engagement. Miss Madge McIntosh showed admirably the stanch and tender nature of the girl in the refusal to part from her lover, and both here and in the defiance of the conspiring bank directors, both artists were strong. The best drawn character is that of Roderick Speed, the self-reliant, unscrupulous broker, and this was shown with an effect of vivid reality by Mr. George E. Bryant. He is seen first as the unprincipled man of affairs with a firm grasp of the turn of events—"Plenty will trust us. Some 30,000 fools are born every year, and only 3 per cent. of them die"—and then in a softened mood on the eve of "taking a long journey." "A man without a friend is a dead man!" he exclaims; and he unbosoms himself to two of his co-directors, Mr. Perney (a greyheaded nondescript, represented by Mr. John Howard), and Willie Primrose, a handsome young scapegrace nephew, portrayed with considerable truth and spirit in various stages of vinous exhilaration by Mr. Ronald Macleod. Speed hands each of these £500 from a bundle of bonds worth £50,000 deposited in the firm's safe. This takes place at 3 a.m., after a night out, in which another of the financial swindlers, Mr. Puffin, has shared. The lastnamed, completely fuddled, was vivified by the art of that experienced comedian, Mr. John Forde, who appeared as a well-dressed pillar of the church. The tipsy gravity with which he waved aside the youthful impertinences of Primrose, who apostrophised him as "Fido," was amusingly in character, though the comedy scene was too long drawn out.

The climax of the drama is led up to by a savage quarrel between Speed and his weak and shifty partner, John Proctor, a character played with some ability on purely melodramatic lines by Mr. Richard Bellairs. The first violent quarrel between the two partners was well carried out, Speed gaining the upper hand and nearly throttling the mutinous Proctor. Later, excitement is caused by burglars making an attempt upon the safe, but they retire, and it is Proctor who, after shooting Speed, reads the riddle of the lock, and—gets photographed for his pains. Suspicion is naturally, and ingeniously, fastened both upon Mabel's brother, a colourless character, which falls to Mr. Richard Kean, and upon Eric, whose coat Proctor was wearing when secretly snapshotted. Mabel faints upon recognising the coat, at which point Miss McIntosh executed a wonderfully neat stage-fall. Boarding-house life at breakfast time was so realistically suggested in the first act that the audience could almost smell the kidneys and bacon. Though the construction suffered through momentary conversations, so that the characters appeared and disappeared as if in dissolving views, there was plenty of clever low-comedy, the honours in which were carried off by Miss Mabel Russell's humorously talkative Eliza Squires, a slavey with a warrel for a husband "'ose 'eart is weak so as it 'urts 'im to work." Mr. Harry Halley caused laughter as the chicken-hearted one, and was left blacking the grate in a state of tearful subordination to his fiery little wife. Miss Maggie Knight, as the formidably discontented Mrs. Haughton, Miss Florence Leigh as a haughty charwoman (Mrs. Leghorn), Miss Margherita Bedford, a picturesque-looking crippled daughter, and Mr. Stuart Clyde as Morris, all won approval amongst the artists of a drama from which two or three characters could be advantageously cut out.

There will be a matinee of "The Unseen Eye" on Wednesday.

SPRING FLOWER SHOWS.

PETERSHAM.

Lady Chelmsford on Saturday opened the spring flower show of the Petersham District Horticultural Society, which was held in the local Town Hall.

Mr. J. J. Cohen, M.L.A., in welcoming Lady Chelmsford, expressed the regret of Petersham residents at the announcement of her departure from Australia. Few failed to appreciate the stimulus awakened by her ladyship through her kindly interest in such functions as that in which she was now taking part.

Lady Chelmsford said how sorry she was to be leaving the State in which there were so many things of absorbing interest. A cursory glance of the exhibits had impressed her with the value of the display. One of the things that she would much regret in the future was the loss of viewing many beautifully cultivated gardens about Sydney.

The principal prize-winners were:—Messrs. S. Griffiths, S. Huntingden, H. Gazzard, A. Davis, Chapman, G. Wakeford, J. R. Fowler, H. J. Caton, W. Tout, P. Davis, and R. Hume.

MOSMAN.

The annual spring show of the Mosman Arts, Horticultural, and Fanciers' Association was held in the local Town Hall on Saturday. The exhibition was opened by Colonel Ryrie, M.P., who said that from every point of view the exhibition was a pronounced success, and should be the means of stimulating those connected with it to further successes in the future.

The quality of the exhibits in both the open and the members' sections was generally regarded as being quite equal, even if not superior, to anything hitherto shown around Sydney. The sweet pea section was a particularly fine one, both in point of quality and in number of blooms. Competition was very keen, the winner securing the coveted position by only one point. The six blooms which obtained the champion prize were shown by Mrs. C. E. Kendall. The champion of the rose section, a splendid specimen of Ards Rover, was shown by Mr. L. H. Newman. In the carnation section the exhibits were very fine, the champion prize being awarded to S. Huntingden. One of the principal features of the show was the table decorations. In this section there were seven entrants, and the tables afforded a study in unique floral decoration. The judging was done by a ballot of the visitors, the result being that Mrs. Kendall secured first place, closely followed by Mrs. Henderson, for second.

SIR JOHN ROBERTSON FUND.

The hon. secretaries report that subscriptions are coming in freely to the above fund, and it is anticipated a satisfactory sum will be announced as a commencement at the first meeting of the executive committee, which is to be held at the Town Hall this afternoon, at 4.30 o'clock. The committee explains that the main use of the fund is to provide for the necessities of Sir John's five grand-daughters, who have the terrible affliction of being deaf and dumb.

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATRE ROYAL.

"Dorothy" drew a crowded audience at the Theatre Royal on Saturday, and no doubt will continue to do so until the farewell on Thursday night. There will be a final matinee on Wednesday.

"Ben Hur" will be produced next Saturday evening, the house remaining closed on Friday, when the great spectacular scenes will be shown with renewed splendour, and the original cast. The plan will open at Paling's to-morrow.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

The redecoration and improvement of Her Majesty's Theatre is advancing rapidly, and will be in readiness for the reopening on Saturday evening next with the Royal Comic Opera Company in "The Quaker Girl." To-morrow the plan will open at Paling's.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" drew a packed house on Saturday at the Criterion Theatre, where the final matinee performance by the American-Australian Company will take place on Wednesday, with the farewell Thursday night. Miss Beatrice Holloway has for some time past been playing the part of the typist with much acceptance, owing to the regretted indisposition of Miss Josephine Cohan.

"STRUCK OIL" AT THE CRITERION.

Maggie Moore and H. R. Roberts will open a season of fun and laughter at the Criterion Theatre next Saturday evening, when "Struck Oil" will be revived with the favourite comedienne in her original creation as Lizzie (with songs), and Mr. Roberts as John Stafel. The plan will open at Paling's to-morrow morning.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

A fine audience assembled at the Adelphi Theatre on Saturday night to witness "The Girl Who Took the Wrong Turning," of which only five more performances will now be given. On Saturday next the American mining drama, "At Cripple Creek," will be put up with Miss Ethel Buckley in the central character.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

An attractive programme was presented on Saturday at the Tivoli, where several new artists made their appearance. Burns and Bentley were enthusiastically applauded at their debut in a brilliant dancing turn, while an amusing as well as clever performance was that of Claude Leplastrier, whose lightning sketches in colour caused one to regret that he did not remain longer upon the stage. Count McDonald, a new Scotch comedian and dancer, also appeared successfully. Nella Webb was as entertaining as ever, her songs being given with ability, while the juggling feats of Mozzetto were performed with all his usual deftness. Welch and Carbasse appeared in a new sketch, while D'Arc's Marionettes created immense amusement. Vaude and Verne, Alberto Marini, Crawford and Howarde, and others were also well received.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

The opening appearance of Aubrey Mollolieu and Company at the National on Saturday was a pronounced success. The turn consisted of a sparkling comedietta, something like a burlesque on Tennyson's poem, "Enoch Arden," in which a shrewish wife, whose husband is believed to have been drowned at sea, marries again. The lost husband, however, turns up again, showing no anxiety to claim his wife, whom his successor is by this time only too ready to yield to him. The humour of the situation may be imagined. Another excellent new turn was that of the Bartz Trio, acrobats and wire-walkers, whose performances were remarkably clever, and elicited hearty applause. The Vantylls, also a first appearance, Phillips and Merritt, Elsie M'Guire, Athos and Read, and many others contributed successfully to a strong programme.

WEST'S PICTURES.

The star feature at the Olympia and Glaciarium Theatres on Saturday night was a sensational drama, "The Leap to Death." The film was staged by the company which produced "The Wreck of the Aurora," another popular sensation. The love story running through the plot was original, and the audience was kept in a continual state of excitement at the many sensational episodes, culminating in a daring leap into the ocean. A number of dramatic, comic, and scenic films were also shown. Appropriate music was tendered by De Groen's orchestra.

MOUNT LYELL DISASTER BENEFIT.

The management of West's Pictures held a benefit entertainment for the widows and orphans of the Lyell disaster at the Glaciarium Theatre last night. A large number of people attended the performance. Among the films shown were "Abraham's Sacrifice" (drama), "The Tyrant of Jerusalem" (drama), "David and Goliath" (drama). De Groen's Vice-regal Orchestra was in attendance, under the baton of Mr. L. De Groen, and during the evening rendered the overture to "Tannhauser" (Wagner), Entr'Acte from "Lohengrin" (Wagner), and "The Smithy in the Wood" (Michaelis).

SPENCER'S PICTURES.

At Spencer's Lyceum Theatre, Pitt-street, on Saturday the principal attraction was the vitagraph film "The Money Kings, or a Mission of Diplomacy," a drama illustrating the methods of some Wall-street operators. It shows how Wall-street was beaten at its own game by a quick-witted girl and a daring aviator in his hydroplane. A film of considerable local interest was the opening of the Prince Alfred Yacht Club. A drama, "The Rock of Ages," was also shown. Incidental music was provided by the Lyceum orchestra.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

The star film at the Crystal Palace Theatre to-day will be the story of a celebrated Oriental poisoner, "Doctor Gar-el-Hama." The film is by the Nordisk Company and is the sequel to "A Dead Man's Child." The tale is a series of thrilling episodes and startling escapes. Other films include "The Inner Circle" (drama), "Seeing Each Other Home" (comic), and "O, My Pipe" (comic).

THE J. D. WILLIAMS THEATRES.

At the Lyric Theatre to-day the principal item will be "Legitimate Defence," the story of a struggle of woman versus woman. The Colonial Theatre will screen "In Spite of All." A young man two days before he attains the age of 25 finds that in order to inherit a legacy he must be married within 48 hours. It is an amusing play, of the "Brewster's Millions" type. The star feature at the Empress Theatre will be "A Head for a Head," a drama. Other films include "After Many Days" (Edison drama) and "The Wandering Musician" (Kalem drama).

VAUDEVILLE AT THE PRINCESS.

Con Moreni, an Australian comedian, Ella Airlie, lady monologuist, the Acrobatic Brooklyns, Keldine and Klimo, cyclists, and a good list of vaudeville supporters in comedy, singing, and dancing, made appearances at the Railway Princess Theatre on Saturday. The entertainment was well up to the standard of past presentations.

THE AUSTRALIAN PICTURES.

The title of the Oxford-street Empire Picture Palace has been altered to that of the Australian Palace. On Saturday the continuous programmes of cinematographs were well patronised. Such subjects as "The Romance of the West," "A Conspiracy against Murat" (historical), "The Franco-Prussian War" (historical), "Robin's Doctor," "The Invisible Cyclist," and "Love Unconquerable," found much favour with the various audiences.

THE GRAND'S PICTURES.

The popularity of the programmes at the Grand Theatre in Pitt-street is now assured. Each week a greater variety of amusement seekers patronise the entertainment. The attractions early this week comprise such pictorial subjects as "Robin Hood," "A Child's Remorse," "An Intelligent Camera, and an Italian panoramic film, "Between Lakes and Mountains." From Thursday to Saturday the change of programme will be marked by the production of "A Prisoner of the Harem," "The Story of Montana," and "P. C. Hawkseye—Sportsman."

THE AMERICAN'S SHOW.

Patrons of the American Picture Show will this week be provided with excellent picture pabulum in the screening of "The Trust," "The Shadow on the Blind" (a comic subject), "Her Convict Brother," "Soldier Brother of Susannah," "His Father's Bugle," and "The Cowboy's Adopted Child."

VICTORIA PICTURE THEATRE.

"Passing Sorrow," "The Serpent," and "The Land of Death," represent the star cinematograph subjects to be exhibited at the Pitt-street Victoria during this week. To-night, also, the most interesting incident of Saturday's races at Canterbury will be screened.

TINY TOWN.

Before leaving for South Africa the players in Tiny Town will appear at the Town Hall to-day and to-morrow. The circus acts won them general applause on Saturday evening. Mr. Alfonso repeated his feats of strength, and renewed his challenge to meet any man under 30 inches high. Hazali Hassid won recalls for his quaint songs, and the Hungarian and Tyrolean dances were very popular. The midget bride's trousseau was a subject of interest to the ladies.

MR. PAUL WHITE'S RECITAL.

The pupils of Mr. Paul White gave an entertainment in the Standard Theatre on Saturday evening. Mr. Paul White appeared in the title role in a scene from "Eugene Aram," with Miss Lily Bloomfield as Madeline. The lines in the dream were told with much dramatic force. Mr. J. Toomey (Brutus) and Mr. Joyce (Marc Antony) delivered the speeches in the forum scene from "Julius Caesar." Other contributors to the programme were Madame Asher, the Misses Asher, Miss Edwards, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Anlezark, Mr. Clark Nixon, Miss White, and Master Len Tunbridge. The second portion of the programme consisted of a short comedy, "Waiting for a Tram," which was brightly played.

ORGAN RECITAL AT TOWN HALL.

An organ recital was held in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon, the city organist, Mr. Ernest Truman, presiding at the organ. The whole of the programme submitted was "by request." The following items were rendered:—Overture, "Rienzi" (Wagner); Largo in "G" (Handel); Aufforderung Zum Tanz (Weber); Nocturne in G Minor (Chopin); Ave Maria (May Summerbell), and "1812" Overture (Tschaikovski).

PHOTOPLAY IN NEW ZEALAND.

Mr. J. D. Williams returned to Sydney by the Maheno on Saturday, after a visit to New Zealand, in the interest of photoplay enterprise. A photo. theatre was established by Mr. Williams in Wellington, which will, it is said, be the forerunner of others in various other cities of the Dominion. The New Zealand enterprise will be directed by the J. D. Williams' New Zealand Amusement Co., Ltd.

PARRAMATTA DISTRICT.

THE PROPOSED WEIR.

Mr. T. R. Moxham, M.P., has been informed by the Public Works Department in connection with the proposed weir over the Parramatta River at Harris-street, that steps are being taken to obtain indemnities from the owners of riparian lands, whose frontages will be affected by the proposed weir, and until these indemnities have been obtained, nothing can be done in the matter.

NURSES' QUARTERS.

The Under-Secretary, Chief Secretary's office, has forwarded to the committee of the Parramatta District Hospital, for approval plans for the proposed new nurses' quarters. The estimated cost of a building to accommodate 20 nurses is £4000, and for nine nurses £2000. The Hospital Committee is anxious to provide additional accommodation in order to increase the nursing staff, so as to give them the benefit of the eight-hour principle.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The annual spring show of the Parramatta Horticultural Society was held last week. The display was an excellent one. The roses and carnations were uniformly better than was expected.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

ARGENTINA'S EXAMPLE.

The news we published on Saturday from Argentina is worth the attention of the authorities, for there is an example in one direction at least which might be followed with profit. Our great competitor, wiser than our rulers, is taking steps to introduce the elevator system for handling wheat. Assuredly the arguments that apply in that country apply here, although our crop is smaller. The advantages and saving will be the same on a proportionate scale, and while our competitors enjoy the benefit of such a system, and our producers do not, so much are the latter penalised. Seeing that we compete in the same markets, both countries being exporters, it is manifestly unwise that we should lag behind as regards modern conveniences. That the present system of handling wheat is wasteful and unsatisfactory is undeniable. No one with any practical knowledge of conditions could assert otherwise. The producers realise this bitterly enough, and have fought for reform for many years. The Department of Agriculture realises it, and also realises that wheat-growing will never attain its proper position while we adhere to the present system of buying and handling.

But reform is opposed by the railway authorities, apparently influenced by an inherent conservatism that dislikes a change from the old routine, and some shippers and millers because they have a good thing on now with the present system. They get the bags in, and the working of the f.a.q. system gives them an advantage in shipping. They can mix up the good wheats (which they have generally bought at f.a.q. prices) with the inferior wheats they have purchased at a discount, and sell up to the f.a.q. standard. We have been told by authorities on the other side that we are sending shiploads of wheat over the standard to Britain, and getting nothing for it. That is certainly not a business proposition, and certainly not fair to the growers, the industry, or the State. Introduction of the elevator system, or some modification of it to allow the grading of wheats, would entirely alter this position and encourage the growing of better wheat in a cleaner and better way. The Government should follow the example of the Argentine Government in this matter of wheat handling and transport, just as our stock cattle breeders should follow the example of Argentine breeders and secure pure bred stock of the quality referred to in our letter from that country. Both in the wheat and beef export trade we are competitors with Argentina, and cannot afford to give her any advantages.

The matter has been discussed long enough, but we get no further. According to the evidence given before the Victorian Royal Commission appointed to inquire into this matter of handling wheat in bulk, the Government of this State is in favour of the system. If that is so, it is time that some practical step was taken to introduce the reform. It would be of far greater value to the country than most of the actions of the Government, which have engaged so much time and money during its existence. If, as stated, the estimated cost of making this important alteration would be covered by £500,000, it is lamentable that delay should succeed delay. Compared with the enormous annual saving to the grower in not having to purchase bags, and the money that is at present represented in waste and spoilt grain, the sum is insignificant. In this respect the method proposed by Mr. P. Metzler, which has been already explained in these columns, is worth the attention of the authorities. The system proposed would obviate the use of bags and the waste of grain, and generally facilitate handling. To us it appears practical, and it would at least be interesting to hear what the objections are to the use of these cylinders. They should be well adaptable to work in connection with the elevators, when the latter are introduced, and, in the meantime, would in themselves appear to be an economical improvement upon the present system, which involves the use of bags.

RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION.

The departmental explanation of the extraordinary position in connection with the Wagga-Tumbarumba railway will not afford much satisfaction to the producers concerned, or to anyone else. The roadbed has been constructed for the first section, as we have already pointed out, but instead of the work of laying the rails being proceeded with at high speed, the men have been taken away to the other end of the route. Consequently there does not appear much chance of the first section being available to shift the coming crop, although this was [illegible] promised, and on that promise men turned up new land and put in their crops. Further, the work of construction has been made more expensive, because this section could not be finished right away. Stores and material have to be carted by road instead of being carried by rail up to the workers as the work goes on. The explanation is that sleepers cannot be obtained. It is an explanation that does not reflect credit upon the management of the enterprise or the present system of building railroads. It suggests the want of foresight and provision that is only too often associated with Government works, where the contract system is abandoned. When the contractor is responsible the department sees that he obtains sleepers, or makes him pay for delay.

Apart from the local incidence, this development does not look promising as regards the prodigal railway policy of the Government. Lines have been promised in different districts and large sums of money, if they can be obtained, are to be devoted, so we are told, to urgent railway construction. There is no question about the necessity for construction. But if sleepers cannot be obtained in time for the Tumbarumba line, to avoid delay and increased cost of construction, how are they going to be obtained for the numerous railway lines that are promised? Will there be again the same delay, the same disappointment and loss to the men on the land? The position would be farcical if it were not so serious. To be without railways is serious enough, but to have the promise of them, and to see them commenced and then delayed, as in the case referred to, is infinitely worse. Men are then induced to clear and cultivate their land only to be faced with the prospect of being unable to shift their crop, or at unreasonable expense. If the Minister for Works wishes to preserve any shred of respect for his policy, he will see, by hook or crook, that the position is altered and the first section of the Tumbarumba line completed before the end of the year. If not, the men on the land will have little faith in his railway policy.

STOCK DISEASE.

CHARGE OF IMPORTATION.

John Taylor writes:—It being freely [illegible] known in Melbourne that in connection with a certain projected [illegible] a large number of horses [illegible] being brought to Australia from America, the question naturally arises, "Why [illegible] Customs Department 'winking the [illegible] eye' in this particular case?" [illegible] announced that these horses are to be landed at Sydney direct from America, a country infested with glanders and other diseases against which our Quarantine Act [illegible] and that not even a period of [illegible] is to be insisted upon. As [illegible] Australian horses that have been taken to India have, time after time, been refused admission to this country, so it seems, if all reports are true, that an unpardonable something in the nature of [illegible] is about to be perpetrated that may have the most serious results as regards the stock of this fair country.

Interviewed on Saturday regarding the [illegible] matter, Mr. Symons, [illegible] said, "It is true that we were [illegible] by certain interest in Sydney with regard to the introduction of horses from America, but nothing decisive has yet been done. It may be pointed out that, if such action is taken, it is not in contravention of our regulations under the Quarantine Act. Horses are permissible for introduction from the United States and Canada, but only under very rigid restrictions. They have to be duly examined and certified as free from disease, in addition to which they must undergo testing with mallein, to discover whether they are free from glanders, as well as the usual quarantine period of 28 days on arrival here, and are then subject to further tests, including a second mallein test.

With these restrictions, there is little probability of introducing any disease, especially as the horses are of such class and value. In regard to the East, stock of all kinds are prohibited, because there are a number of diseases which it is thought they might introduce.

"I object very much," added Mr. Symons, "to the note of insinuation in Mr. Taylor's letter that some 'job' is being attempted. The law of the country provides for such animals being introduced under proper regulations, and unless those regulations are enforced they do not come in. The authorities are quite as alive to the health and interests of stock in New South Wales as Mr. Taylor."

BITTER PIT.

(BY C. G. T.)

That the commission investigating this disease recently in Victoria endeavoured strenuously to arrive at some reasonable solution of the cause appears clear. Volumes of data have been collected, and numerous experiments carried out. But no really definite conclusion has been come to, and Mr. M'Alpine himself has practically admitted that we are no nearer a solution than ever. Still, an immense amount of good has been done in so far that many byways have been explored, and to this extent we know where not to look for the cause. At the outset it was thought that spraying with arsenates might be the cause, but Dr. Galloway, chief of the Plant Bureau of Washington, has written to say that the disease was known in America long before spraying was initiated.

The writer remembers in New Zealand over 30 years ago seeing a sort of rara avis specimen of codling moth. Then spraying had not been thought of. But bitter pit was rife. In fact, this woolly blight and powdery mildew were about the only really serious plagues on the apple. Mr. M'Alpine states positively that the disease is not due to spraying, insects, fungi, or bacteria, but is an internal disease due solely to internal causes. By this he probably means some constitutional weakness of tissue. He had this in view at the outset, for one of his experiments consisted in puncturing the skin with a needle in order to find out if this would form a pit. But, clearly, this alone could not be the cause, because any healthy tissue would heal unless some bacteria entered the wound. The mere mechanical rupture of the cells would not do it. Still, this may be coming nearer the solution than any of the other experiments, because it may lead experimenters to look for the solution in a weakness of the cell walls, and the following remarks are offered as a contribution.

Charles Darwin's exhaustive experiments proved very conclusively that disuse tends to atrophy. In the ordinary course of plant propagation the seed is used in each generation. Hence the cells of the seed, and especially those of the testa, or seed coat, are kept in a constant state of healthy renewal and regeneration. But in the case of the apple no such renewal occurs, and atrophy sets in. Instead of seed regeneration we have renewal by grafts or buds generation after generation. To say that the seed rots in the fruit would not be technically correct, because rotting presupposes bacterial action. But the cells possibly collapse and throw off a poison, for it seems clear that bitter pit is a poison. What would give colour to this theory would be the liability of the older varieties, that is, the varieties that have been grafted or budded, for the greatest number of generations, taking pit. But in this connection the Mendelian principle would require to be kept in view, in order to determine the influence of ancestors in connection with susceptibility, because it must be borne in mind that we would be looking for a constitutional weakness, and not disease.

A chemical analysis and comparison of the pits from the least susceptible varieties, as against those of the most susceptible, might throw some light on the subject. Old pomologists will probably confirm the belief that the disease is becoming worse. That is, it seems to permeate the tissues more than it did many years ago. This tends still further to encourage the poison theory. The chemist's services were enlisted in regard to the arsenate poison theory, and it would be interesting to have his opinion as to whether there is not another form of poison at work. On the other hand, it may be the absence of some element necessary to the wellbeing of the seed tissues. So far the search has been chiefly for bacterial causes, but search for a poison might possibly be profitable. A single instance will illustrate the difference: Anthrax (bacillus anthracis) is a vegetable substance, and reproduces in the animal tissues. Arsenic is a mineral poison, but both have equally deadly results when they get properly to work.

THE NORTHERN WHEAT CROP.

BENEFIT OF HEAVY RAINS.

The generous falls of rain during last week over the northern wheat belt have been of inestimable value. This district was the worst sufferer through the dry spell and hot winds, but has been treated most liberally in the recent rains. The north-west, where little hope was previously held of a crop of more than six or seven bushels per acre, has had the biggest share. Gunnedah received 237 points, and Boggabri 206 during the week, while in the north Tamworth had 125, Manilla 206, and Quirindi 112. These falls might not, of course, do much for the early wheats, most of which were too advanced, but the rain must have a stimulating effect on the late crops—and many of them are late this year. The rain did not fall heavily, as in thunderstorms, but was spread over two or three days, thus obviating any waste. Every drop soaked into the thirsty soil. Present indications point to the likelihood of a fairly good crop at Tamworth, probably 15 bushels, and Quirindi will not be far behind that. Manilla has, of course, been hard hit, and unless a truly wonderful change is worked by the last week's rain no more than a one-third crop can be expected. However, a timely fall of rain like that of last week, followed by cool, cloudy weather, might have a more far-reaching effect than is expected, even in the north-west. There is certainly a more hopeful feeling prevailing amongst farmers and others interested in the Gunnedah and Boggabri districts.

MINERS' WATER RIGHTS.

Dr. H. S. Maw, Tumbarumba, writes:—I notice that the present Government intends to introduce a new or amended Mining Act. I trust that in so doing it will exclude one very grave defect in the present Act, that is, that clauses giving the miners prior right to practically the whole of the water in our streams and rivers, which right, moreover, is expressly upheld in the Water Rights Act. I live in an old alluvial mining district, where practically the whole of the waters of our streams and watercourses are held as mining tenements under miners' rights only, and this although mining has now become a very secondary industry in the district, as compared with farming, dairying, and closer cultivation of all sorts, industries which are bound to progress in the future. There are, I believe, over 300 mining tenements in this mining district practically abandoned, many of them water rights, to which it is open to any miner holding a miner's right to lay claim. This is one of the best watered districts in the State, yet at times water is sadly needed for irrigation, and the small farmer has then to beg, borrow, or steal water from such mining races as may serve his land.

The mining men I have spoken to on this question are agreed that it is not fair and not necessary that the miners should have a monopoly of the water, at any rate during the summer months. In a dry summer, when the crops are crying for moisture, there is insufficient water as a rule for mining; yet the agriculturist can only have such water as there than is on sufferance, and can obtain no title to a race, indeed, can construct no race (unless water is obtainable on his own land) without the consent of adjoining landholders. This is a most unsatisfactory condition of the law.

There is plenty of land in this district, of which the value would be easily quadrupled were it served by a systematic scheme of irrigation; and such a scheme could be easily evolved were it not for the [illegible] clause in the present Mining Act and its [illegible] in the Water Rights Act. At the present time it is open to any [illegible] to take water for mining purposes [illegible] natural watercourse, [illegible] land [illegible] spent money [illegible] dams [illegible] owner [illegible] Parliament. [illegible] streams should [illegible] the miners' monopoly [illegible] modified by securing [illegible] privileges in a more equitable [illegible].

Local water boards under [illegible] should be established, [illegible] appointed to deal with the [illegible] boards should have control of all water in streams and rivers, and also power to construct works both [illegible] with power to levy rates [illegible] water supplied. A preliminary loan [illegible] Government would, of course, be [illegible] but in this way only [illegible] problem be fully solved, as the waste of water in these streams during the winter months is appalling; and this waste can never be prevented as things now are, the necessary works being far too expensive for the private individual, even were his rights sufficiently protected. With proper storage dams there would be enough water in this district not only for the landholder, but for the miner also, the whole year round.

If this solution be premature, legislation should at once be passed, giving the landholder exactly the same rights to the water as the miner now holds, with the right of access, and of construction of races through intervening lands; though in most cases (I regret to say) such legislation would come too late, as the right to almost all, if not all, the waters of this district, at any rate, is now held by perhaps half a dozen mining men; yet the gross returns from their industry in this district last year was, I believe, only £2500. That is to say, the whole of the running waters of this district, which, properly applied, would certainly double, and even quadruple, the production from many thousands of acres of land—and this without detriment to the miner—is now handed over to some half-dozen or dozen gentlemen, who pay exactly five shillings a year into the exchequer of the country for the privilege, and who are busily engaged in washing away acres of excellent soil, for the insignificant gross return stated above.

NEGLECTED ORCHARDS.

Only a few years back the number of neglected orchards in the Central Cumberland district were numerous, but, thanks to Mr. S. Moore and his staff of orchard inspectors, the number is now limited. Still there are a few. Possibly one caught the eye of an interested delegate to the Fruitgrowers' Conference on Thursday, when the delegates were taken for a motor picnic through the citrus country. Speaking at the luncheon at Galston, Mr. Philp, a Queensland delegate, slyly referred to the fact. He said that one of the great troubles in the older districts was the large number of trees which might well be burned. Not only did this refer to New South Wales, but also to the other States. Still, he said, all honour to the pioneers who planted those trees. But America was hunting the world over for things that were old, even to castles. Some districts had a great many relics—old relics—and if they advertised them and disposed of them to profit, it would be a good thing for the district.

The delegates, shortly after this speech, visited Mr. Knight's orchard, where they saw a sight worth seeing—fine old trees, well kept, and loaded with the famous old Parramatta orange. Tasting the fruit, they declared it to be the finest they had ever tasted, and they were a bit surprised when Mr. Inspector Moore, in answer to a query, informed them that the trees were over 40 years old. And they looked good enough for another 40 years.

SUGAR BEET FIELDS.

HOW TO OBTAIN THE BONUS.

MELBOURNE.—Referring to the statements made on Thursday by Mr. Tudor, the Minister for Customs, that higher wages would have to be paid in the sugar beet fields at Boisdale, if the Federal bonus was to be successfully claimed, the Minister for Agriculture said that it would be easy to comply with the Commonwealth Minister's wish. A fair rate an acre was paid, and if Mr. Tudor insisted that every man should earn eight shillings at least a day there would be nothing left to do but to dismiss those who would not make that amount.

AUSTRALIAN FRUIT IN LONDON.

MELBOURNE.—At the Australian Fruitgrowers' Conference in Sydney on Tuesday the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Trefle) said that the different States might well appoint a man in London to inspect fruit on arrival, and watch its handling and sale. The Victorian Minister for Agriculture stated to-day that he would be pleased to fall into line with the efforts of the other States in the direction indicated.

FRUITGROWERS' CONFERENCE.

RICHMOND.—The Fruitgrowers' Conference visited the Hawkesbury College on Friday, about 40 delegates attending. The principal (Mr. Potts) welcomed them, and afterwards showed them around the various departments of the extensive institution. At the luncheon the president (Mr. Neil), in eulogising the principal for his courtesy and interesting explanations to the delegates, expressed the opinion that it was almost impossible to find men so full of the requisite knowledge to control such an institution so successfully as Mr. Potts.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

LIVERPOOL.—The committee of the Liverpool A. H., and I. Society is busily engaged arranging matters in connection with the holding of the next annual show, which takes place on Friday and Saturday, February 14 and 15, 1913. The schedule has been revised, and some of the sections have been amended to admit of increased prize-money. The certificates received by the secretary, as a result of the recent examination of stallions, have been forwarded to the successful owners, Mr. F. Franklin, Mr. W. Nicholl, Messrs. Cox and Collins, and Drinan Brothers.

PASTURES BOARDS.

MOLONG.—At the Pastoral Protection Board the inspector reported good growths of grass all over the district. An increase of rabbits was apparent in many instances. The number of crows killed during two months was 1784; foxes, 47; native dogs, 4. The matter of the prohibition of crop-eared sheep from Victoria, suggested by the Goulburn P.P. Board, was not dealt with, as it was considered not of sufficient importance.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BOWRAVILLE.—The district has greatly benefited by the rains, which extended over four days, during which over 2 inches fell. Farmers are now busy completing preparations for sowing maize. Mr. John Halsted, Superintendent of the School of Agriculture, is visiting the Nambucca schools.

COONAMBLE.—Settlers in Yoie Munna Munna, and Beanbah Bore trust districts are greatly disappointed at the action of the department in not having drains constructed to convey water. Mr. Griffith, Minister for Works, interviewed in Sydney, stated that instructions would be given to the officer in charge to have the work proceeded with immediately. In reply to a request from the municipal council as to the best means of dealing with a serious leak in the Coonamble No. 2 bore, the Works Department intimated that two courses could be adopted. One was to replace some of the casing, which would be an expensive operation, and the other to remove the existing closing for a year, run the water into an excavated tank, and pump it into an elevated tank. The department asked before proceeding further in the matter would the council favour the proposal to sink a new bore. The council decided that when the necessity arises for a definite course to be taken a new bore be put down.

DUBBO.—Mr. S. M. Cummins, Dubbo district roads engineer, has returned from a 600 miles tour of the country towards Mossgiel, south-west, across country to Tilpa, then to the Darling and Louth, into Cobar, and then across to Bourke. The object of his journey was to arrange for a start with the set of nine tanks designed as a system of watering for the cross-country stock route, and which will form a feeder to the railway to Broken Hill, whether it goes by the Cobar to Wilcannia route or from Condobolin. Whichever of these lines is built the tanks will be of benefit to it; in fact, this scheme of watering will be of incalculable service to the whole of the country lying between the Bogan and the Darling. Tenders have been accepted for two of these tanks, which will, as a general thing, be constructed at intervals of about 15 miles. Tenders for two more are being invited, and it is estimated that the whole scheme will be completed in about 12 months' time. The cost of the whole of the work is expected to be about £12,000. The project was actually decided upon about three years ago, and the money appropriated for the purpose, but it lapsed for the time being owing to the difficulty in securing tenders. It is understood, however, that this difficulty has been overcome, and the work is now being pushed on.

TENTERFIELD.—The members of the Agricultural Society tendered a social to their patron, Mr. W. T. Cadell, of Deepwater station, and presented him with an address and a [illegible] watch.

LISMORE.—The entries for the Lismore Show on November 6, 7, and 8 total 3187, being an increase of over 300 on the previous [illegible].

FARMERS IN THE MAKING.

A VISIT TO SCHEYVILLE.

GOVERNMENT TRAINING FARM.

DEMAND GREATER THAN THE SUPPLY.

You might well have mistaken him for an Australian—a typical Australian, from outback—with his rolled-up shirt sleeves and the red handkerchief round his neck, such as our bushmen wear. But he came out a little while ago as a steward on a Norddeutscher Lloyd steamer, and on Saturday he was making hay while the sun shone in Australia, up at Scheyville, near Pitt Town, on the Government Agricultural Training Farm. Also making hay beside him was an Austrian. There were others, too—lads from England and our own Australian boys.

There is no Anglophobia in the blood of this German at Scheyville. A British country is good enough for him, he says, and he's here to stay. And there's no bitter feeling against Germany on the part of the British lads, whether they come from London, or Manchester, or Sydney. There's a triple alliance up there which is worth encouraging, for it is going to make good Australians of them all. The work that is being done at this Government Farm—sometimes called the "Dreadnought Farm," for many of the boys are maintained there out of the "Dreadnought Fund"—deserves to be better known.

On Saturday, at the invitation of Mr. W. F. Schey, Director of Labour, a number of members of the New South Wales branch of the Institute of Journalists paid a visit to the farm, arriving there at 11 o'clock, and they had an opportunity of seeing the young farmers at work. The number of youths on the farm averages about 80, but sometimes there are considerably more, and most of them come from London, being sent out by the Central Unemployed Agency. Before they are allowed to sail, however, they are subjected to a rigid inspection by a representative of the New South Wales Government, and only about one in eight of those selected by the agency named are passed by the inspector. This explains why the visitors on Saturday were impressed with the lads on the farm, their fine physique, their healthy appearance, their manly bearing. They are all called "lads" on the farm, but some of them are getting well into manhood, their ages ranging from 16 to 20. Occasionally some who are older still find their way to the farm, anxious to get some training that will fit them for farm work.

GENESIS OF A NAME.

Scheyville is well named. The place has been made by Mr. Schey. It was a small thing when it came into his hands; he has made it a great thing. The demand for boys from this Government training ground is far greater than the supply—often ten times greater, the director told the visitors on Saturday—and, though they are paid no wages during the two or three months they are on the farm, they command good wages immediately they leave. In the last five years 1250 lads have passed through the hands of the instructors and gone forth to earn their living. Two-thirds of them have gone to the Richmond River district, where the farmers are progressive and up to date, and to-day many of them are working on the shares system, and doing well. "I met one of the boys up that way a little while ago," said Mr. Greer, the manager, on Saturday, "and he showed me his month's cheque for £38. His own share of that, after paying for labour, was £14."

Counting the manager and his family, the overseers and their families, and the 30 odd men who are working on the farm in various capacities and instructing the boys, there are close on 150 souls living in Scheyville. It is a little village in itself, and even has its own post-office—perhaps the smallest post-office in all Australia, a little red-painted office about 6ft square. It was the setting up of this post-office that gave the place a name. Letters could no longer be addressed to Windsor or Mulgrave; they had to be addressed "to Scheyville," the people said with one voice. And Scheyville it was. Mr. Schey protested that the name was not euphonious, and had nothing else to recommend it; but the will of the people prevailed. The compliment, it may be said, was one that was well deserved.

FIVE YEARS' PROGRESS.

It is but five years since the training of city lads as farmers was begun here. Commencing with a small dormitory to accommodate 12 boys, and carried on as an adjunct to what was then known as the casual labour farm, the work has expanded so rapidly that now the 2150 acres are used exclusively for the training of boys for farming life. Much of it is under cultivation. Up to the end of 1910 accommodation was provided for only about 25 lads at a time, but during the later months of that year the trustees of the "Dreadnought" Fund entered into an agreement with the Government to bring out British lads between the ages of 16 and 19, of good character and physique, at a rate of about 20 every fortnight, and to pay the Government £5 for each one sent to the training farm. Increased accommodation had then to be provided, and it is now ample for a hundred at [illegible] time. The first "Dreadnought" lads, numbering 12, arrived in April of last year, and were followed by 27 others the following June; and since then they have continued to come, though there has, unfortunately, been a falling off latterly in the number expected. A bonus of £2 is given to each of the "Dreadnought" boys on leaving the farm.

The lads are well housed and well fed. Everything possible is done to make them happy and contented. They rise at 6, work is over at 5.30, and lights are out at 9.30. The day's work consists of eight hours, except on Saturday, when the boys finish at 12 o'clock. Besides outdoor sports, indoor amusements are provided. In the library and reading-room books, magazines, and newspapers are to be found. One of the books is called "Self-help a Hundred Years Ago." There is a good opportunity for one of the boys to write a book on "Self-help To-day." There is another book called "The Scallywag" (Grant Allen). One of Mr. Schey's boys took this down one evening, glanced at the title, said, "Not for me, thank you," and put it back. No scallywags at Scheyville!

The visitors to the farm on Saturday were greatly impressed with all that they saw. Mr. T. W. Heney, president of the Institute of Journalists, and Mr. T. R. Roydhouse, who took a leading part in the "Dreadnought" movement which has now become so closely identified with this great training farm, congratulated Mr. Schey on the success that has attended his efforts, and thanked him for his hospitality. The ladies of Scheyville were also thanked for providing lunch and afternoon tea.

HEADACHES, INDIGESTION, AND BILIOUSNESS.

Tongue was Furred and Appetite Poor.

Disordered Stomach Cured by Bile Beans.

Mrs. Margaret Miller, of 142 Harrington-street, Hobart, Tasmania, says:—"Headaches, indigestion, Biliousness, and vomiting fits reduced me to an awful condition, and made my life a misery. The vomiting bouts made me so weak that I could not get about, and would have to lay up for some time after. My tongue was furred, and my stomach deranged, and in a very bad condition, while my appetite faded away, and I fell into ill health generally. Although I took everything that I could get hold of which I thought would cure me, I could get no respite from my suffering.

"The curative properties of Bile Beans were then brought to my notice, and I decided to start taking them. The first few doses made me feel so much better that I knew it was only a matter of time before I was well again. As I progressed with Bile Beans I felt brighter, the headaches and nasty feeling left me, and I was no longer troubled with vomiting. I was so encouraged that I persevered with Bile Beans until my organs resumed their proper action, and with the [illegible] I felt [illegible] Bile Beans are a splendid [illegible] and it [illegible] I feel [illegible]"

Bile Beans [illegible] stomach trouble, constipation, piles, debility, anaemia, and all female ills. [illegible] invaluable at all [illegible] chemists [illegible] and 2/9 per box. A dose of Bile Beans in time may save pounds in doctors' bills.—Advt.

THIRD ROUND COMMENCED.

GORDON'S RECOVERY.

UNIVERSITY SCORE HEAVILY.

The third round of grade matches was commenced on Saturday. Although the sun shone brightly, there were indications of an approaching storm, which duly arrived between 4.30 and 5 p.m. There was no more play, all the grounds becoming saturated very quickly.

In a short afternoon's play there was little of the sensational element, but the batsmen, generally speaking, had the best of the various duels, the highest average of the season being attained—27.40 per wicket, 42 batsmen being dismissed for 1151 runs. University's four for 267 was the highest total of the afternoon.

No batsman reached the century, nevertheless several fine individual performances were accomplished, notably, L. A. Cody's 95 not out, for Paddington, against Central Cumberland. Cody unfolds a repertoire of strokes, ranging from slip to fine leg, with such an easy grace, dexterity, and power as to make the art of batting appear a thing very easy of accomplishment. Another masterful display was that given by Eric Barbour, who scored 71 for University, against Glebe. The young 'Varsity batsman's methods, whilst being very sound, are full of hostility to the bowler, and at times the ball flits to all parts of the field with great speed. Barbour was at his best on Saturday, which means that there are few, if any, better right-handed batsmen in Australia than he. Pratten's 93 out of seven for 188 for Burwood against North Sydney was a neat and plucky effort. There is an inducement for the colt to notch a big score, his father having promised him a bat for each score of 50, and one shilling per run over that total. He has started well. The spectators amused themselves by keeping tally of the amount that Pratten "earned." Other notable batting performances were H. A. Maclean's 69 not out; C. J. Toner's 71 not out, and H. L. Collins' 51. The firstnamed's was a very timely and gritty effort.

The afternoon's bowling honours were carried off by Balmain. Wall taking four for 18, Arnott three for 49, and Folkard two for 32. Petersham batsmen were the victims, being dismissed for 115. Waverley also performed well against Sydney. R. G. Long again bowled well, four Burwood batsmen falling to his prowess for 61 runs. No trundler took as many as five wickets; but it must be stated that there were only two completed innings during the afternoon.

As to the general results, Balmain (none for 27) are on the high road to victory against Petersham (115). University, four for 267, are in a very strong position against Glebe, and Waverley ought not to experience difficulty in exceeding Sydney's total of 167. Paddington, four for 185, against Central Cumberland, Burwood, seven for 188, against North Sydney, and Gordon, seven for 202, against Redfern, will continue their innings on Saturday next, as none of them have enough runs "on the book" to enable them to apply the closure. Paddington appear to be fairly safe from defeat, but the other two are not yet "out of the wood."

There were two little ceremonies in connection with the matches. One was the unfurling of the premiership pennant at the University Oval by Mr. F. D. Kent, president of the University Cricket Club. The other was tinged with sadness—the unveiling a memorial tablet erected at Redfern Oval to the memory of the late Ernest Hume, a member of the Redfern Club, who died whilst on a visit to England recently. An ardent worker in the interest of our national game and a genial disposition were two of many other good qualities which made the late cricketer one of the most popular figures in Sydney cricket circles. Hence the kindly recognition of his services by his fellow-members.

Following are the results of Saturday's play:—
University, four for 267, against Glebe.
Paddington, four for 185, against Central Cumberland.
Gordon, seven for 202, against Redfern.
Burwood, seven for 188, against North Sydney.
Sydney, 167, against Waverley.
Petersham, 115, against Balmain, none for 27.

THE HONOUR LIST.

BATTING.

L. A. Cody, 95*.
H. G. Pratten, 93.
C. J. Toner, 71*.
E. P. Barbour, 71.
H. A. Maclean, 69*.
H. L. Collins, 51.

BOWLING.

L. Wall, four for 18.
R. G. Long, four for 61.

Batting for 2 hours 20 minutes on a good wicket University made runs quickly at the expense of the Glebe bowlers. Barbour 71 and Toner 71 (not out) were the principal performers, and both played chanceless cricket. Barbour scored faster and was more versatile than Toner, using his feet well in meeting the break bowlers, and scoring freely off fast balls, which rose awkwardly on the off. Barbour's off-driving, cutting, and glancing were splendid. He was caught and bowled in attempting a pull. Barbour has scored 29, 94, and 71 in his three innings in first-grade cricket. Toner scored many runs from loose balls, and batted soundly when the bowling was good. Gregg (46 not out) was enterprising, but he gave one chance off Freeman. Willcocks (33) had three escapes from being caught before Norman brought off a fine catch at square-leg. Farrar contributed a neat 31. Norman (two for 44) was most successful with the ball. He bowls left-hand at medium pace, and turns them from the leg. Watson and Cullen bowled well, with Freeman, Christie, and Cotter a trifle uncertain. Cotter's pace appears to have slackened. Glebe's fielding was only fair, though Faunce did well in the "country."

A brilliant batting display by H. G. Pratten was the outstanding feature of the Burwood v North Sydney match. During the two hours play was in progress Pratten hit all round the wicket with splendid freedom, and was unfortunate in being dismissed just before rain caused play to be abandoned for the day. His clips past point and cover, where A. J. Hopkins fielded very cleverly, were much admired; he also showed great skill in getting Punch's slows round to leg. He did not give a real chance, and the rate at which he scored is shown by the fact that his contribution of 93 was more than half the runs made by the side. It is only fair to point out, however, that Dr. Hordern and L. A. Minnett were absent from the North Sydney attack. The former is holiday-making, and the North Sydney captain is on the sick list. P. W. Docker (24), R. F. Harvey (31), and F. M'Mullen (24) rendered material assistance to Pratten. North Sydney did not field well at the start, but improved as the game progressed.

Waverley bowlers performed with distinct credit in dismissing Sydney on the perfect wicket at Sydney Cricket Ground for 167. Five bowlers had a hand in the batting collapse, but Pite, three for 52 in 90 balls, put in best work, though Shea and Davis each secured two wickets for 19. The consistent Collins followed up his 83 against Gordon by notching 51—a solid bit of batting. He hit seven fours. N. P. Cohen's 42 not out was a vigorous effort. In dismissing Finneran, O'Connor effected a splendid catch at long-on after sprinting fast from straight-hit. Waverley fieldsmen were triers, even if their work was not finished. J. H. Mackinlay kept wickets in place of Hanson Carter. Waverley's opening pair—Goldie Thomas and Pite—were at the creases when the approaching storm clouds made the light bad, and play was adjourned without a ball being bowled. The subsequent downpour rendered further play impossible.

Central Cumberland found the bats of the Paddingtonians to be very broad, only four men having been dismissed for 185 when the storm broke over the ground. Cody's 95 not out was a chanceless effort, which included two sixes. In the last round Cody scored 92 against Glebe. Noble's 37 was a lively effort, the ball fairly humming off his bat on the offside of the wicket. After having helped Cody add 70 for the third wicket, Noble was brilliantly thrown out by E. F. Waddy. W. S. M'Cloy made 17 not out briskly, hitting one ball clean out of the ground; then the rain put a damper on his enthusiasm, and an end to the afternoon's play. The Cumberlanders were an alert lot in the field, but only two batsmen fell to the bowlers during the 2½ hours' play. However, the rate of scoring was not fast.

At Redfern Oval, Gordon made a poor start against the local side, and with Hartigan, Trumper, and Johnstone out for 46, matters looked very promising for Redfern. However, the visitors' next pair, A. G. and H. A. Maclean, added 45 by very sound batting, and Gordon's prospects were brighter, but after the former had been dismissed for 23, with the total at 101, there was another rout, and seven wickets were down for 117. Then began the most serviceable partnership of the innings. G. Jordan moved along quietly in his own peculiar way, whilst H. A. Maclean continued his crisp and admirable batting. With the total at 202 rain caused a stoppage of play. Maclean is 69 and Jordan 38, both not out. The pair have added 85, and have caused an alteration in the complexion of the game. White and Mailey were the most successful bowlers. The fielding was not of a very high standard, the returns being inaccurate. Rix, however, was excellent.

An hour and thirty-five minutes sufficed the Balmain bowlers to dispose of Petersham on their own ground for the very moderate score of 115. The first wicket was down for two runs, Andrews lifting a full-toss from Arnott out to Garrett at deep square-leg. Thirteen runs were added, and then Folkard bowled Newton. Norton and Morris carried the total to 54, when a wild stroke by the former just touched the ball as it was on its way to his stumps. His 20 was made up of some badly-timed strokes. With the score at 79 Folkard gave the ball to Wall. The second delivery sent Oram pavilion-wards, and his sixth completely beat Norris, whose 36 was the result of careful, if not "striking," cricket. Scott was out for 7, which included a fine "lift" off Wall well out of the ground. A well-judged catch on the boundary by Daley sent Roughley back, and a clean piece of fielding and smart return by Arnott ran out Waddington at 110. Neither M'Leod nor Rough gave trouble, and the side was out at 4 o'clock for 115. Only three bowlers were tried, Wall coming out with the excellent average of four for 18. Balmain had 30 minutes' batting before the storm, and Wheatley and Kemmis with 11 and 14 runs respectively, kept their stumps intact, the score being 27 with no wickets down.

THE LATE MR. ERNEST HUME.

PREMIER UNVEILS A TABLET.

To mark the appreciation of the services of the late Mr. Ernest Hume to the Redfern District Cricket Club, and to cricket in general, the members of the club erected a monumental tablet in the local pavilion. The late Mr. Hume died in England on June 22 last.

The Premier, Mr. M'Gowen, unveiled the tablet on Saturday afternoon in the presence of a large gathering prior to the commencement of the Redfern v Gordon match. Mr. M'Gowen said they had met to do honour to one of the best of their comrades. As a representative cricketer, a worker, and a man, Ernie Hume had endeared himself to cricketers from one end of New South Wales to the other, and had especially rendered valuable services to the Redfern Club. Notwithstanding their regret, he was pleased that those with whom the deceased had associated so long, had determined to perpetuate the memory of their late comrade. Mr. M'Gowen then unveiled the tablet.

Alderman G. Howe, president of the Redfern Club, and Mr. Clayton, representing the N. S. Wales Cricket Association, also spoke, and each paid a warm tribute to the late Mr. Hume.

BOARD OF CONTROL AND W.A.C.A.

Mr. H. N. Woods, who for some years was connected with the Western Australian Cricket Association, stated yesterday that there was no doubt Western Australia should be represented on the Board of Control by proxy; the great distance separating the States rendered direct representation impracticable. This, however, did not meet with the board's approval, and there the matter ended, for the present at least.

EARLY CLOSING BILL.

N. S. W. ALLIANCE PROTEST.

The New South Wales Alliance, the association which is advocating the abolition of the liquor traffic, has issued a manifesto in respect to the new Early Closing Bill. "Why is it," the Alliance asks, "that the sellers of intoxicating drinks are not included in the legislative proposals of the Government?" The manifesto urges that pressure should be brought to bear on the Government to close licensed bars at the same hours observed in other trades.

Extract from a Recent Issue of the "Ladies' Field."

Summer Travelling and "No. 4711" Eau de Cologne.

"Long, wearisome railway journeys to holiday resorts—when days are hot, stations crowded and carriages insufferably stuffy—often reduce the travellers to a state of utter lassitude and fatigue, unless experience and forethought have armed them with the antidote. In this respect there are few things at once more reliable, delightful, and generaly salutary than the famous "No. 4711" Eau de Cologne. Nothing is more grateful to the nerves, more soothing to the senses, and comforting to the body, tired and strained by the arduous journey, than the refreshing and delectable odour of this unrivalled perfume. Sprinkle a few drops of "No. 4711" on a handkerchief, moisten the forehead and nostrils, wrists and the palms of the hands, and the effect is that of a splendid tonic, cooling the blood, relieving all sense of enervation, and imparting vigour to flagging energies. There are many perfumes on the market today, representing firms who claim to possess the original secret of the manufacture of genuine Eau de Cologne; but there is only one brand, stamped with a hall-mark of quality—"No. 4711." These magic numbers, on a blue and white label, guarantee a distillation absolutely pure and genuine—a perfume that can be obtained of all dealers in high-class perfumes throughout the world."

LAW REPORT.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Judge Scholes.)

SOUTH BULLI COLLIERY.

QUESTIONS SUBMITTED TO THE COURT.

CONDITIONS AS TO WORKING.

Inspector Dunleavy appeared at the hearing for the Minister for Labour and Industry; Mr. T. R. Morgan for the Bulli Colliery Proprietors' Association; and Mr. P. Bowling for the Illawarra Colliery Employees' Association.

His Honor now delivered his reserved judgments upon two matters referred to him by the Minister for Labour and Industry, and which were argued a short time ago. In the first case, which was referred on September 27 last, the questions were:—1. Whether under the existing conditions at the South Bulli Colliery, owned and worked by the Bellambi Coal Company, Limited, the manager should not cavil all places which are worked by machines as machine places, in which shooters and fillers only should be employed. 2. Whether under clause 23 of the Southern Collieries (Miners, etc.) Award, of August 17, 1910 (as amended by the order of the Court of Industrial Arbitration of May 3, 1912), it is not necessary that a manager before claiming that cleaners and fillers at the tonnage rate are not available, and thereupon exercising the option of employing labour on day wages, shall have first cavilled or offered for cavil all the places to be worked.

His Honor, in the course of judgment, said: "I have come to the conclusion, after studying the cavilling rules, that they refer only to miners. I have also come to the conclusion that the manager is only bound to cavil all machine places in which shooters and fillers (who are miners) are employed, and other places in which miners are employed, and that those places which are cut by machines, and in which the coal is shot down by the management, and in which cleaners and fillers, who need not be, or who are not, miners, are employed, need not be put into the cavil. I am of opinion, therefore, that both questions must be answered in the negative.

"In the second matter the Minister for Labour and Industry referred the following question for decision on October 2:—'Whether it is not an existing condition at South Bulli colliery within the terms of clause 44 of the Southern Collieries (Miners, etc.) Award that men who have cavilled headings or bords shall, when so directed by the manager, drive cut-throughs therefrom by working one in such cut-through and the other in the heading or bord?'"

His Honor, after reviewing the matter at length, said: "The men in question have cavilled in pairs; and they have their separate working place—that is, a heading or a bord. A condition existed at the time of the award, and not mentioned therein, that these men could be directed to work one in the heading or bord, and the other in the cut-through therefrom. Is there anything in this clause (or any other clause) expressly modifying that condition? There may be clauses which may impliedly do so, or cause a doubt, but that is not enough. They must expressly do so to take the existing condition out of clause 44. Whether it is a condition that ought to continue, especially in the case of deficient places arising, without the giving of separate tokens for the work, is a matter which, I think, could be fairly considered by a tribunal having power to consider it, and to make a change if necessary. I do not consider that I am so fully informed in the matter as to enable me on my own initiative to amend the award in this particular. I have come to the conclusion that the condition has for some years existed, and does still exist. I therefore answer the Minister's question by stating that: 'It is an existing condition at South Bulli colliery within the terms of clause 44 of the Southern Collieries (Miners, etc.) Award that men who have cavilled headings or bords shall, when so directed by the manager, drive cut-throughs therefrom by working one in such cut-through and the other in the heading or bord.'"

BOXING.

DE BALZAC LOSES ON A FOUL.

After having had victory in sight, not once, but several times during the progress of his contest with Reg Midwood, at the Stadium, on Saturday night, Ercole De Balzac, through a lamentable lack of self-control, fouled his opponent, with the result that the contest was stopped in the eighth round and the verdict given to Midwood.

The contest was refereed by Arthur Scott, with whom were associated as judges Messrs. L. H. Nathan and M. Dunn. Midwood's weight was given as 11st 3lb, and De Balzac as 11st 1lb. In appearance and physique it would be difficult to find two men so widely different as Midwood and De Balzac. The Tasmanian, who certainly looked much heavier than his opponent, towered above the Frenchman and also showed much greater muscular development. In style, too, the men were very dissimilar. Midwood stood erect, while the Frenchman, with his feet very wide apart, head on one side, and left shoulder and side thrust forward, and right arm drawn back, almost too far, it seemed, presented an unorthodox posture.

From the word "Go" the contest resolved itself into a rough, hard-hitting, and unscientific scramble. Neither man showed to any particular advantage. De Balzac certainly hits hard, but his most dangerous blow, a right swing, is inevitably telegraphed. Midwood aimed badly at first. This fault was no doubt due to his having been so long away from the active list. In the second round the Frenchman opened a cut above Midwood's left eye. He was now roughing a lot, and in the next three rounds survived five warnings. In the third Midwood took the count for nine as the result of a right swing. In the fifth Midwood was down again. This time he was rushed through the ropes in De Balzac's corner. The next round saw Midwood doing better. He was blocking a lot of the Frenchman's punches and fighting for his opponent's body. The aspect of the contest was gradually changing. The Frenchman, who did not relish the attention Midwood was paying to his body, appeared to be gradually weakening, and it looked as if Midwood would succeed in wearing him down, when the end came with surprising suddenness. It was shortly after the opening of the eighth round. De Balzac charged. Midwood retreated to the ropes. While there he received a butt on the chin, which staggered him. Referee Arthur Scott immediately called a halt, and awarded the fight to Midwood. If the strict letter of the law had been adhered to the French champion would have suffered disqualification as early as the second round.

SAILOR DUFFY OUTPOINTS WILSON.

The return match between Sailor Duffy, of Mort's Dock, and Sid Wilson, of Melbourne, was decided at the Gaiety Club on Saturday night. Duffy gained the decision on points.

WOLGAST v DANIELS.

QUINCY (Illinois), Oct. 26.

Wolgast drew in a six rounds bout with Fred Daniels at Missouri. Daniels surprised the spectators.

MACFARLAND v DUFFY.

BUFFALO, Oct. 26.

Packy Macfarland gained a decision over Jimmy Duffy in a ten-rounds bout. Duffy led in the early part of the fight, but weakened in the final rounds.

MEHEGAN v MORAN.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

Mehegan and Owen Moran have been matched for a fifteen rounds fight at Birmingham on November 25. The maximum weight is fixed at 9st 9lb.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

In a boxing contest at the Star Stadium yesterday Bert Barrett, of Wollongong, defeated Jim Barnes, of Newcastle, in the seventh round.

"I Can't Play Tonight—I'm Out of Practice"

HOW many times you've heard that excuse—and generally you learn to your regret that it is only too true.

¶ Practice—hard practice—is necessary to the playing of every musician except one—and that one is you, when you perform on the

Steck
Pianola Piano

Played in two ways {by hand / by music-roll}

IMAGINE it!—In one moment you can equal the musicianship of pianists who have spent years in study. You can play famous compositions without ever practicing their difficult passages, and so admirably that a person in another room would not detect the difference.

¶ You can immediately abandon yourself to the feeling of the playing—with all the fervor of your temperament. Do you wish to play airs with a lively, martial, happy style! Do it. Do you wish to play crooning, moaning, tender music with a sigh and a sob to it? Do it.

¶ The Steck Pianola Piano is so sympathetic to your slightest intention, that it almost seems to "understand" your inner self. You can't be gay without the Pianola Piano reflecting it in the playing. You can't be sad, without the Pianola Piano being sad too. It relieves better than tears. It brightens better than laughter. As you grow more familiar with it, you both improve together.

¶ You will be delightfully surprised when you hear the Steck Pianola Piano—and that you may have that pleasure opportunity we extend a most cordial invitation to call upon us at Pianola Hall today, tomorrow or any other time suitable to your convenience. Remember our prices are not high.

SAILING.

AN UNSATISFACTORY DAY.

Saturday's weather conditions were far from satisfactory. The light nor'-easter freshened into a medium breeze, which was terminated by rain, and was followed by almost a clock calm. Of eight starters in the yacht races only two crossed the finishing line, the race for the 8-metre class being abandoned on account of two of the competitors going to the rescue of the crews of two capsized skiffs.

NOTES ON THE RACING.

With the exception of Rance, who was 4 minutes late, the 8-metre class crossed the starting line simultaneously, Petrel having the weather berth of Yeulba with Sunbeam to leeward. The wind being about NNE a course was laid for Bradley's Head.

As the club steamer had to wait for the start of the 10-metre class very little was seen of the thrash as far as Middle Head, where Yeulba appeared to have a slight advantage of Petrel, with Sunbeam astern, but close handy, while Rance was standing out from Vaucluse. Yeulba stood out too far between the Heads against the strong flood tide, with the result that Petrel's skipper, making short boards, had gained a considerable advantage when these two yachts crossed near Dobroyd. At Manly the times rounding the buoy were:—Petrel, 3h 47m 55s; Yeulba, 3h 48m 50s; Sunbeam, 3h 51m 51s; Rance, 4h 1m 47s.

On the run to Shark Island Yeulba drew level with Petrel, and Sunbeam considerably improved her position. The official times taken at the jibe were:—Yeulba, 4h 20m 40s; Petrel, 4h 20m 41s; Sunbeam, 4h 22m 40s.

A splendid struggle took place between the two leaders to Fort Denison, who rounded within 4s of each other. On the beat to the Pile Light Petrel and Yeulba gave up the race to rescue the crews of two skiffs which had been capsized; Sunbeam also gave up when a win seemed certain, and the officer of the day declared the race off.

The 10-metre yachts made a splendid start, Sayonara being to windward, Thelma next, then Whitewings and Culwulla III., all on the port tack. The lightness of the breeze gave Culwulla III. an advantage, and she soon forged ahead. Mr. Marks immediately put his helm down, crossed Whitewings, and compelled Thelma and Sayonara to throw round, and the three stood in to Thrupp's Point, from whence they all made Bradley's Head on the port tack. All the boats carried topsails, to which Thelma added her jib-topsail. The order at Bradley's Head was Culwulla III., Thelma, Sayonara, and Whitewings more to the eastward of the last two, but some distance to leeward, which put her last. Much interest was created by the duel between Sayonara and Thelma, which ended in an advantage to the latter.

After a few short boards Thelma, Sayonara, and Whitewings stood right across to Steel Point. Sayonara made a short stretch into Milk Beach, but without gaining any advantage. Culwulla III. had meanwhile been working the western shore, and gained a substantial lead. Whitewings was hopelessly out of the race, and there not being sufficient weight in the breeze to encourage her to continue she retired.

The work to Manly resulted in Culwulla III. easing sheets at 3h 57m 11s; Thelma, 4h 3m 31s; and Sayonara, 4h 6m 53s. Extras were set for the run to Shark Island, and the big boats presented a very pretty picture with their clouds of white canvas in contrast to the overcast and threatening sky and dark waters of the harbour.

Shark Island was rounded by Culwulla III. at 4h 25m 45s; Thelma, 4h 31m 10s; and Sayonara, 4h 35m 02s. The ex-Victorian retired shortly after rounding the island. Very little alteration was made in the positions of Culwulla III. and Thelma on the lead to Fort Denison, where the former hauled a wind at 4h 38m 27s, and the latter at 4h 44m 20s. While beating to the Pile Light heavy rain was encountered, which killed the breeze, making the remainder of the race little more than a drifting match.

The club steamer now returned to the club house with the Sunbeam in tow, and the officials waited patiently for the finish.

Culwulla III. crept slowly towards Kirribilli Point when a light draught from the north permitted her to luff up and cross the finishing line at 6h 29m 5s, the same light air holding enabled the Thelma to cross at 6h 42m 2s. The club steamer, Lady Northcote, carried a large number of patrons, and was in charge of the vice-commodore, Mr. Arthur J. Milson, who was assisted in his official duties by Mr. Walter Reeks.

* * * * * *

It was while the second heat boats in the Flying Squadron's handicap were racing to the finish that the hard rain squall swept the harbour. They all succeeded in reaching the line, but jibs were immediately lowered, and the start of the final was delayed until the worst of the squall was over.

At a couple of minutes to 5 the boats were sent away again, but they were soon becalmed, and after what was little more than a drift round the triangle the leading boat, Kismet, was still a half-mile or so from the finish when the time limit—6.30—expired, and the race had to be abandoned.

Under these circumstances, the sport was very monotonous, not only for the crews, but for the big gathering on the two steamers. The two heats, however, were not without interest, so that the club's patrons got some return for their money.

The boats in the first heat had only gone a short distance when something went wrong with Golding, and she was forced to drop out.

Livonia easily outsailed her opponents on the work to Taylor Bay, where she was followed in order by Donnelly, Scot, Lilian, Australian, and Quibree. Livonia and Donnelly had no difficulty in keeping the others astern over the remaining two sides of the triangle, but it was a good struggle for third, and Australian just beat Quibree and Scot in this order.

The breeze was somewhat treacherous, as Hero found to her cost in the second heat. Soon after the start a hard puff suddenly left her, and before the crew had time to get off the gunwale she toppled over to windward. It was about the quickest thing of its kind seen for a long time.

The others made a good race of it to the Taylor Bay mark, where Pastime succeeded in putting Mona about. It looked as if both would beat the rest round, but Pastime missed stays, and before she cleared the buoy several of the others were on top of her. Nimrod was prominent, but in the struggle for positions Kismet got through, and was a close second round the buoy to Mona, with Eunice, Nimrod, Pastime, Arline, and Desdemona in the other places.

Kismet soon settled Mona on the lead to Shark Island, and never left the result in doubt. Eunice nearly capsized after rounding Shark Island, and then, with the others, had a lively time racing home.

Australian, Quibree, and Donnelly missed their starts in the final, the two first-named being well behind the scratch boats. The others, however, only got as far as Bradley's Head when the breeze left them, and while they were becalmed Australian, Quibree, and Donnelly got up amongst them.

After they had jogged up and down here for a time, Kismet sneaked away under the influence of a Zephyr, and at Taylor Bay had a big lead. Australian had done best of the others at this mark, where Nimrod was a close third.

A faint air from about NE took the boats across to Shark Island, but the progress was so slow that the chance of any of them beating the time limit of 6.30 looked hopeless. And so it was, for at the stipulated hour Kismet was only just past Point Piper, and was practically stationary too. Chris. Webb was still trying to coax Australian along in second place, while Nimrod third, and Livonia fourth were the only others left in the "drift" for the prizes.

AQUATICS ON NARRABEEN LAKE.

With a view of promoting aquatics on the Narrabeen Lake, a sports club has been formed. A ladies' nomination race will take place on Saturday next.

ROWING.

SYDNEY ROWING CLUB REGATTA.

BALMAIN WINS SENIOR FOURS.

The forty-second annual regatta of Sydney Rowing Club was held on the Parramatta River on Saturday afternoon. The ferry steamer Kookooburra carried a number of visitors and members, while on the launch Lady Hopetoun were Mr. N. J. M'Donald (umpire), Mr. J. N. Oatley, and Dr. A. Burne (timekeepers), a number of veteran members, and representatives of the Rowing Association and of various clubs.

During the afternoon Lord Chelmsford, who is patron of the club, was present at the regatta on the launch Premier, accompanied by Judge Backhouse, several members of the Olympic eight, and Messrs. W. J. Hanna (captain S.R.C.), W. Cope, and M. A. H. Fitzhardinge.

The two open races proved interesting, particularly the senior fours, which was won by the Balmain club. Mosman, the youngest of the clubs, rowed in a new Towns Brothers' boat, and carried off the maiden eights in a splendid manner. Visitors were entertained at the "Branch" during the afternoon, and altogether the outing was most pleasant. The racing was as follows:—

MAIDEN EIGHTS, best boats. Course: From near Putney to Abbotsford, distance about 1½ mile.

Mosman R.C. (A. Weingott, J. E. Hill, J. Chitney, G. Proctor, J. M. Lean, G. Heaphy, N. Hughes, L. J. Boone stroke, D. R. Smith cox., C. A. Boone coach) 1
Sydney University R.C. (H. H. Jamieson, H. A. Henry, C. W. L. Pulling, R. B. Carter, J. Digby, W. Hay, W. B. Donald, E. L. Morgan stroke, R. G. K. Waley cox.) 2
Sydney R.C. (C. E. J. Wilson, J. L. Skene, F. T. D. Meares, A. Audsley, R. V. Morse, C. R. Woolley, H. T. Peirce, V. Chalker stroke, A. Smedley cox.) 3
Enterprise R.C. (C. Nash, H. Bothamley, S. Booth, A. Kay, A. Chapman, E. Harrison, W. Wardrope, L. Thompson stroke, A. Kelly cox.) 4

Mr. Allan Ramsay gave the signal to start, but seldom has a crew made less use of its opportunity than did Enterprise, evidently through lack of experience. Sydney rowed well for the first quarter of a mile, and so did University, but in front was the Mosman team. At the half-distance Mosman was almost clear of University, and Sydney still had a chance; but Enterprise was badly left. After passing Gladesville University made a fine effort, but Mosman won by a length and a half in 7m 10s. Sydney was three lengths behind the winners.

SENIOR FOURS. Same course as the eights.

Balmain R.C. (A. Bryan, W. Koltz, S. R. Grant, H. E. Granden stroke, O. J. Wood coach) 1
Leichhardt R.C. (R. Symons, A. Kenny, W. Cooper, J. K. Cogle stroke) 2
Enterprise R.C. (S. Knight, H. Dailey, D. Christensen, J. Walker stroke) 3

University was unable to start, because of some damage to the boat fittings. Sydney also had a crew in training, but drew out, owing to illness of one of the oarsmen. Leichhardt, Balmain, and Enterprise rowed on even terms for the first couple of minutes, but after that Balmain opened out. Nearing the finish Leichhardt came with a rush, and was only beaten by a quarter of a length. The winner's time was 7m 45s.

Club Members' Races.—Eights and fours were also rowed over short courses. There were three crews in the eights, the winners being W. G. Pearce, G. Steen, J. F. M'Pherson, J. L. Skene, W. D. Scott, A. Audsley, S. B. Bailey, K. Dowling (stroke), 1. Other crews stroked by W. Tymms and V. Chalker were second and third respectively.

Club Fours.—R. A. Burgess, G. R. Thompson, J. M. Abel, R. G. Horniman (stroke), 1; C. Builleau, C. Powell, J. H. Titchen, E. de Mouchaux, 2; C. E. F. de Salis, C. C. Bastian, A. Edgar, T. P. Mulholland, 3.

HENLEY-ON-YARRA.

INTERSTATE CREWS UNSUCCESSFUL.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Yesterday was Henley-on-Yarra day. There was an enormous attendance, both in the afternoon and at night. The Governor-General, Lady Denman, and their children had a houseboat, and with them were the State Governor and Lady Fuller and three of their daughters.

Houseboats, which were moored in single file along the banks of the reserve, were beautifully decorated, and the river presented a fine spectacle. From an oarsman's point of view the conditions were ideal, but on the whole the form displayed was poor. The scullers were, on the whole, fair, the meeting of Green, of Sydney, and Kerby being of great interest, and they provided a very interesting race, but Green set himself too great a task in attempting the Junior Fours as well. The interstate crews were unable to win any of the events, the Enterprise Club (Sydney) being beaten early in the day; the sculler from the Leichhardt Club, Sydney, also being beaten in his heat.

Details of the races in which the Sydney men took part:—

Elswick Challenge Cup (Junior Fours).—First heat: Mercantile 1, Corio Bay 2, Civil Service 3. Won by half a length. Time, 5m 47s. Second heat: Richmond 1, Tamar (Tas.) 2. Won easily. Time, 5m 53s. Third heat: Najambie 1, Enterprise 2. The Sydney men were hardly good enough for the Victorian Provincial Club, who just managed to win by a quarter of a length. Time, 5m 38s. Final: Najambie 1, Richmond 2, Mercantile 3. Won easily. Time, 5m 39s.

Yarra Challenge Cup (Senior Sculls).—First heat: H. Green (Enterprise) 1, E. Christie (Sandhurst) 2, L. Blakely (Leichhardt) 3. The Australian amateur champion had no difficulty in winning his heat. Time, 8m 0s. Second heat: L. J. Kerby (Civil Service) 1, M. Keen (Tamar) 2, P. C. Ivens (Mercantile) 3. Won by a length and a quarter. Time, 8m 1s. Third heat: W. Fawcett (Footscray) 1, T. Barrell (South Melbourne) 2, A. Coverdale (Sandy Bay, Hobart) 3. Won by a length and a half. Time, 8m 9s. Final: L. J. Kerby 1, H. Green 2, W. Fawcett 3. Kerby won rather easily, Green being apparently exhausted after his effort in the Junior Fours; Fawcett was a long way off, third.

In the evening the place was brilliantly illuminated, and a pyrotechnic display was given.

CYCLING AND MOTORING.

BACK TO ENGLAND.

Under date September 5 an American exchange states that Maple Leaf defeated the American defenders for the British International Cup over Huntington Bay course. "England won back the British international trophy for motor boats," the journal continues, "more often called the Harmsworth Cup, when Maple Leaf IV. took the third and final race of the series for the world's championship. Victory came after a contest which was full of exciting periods. The Reliance III. finished second, but the other three starters, Ankle Deep, and Reliance II., both American defenders, and Mons, the other English entrant, failed to finish. The Maple Leaf IV.'s time for the four rounds of the course was 48m 16s, thus showing a speed of 37.89 knots, or 43.57 statute miles per hour, a new world's record. Her actual time from start to finish was 47m 46s, as the craft lost 30 seconds in getting away from the gun.

"The British victor, her crew, and owner, E. Mackay Edgar, were given a hearty ovation by those aboard the many yachts assembled near the finish.

"Mr. Edgar was overjoyed at his success and predicted that the British would now hold the trophy for years against the challengers, who would have to race for it in British waters. His boat is one of 700 horse-power."

This trophy was instituted about 11 years ago, and was annexed by the Americans, but next year they will have to come across the Atlantic in search of the British trophy.

SATURDAY'S CLUB RACES.

The Eastern Suburbs Club held a five miles road race over the Bunnerong course. Results:—H. Gordon (2m 40s), 14m 47 2-5s, 1st; J. C. M'Naught (1m 25s), 14m 23 2-5s, 2nd; C. Ebsworth (1m 10s), 14m 8 3-5s, 3rd. W. F. Chapman (scr) put up the fastest time in 13m 26s.

The 20 miles championship of the Manly Bicycle Club, over the Collaroy-Narrabeen course, resulted as follows:—J. M'Bride, 1; M. M'Mahon, 2; J. Forria, 3. Time, 1h 11m. A three miles boys' championship resulted in a win for J. Bonner, with C. Hutchins second, H. Baker third. The club's smoke concert and presentation of prizes will take place on November 4.

City Cycle Club, 5 miles road race, Bunnerong course. Result: J. Crago, handicap 1m 10s, 1; F. Shard (1m), 2; R. Francis (1m 5s), 3. S. Pierce (handicap 10s) made fastest unplaced time, 15m 45s. The winner's time was 15m 27s.

Botany B. C., 20 miles road championship, Bunnerong course. Result: H. V. Speller, 1; W. Schofield, 2; J. Wiggins, 3. Time, 59m 40s.

Crow's Nest B. C., 20 miles road race, Chatswood course. Result: R. J. Porter, 1; S. J. Porter, 2; J. J. Pittaway, 3. The winner made fastest time—55m 58s.

Alexandria B. C., 5 miles road race, Bunnerong course. Result: W. Stapleton (handicap 5s), 1; P. Hughes (5s), 2; W. O'Connor (1m 10s), 3. The winner's time was 15m 50s.

Campsie B. C., 20 miles road championship, Campsie-Belmore course. Result: W. R. Ferguson, 1; C. Fleming, 2; H. A. Keedle, 3. The winner's time was 57m.

Petersham B. C., 20 miles road championship, Sherwood course. Result: W. Wylie, 1; W. Booth, 2; S. Booth, 3.

MOTOR YACHT CLUB.

On Saturday the members of the Motor Yacht Club of New South Wales had a varied experience. After the two motor boat races were run there was a heavy thunderstorm, accompanied by liberal hailstorm. Those who were out on the water sought shelter in the bungalow clubhouse at Woollahra Point, Rose Bay, and from the water frontage an interesting sight was afforded. However, the storm passed away, and the clubhouse and boats in the bay were illuminated, and the "Venetian evening" was soon in full swing. After dinner the attendance increased, despite the inclement weather. A number of moving pictures were screened in the main hall, depicting not only the features of the official opening of the Motor Yacht Club of New South Wales and the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron, but many other interesting aquatic items. Mr. K. C. Searl, a member of the British Motor Boat Club, was among the motor boat enthusiasts who witnessed the racing and manoeuvring.

The racing results were:—

Cruisers' Race, from clubhouse to Manly and back, No. 3 course:—

Kelvin, owner Mr. Percy Pearson, time 1h 14m 30s.. 1
Petuna, owner Mr. J. A. Ingham, time 1h 16m 32s.. 2
Durgo, owner Mr. Neil Harvey, time 1h 12m 40s.. 3

The other starters were: Corrina, Lara, and Rooganah. It was a splendid finish. There were only a few yards between the first and second boat, and the distance is over ten miles.

The race for boats 10 m.p.h. or under was held over the No. 1 course, about two miles. Results:—

Sybil, owner Mr. H. E. Wilksch, time 13m 50s.. 1
Signa, owner Mr. R. Holmes, time 13m 30s. .. 2
Baby Revonah, owner Master Otto Albert, time 20m 10s 3

The other starters were:—Vao, Bell Bird, Moutte, Don, Oberon II., and Lily.

The fixture was a great success, in spite of the storm.

MOTOR ROAD RACE.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

The Motor Cycle Club held a 40 miles road race on Saturday. Thirteen men started, but only three finished. Result: R. Hogg, 55s, 1; Montgomery, 30s, 2; and Carler, 2m, 3. Currie, a scratch man, fell and was rather badly hurt.

STATE ELECTIONS.

THE GLEBE SEAT

Three prominent residents of the Glebe—Mr. J. A. Hogue, formerly Minister for Education, Dr. Rudolph Bohrsmann, and Mr. W. T. Tate—have, it is understood, decided to submit their names to the Liberal Association in connection with the selection of a Liberal candidate to oppose Mr. Keegan, M.L.A., at the next general election.

Holders of Bills are also notified that by an Act entitled "The Treasury Bills Act of 1911," the Government is authorised to raise money by the sale of Treasury Bills for the redemption of the Bills maturing on the First Day of January, 1913, and referred to above. In accordance with statutory authority, the Government intends to make a new issue of £600,000 Bills bearing interest at £4 per centum per annum, repayable at par on the First Day of January, 1922.

Before making available any of these Bills to the general public, the Government wishes to give holders of the Four Per Cent. Bills presently falling due the option of taking up part or the whole of the new issue, as from 1st January, 1913, at par.

Holders who are desirous of taking advantage of this offer are requested to notify the Under-Secretary, The Treasury, Brisbane, on or before 30th November next, of the Series, numbers, and amounts of the Bills now held by them, and the denomination of the new Bills they desire in exchange.

Interest will be paid as usual by the banking agents of the Government at Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide, free of exchange, half-yearly on the 2nd January and 1st July.

OUR LOAN POLICY.

It must be freely admitted that the position in which the Government finds itself in connection with the loan account is surrounded by difficulties, the more important of which are not of its own making. An era of dearer money has been ushered in. As the Treasurer has pointed out, this movement is world-wide. Though dear money in London does not necessarily imply dear money in Sydney, as those who have followed the course of the market over a series of years well know the two markets at once get into close sympathy as soon as we become borrowers abroad. It was only during that period in which we were virtually independent of outside assistance that money was to be had at lower rates locally than at the world's great financial centres. If, then, it be admitted that our local resources are not for the time sufficient to enable us to carry on, then no responsibility can be held to rest upon the Government for having to pay more for the accommodation it requires for the purpose of carrying on the public works of the State. But we are doing more than paying dearer for the money we are borrowing. We are getting far less value per sovereign expended than would have been the case in more normal times. The Treasurer freely acknowledges that the Government is expending £600,000 per annum more in wages than was the case last year, and wages were not low a year ago. He also admits that materials are much dearer than they were. It is difficult to say precisely what this means expressed in figures, but we do not think that we are far out in saying that every sovereign borrowed and now expended not only costs some 25 per cent. more by way of interest than a similar sum did 10 years ago, but it also only purchases the equivalent of but 12s worth of assets compared with a pound a decade ago. At the same time we are committing ourselves to pay back a sovereign some day, and that, no matter what the purchasing power of the sovereign may then be. Suppose the Government becomes responsible for the borrowing of 10 millions on these terms; it may easily happen that the assets represented by that amount will not be worth more than seven millions on redemption day if prices in the interval are reduced to more normal level, and wages fall correspondingly, which is almost certain to follow.

No good purpose would be served at present in endeavouring to get at the real cause of the advance in prices, or in the cost of labour. It may be due, as some are prepared to assert, to the larger production of gold, or quite other causes may be operating. This much is clear, that we must seek out a world cause, for the advance is world-wide. There is no use attributing the advance solely to our tariff, though this may be a contributing cause. Neither can we insist that the advance in wages is due to the existence of wages boards, though they may have been the immediate instrument in many cases bringing the rise about. There are deeper causes than these. Wages are not advancing in Australia only. They are going up in countries as dissimilarly placed as England, the United States, and Japan. The over-production-of-gold theory works out well as a theory. It may be summarised thus: Gold being more plentiful products can be exchanged for a relatively larger volume of it. That is, the prices of commodities have advanced when measured in gold. The advance in prices involves an ever-increasing cost of living. This on its part made it increasingly difficult for workmen to live at their old wages. At last they rebelled; they cannot feed themselves and families. A large section of the employing class, having benefited by the era of higher prices for produce, could afford to pay more wages, and competition among them, especially where labour was scarce, forced them to do so. So wages advanced. No industrial board could get wages up were the particular industry involved not able to stand it. Were the attempt made those engaged in the industry would go out of business. Their continuing to carry on indicates that they have been enabled to pass the burden on. No business man is in business for his health, but to make his business pay. But how does all this affect our loan policy? It affects it very closely, indeed. The Government must consider in a responsible way whether the present high prices and high wages are likely to last. The position of the Treasurer may be likened to that of a man who contemplates building a house. He knows that the kind of place that he could get a few years ago for £1000 would to-day cost him £1500. Under these circumstances, should he build now or wait till later on, when prices become more reasonable? If he builds now he may find that in five years' time the house that cost him £1500 is only worth £1000. On the other hand, it may be that prices will not come down at all. The prudent man would probably build with caution. He would do what was essential, no more. He would not sit idle for five years or more just on the off-chance of prices coming down. At the same time he would err on the side of prudence, and more especially would this be so were he contemplating using borrowed money. The position of the Government is analogous to this. Ministers must go on. They cannot, even were they desirous of doing so, stop short with railway construction because prices of material and wages are high, but they cannot be regarded as acting with prudence in making the present a period of record loan expenditure. There is another fundamental principle that should receive careful consideration at the hands of those responsible for our loan policy. It is time that our general loan indebtedness, and more particularly the external part of our loan indebtedness, should not be allowed to increase at much greater a ratio than the increase in our population. It is true that the public debt of this State is not as great per head of population as that of some of the other States, but it is rising. Queensland, on the other hand, has succeeded in reducing its debt on a per capita basis, which either means that it is living prudently or increasing its population fast. Both causes, in point of fact, have operated. Our own State, though not altogether backward in the matter of adding to the number of her people, is burdening them with a heavier debt than is probably wise. Over £100,000,000 of national indebtedness is a huge sum for a mere one and three-quarters of a million of people to bear.

THE WAR IN THE BALKANS.

No one who remembers the history of the Russo-Turkish war will venture to infer from the successes gained by the allies during the past week that they will be victorious until the end of the campaign. In the past the Turks have shown a wonderful power of defence. They may still recover their lost fortresses, and they have yet to fight their first pitched battle with the Bulgarians. But the cables we publish this morning leave no doubt that the series of defeats, of which the battle of Kirk-Kilisse was the most serious, have made a profound impression on the capitals of Europe. By both the German and the Austrian press they appear to be regarded as a decisive test of the prospects of the two armies. The three allies have clearly proved that each of them is entitled to respect. Though we are told that the Turkish soldiers have fought bravely, it is plain that the performances of the army have disappointed expectations. Possibly better results were expected from the training of the famous Von der Goltz than even the fine flower of the German army working on Turkish material could obtain. But the more widely accepted theory seems to be that the influences which have for many years corrupted every other branch of the Ottoman Government have now at last, in the hour of danger, shown their effect in the army. Probably there is some exaggeration in the rumours now published of the weakening of patriotism among the wealthier classes. But it would be strange if the dissensions of recent years had left the army untouched, if after a succession of political disputes of the most violent character there should be anything like unanimity among the Turkish generals, or if, though every other department has failed in its work, the army should remain efficient.

The successes of the allies have shown themselves most clearly in the predictions of the German and Austrian press as to the arrangements which must follow the conclusion of peace. There will, no doubt, be any number of newspapers ready to play the part of honest broker which Bismark played at the Congress of Berlin. For the present they are content with saying that the old state of things can never be restored. The allies, having invaded Turkey successively, are not, we are told, to be given something for their pains. The declaration made by the diplomatists before the declaration of war having failed to act as a check is no longer to be maintained, either because to maintain it is impossible, or because it was never seriously meant. What arrangements are to be sanctioned under the new order we are nowhere informed as yet. But the history of German and Austrian diplomacy leads to the conclusion that, if any of the allies is to be given any increase of territory, an unanswerable reason will be found why Germany and Austria should be given either territory or privileges themselves. Happily for the prospects of European peace the allies seem at once anxious for peace, and ready to accept as its price the autonomy of Macedonia, which they demanded at the beginning of the war. They have already shown the Turks and the great powers that the Macedonian problem can no longer be postponed from year to year, as has been done almost continuously since the time of the Treaty of Berlin. Having done so much, they may be ready to accept some modification of Count Berchtold's proposals for an autonomous province under the suzerainty of the Sultan, which would be, in fact, a compliance with one of the sections of the Berlin Treaty. The co-operation of Greece, Servia, and Bulgaria seems to imply a self-denying ordinance in the event of ultimate success. The eternal Cretan question will, no doubt, be revived by the Greek decree of annexation. But Crete, though nominally Turkish, has for many years been actually a part of the Greek kingdom. Greece may well be allowed to satisfy the aspirations of the islanders, though the allies would refuse to allow either one of themselves or any of the Powers to annex territory on the mainland. It is certainly satisfactory to learn that the allies are anxious for the friendship of France, England, and Russia. Russia has been the ally of Bulgaria almost continuously since 1878, but France and Great Britain, the two great Mohammedan powers, are bound to see that the power of the Sultan is not destroyed.

LORD CHELMSFORD.

The news of Lord Chelmsford's intended retirement from the office of Governor of this State will have been received everywhere with regret. And, if we mistake not, that tribute of the community will not only be general; it will also be of that best kind of witness to a public man engaged in important official work, appreciation of both his personal qualities and his capacity. Governors come to us and go from us, and they leave behind them varying reputations. In the recent past, at any rate, New South Wales has been well served by the presence among us of Governors whose appeal to the people on the personal side has been singularly strong. The late Sir Harry Rawson, it will be remembered, so won the good-will of the community he governed that when his term ended it was a matter of considerable doubt whether the place he held in public esteem would ever be entirely filled. It fell to Lord Chelmsford to take up that always difficult task of following a highly popular man, and he now leaves it so well accomplished that he will always be remembered as one of the most widely acceptable Governors the State has ever had. That is fine testimony to Lord Chelmsford's possession of one of the two great qualifications of such an office, his readiness so to understand and to sympathise with a very wide range of outlook upon life that he has been able to interest himself in it all, and to attach to himself the good wishes of all. It is a qualification which demands, above everything else, uncommon gifts of heart. In a community like our own especially, where arbitrary lines of division, still sharply defined in other communities, are almost entirely effaced, where the most diverse habits of thought, and traditions of life, and standards of cultivation meet and intermingle upon a common platform for claim of equal recognition, these gifts are especially demanded. A Governor is in constant contact with all sorts and conditions of men, and when he is able, as Lord Chelmsford has been able, to go about among them, not only with equal readiness of sympathy with each, but with obvious interest in them all, and with unfailing success in making himself one with them, his personal quality is unquestionable.

But there is another side to Lord Chelmsford as Governor, and his departure will be the more regretted because of it. He has revealed himself to us all as a man of capacity and judgment. Those are qualities in a Governor which we can ill spare. We can spare them less well than ever just now. No student of the development of this State can fail to foresee critical times awaiting us, times which will need of all men holding positions of public trust sanity of outlook and level-headedness. Not least, they will need a Governor able to fulfil the claims of his office wisely and firmly. It is sometimes assumed of Governors that, after all, their service is at its most important in respect of the social amenities, and that public affairs are not greatly influenced by them. But that is not always so. How far, precisely, a Governor orders the ordinary business of political action is, of course, not within the public knowledge. But it is certain that crises may arise, as they have arisen in the past, when the presence of a strong and capable man in the chief public office of the State has a great effect upon their outcome. Signs are not wanting that the shrewd advice of Lord Chelmsford would have been of inestimable value to this State in the time to come. For that reason especially his departure is to be regretted. For himself, however, he will go from us assured of the regard of the people he has served so well. His career will always be of interest to them, and there can be no doubt that in him New South Wales, and Australia, will have one more ex-Governor able and very ready to speak of this country as occasion arises with the knowledge and the sympathy it so often needs in its spokesmen.

NORTHERN TERRITORY TROUBLES.

A creditable feature of the policy of the Federal Government has been the way in which it has taken in hand that very pressing problem, the development of the Northern Territory. We are not among those whose grievance is that hitherto very little tangible progress has been made. In a task such as this results cannot be achieved at once; the settlement of this huge area cannot be brought about simply by the stroke of a pen; and we are at one with the Government in thinking that the best way to promote its development is by first improving local conditions. At the same time, necessary though all this preliminary work be, it is of great importance that it should be completed as soon as possible, and it would be highly regrettable if any untoward delays prevented this. Now it appears that a good deal of friction has arisen at Port Darwin between the officials and the Government employees, and unless the authorities take up a firm attitude on the matter we may see, during the ensuing years, all our efforts thwarted and hampered by continuous harassing disputes. Some of the grievances are so trivial that they cannot be taken seriously. Another is that the administrator has been away from Darwin for a considerable period viewing the country, though surely it is desirable from every point of view that he should acquaint himself with the place he has in his charge. The principal trouble seems to have arisen over the hours of work: the administrator fixed one time for commencing, but the Government employees prefer another—half an hour later.

All these things in themselves seem petty enough, but they involve an important matter of principle. The Government can have no complaints to make on the score of the qualifications of the administrator and his staff, for they appointed them themselves. It is surely their duty to support them in whatever course they have deemed advisable to pursue. In the present case the situation in the Territory was brought before the notice of the House of Representatives, not by the Opposition, but by various members of the Government themselves, and that makes it the more obligatory upon them to resist any attempt to cripple the authority of the administrator, or interfere with him in such exercise of it as he thinks proper. If the administrator finds that every action he takes is liable to be referred to Melbourne, and perhaps reversed, two very unfortunate consequences are certain to ensue. In the first place there will be a continual series of appeals to the House, as in the present case, and meanwhile the development of the Territory will inevitably suffer. In the second place, if the freedom of action essential to the successful conduct of administration is liable to be interfered with on every occasion, and if the administrator's decisions on questions of ordinary routine are to be subject to review at the caprice of all and sundry, no one possessing the character or qualities essential to the position will for a moment consent to fill it. And the net result would be that the state of the Territory would be as bad as ever, despite all our endeavours. The Government appointed the present administrator, and so were presumably satisfied as to his suitability for the task. It behoves them to back him up now, and not to permit his authority to be flouted, his efforts to be impeded, and his position generally to be degraded to that of a foreman.

Premier Too Sensitive.—Ministers are very touchy upon the subject of Government House and Lord Denman's eviction. The Premier takes exception to the following statement which appeared in the "Herald" on Saturday:—"Ministers deny that the affairs of Government House have anything to do with Lord Chelmsford's resignation, and his Excellency himself declares that it is due entirely to family reasons." Ministers were simply asked the question because there was an impression abroad prior to Lord Chelmsford's resignation that the Government might put the State Governor back into Government House proper—a proposition that would probably be embarrassing to the State Governor. For endeavouring to set the Government right with the public on this point Mr. McGowen accuses the "Herald" of "descending to an unwarranted innuendo." "It is beyond my comprehension," he said, "that a reputable paper should descend to such an innuendo." Mr. Hall (Minister for Justice) and Mr. Flowers (Vice-President of the Executive Council) agreed with Mr. McGowen. However, there was no innuendo at all. The Premier is too sensitive. The full reasons for Lord Chelmsford's resignation were given on Saturday in the same column as the paragraph to which Mr. McGowen takes exception.

Educational Estimates.—It has been suggested that, as a sum of only £20,000 has been placed on the estimates for the purposes of school buildings, etc., the Government's educational policy is likely to be restricted. The Treasurer (Mr. Cann) pointed out last night that, in addition to the £20,000, a sum of £250,000 would be allocated from loan funds, and that Mr. Carmichael's policy would not be in any way jeopardised.

Hall Bequest and Donation.—Confusion has arisen as to whether the money already distributed to charities in New South Wales from the Hall fund was part of the bequest of the late Mr. Walter Hall, or part of the two-million donation by Mrs. Hall. The £12,200 already distributed in this State is part of the £20,000 bequest, and the balance will be available shortly. Under the will Queensland charities are entitled to £30,000, and this money will be apportioned very soon. It was stated recently that Major-General Finn was coming to Sydney to take up the duties of secretary to the trust, but he will not arrive as early as at first expected. He is to come by the Demosthenes, which is due here on December 20.

An Expensive Book.—A monumental work, Martius' "Flora Brasiliensis," will shortly be found on the shelves of the Sydney Public Library, the board of trustees having, on the recommendation of the librarian (Mr. W. H. Ifould), just purchased a second-hand copy for £270. The published price of the work is £300. It will be the only copy in any Australian Public Library. Mr. Ifould stated on Saturday that the board recognised the importance of procuring valuable works of this character, that were needed by scientists if any good original work was to be done in the State. Without such works scientists in Australia were at a great disadvantage compared with their brethren in other parts of the world. The procuring of the "Flora Brasiliensis" was of especial interest in view of the opening of the Panama Canal in a year or two's time. It was expected that a great number of grasses and plants would be introduced from Central and South America, and for the identification and working out of these the botanist would need to rely very largely on the book that had just been purchased by cable, and which should be available in about two months' time.

An Empty Gun Shed.—Recently the secretary to the Naval Board (Mr. Manisty) expressed the opinion that the Home Affairs Department was an obstacle in the way of efficient and speedy construction of public works. The officers of the Home Affairs Department have now received a report from which they have derived much satisfaction. It is stated that for some years an agitation was carried on at Goulburn for the erection of a building to house the pompom used by the district Light Horse squadron. During the whole of that time the gun was exposed to the weather. The Defence Department eventually saw the necessity of protecting the gun, and an expenditure of £160 was authorised. The shed was on the point of completion, so it is stated, when an order came from the military headquarters transferring the gun to another district. The residents of Goulburn may now point out that as the shed is ready they should have a gun to place in it.

Archbishop Kelly on the Press.—Archbishop Kelly, at Rozelle yesterday, in opening the new Roman Catholic Church—St. Joseph's—made another attack on the Press. His Grace referred to the refusal of the Chief Railway Commissioner to issue concession tickets to priests who attended the recent Catholic conference in Sydney, and stated that a resolution, adopted by a hundred priests, representing as many districts, protesting against the Railway Commissioner's conduct, had been suppressed by the "Herald" and "Daily Telegraph." "I say to the directors of these papers," Dr. Kelly continued, "what good are you if you do this? If you are members of a conspiracy, if you are Freemasons, if you are conspiring against the priests, I would understand it, but if you pretend to be fair organs of public opinion, then I say your conduct is indefensible, and to us inexcusable." [Archbishop Kelly is in error. The resolution which he states was suppressed by this journal was published in the "Herald" on Thursday last, on the Parliamentary news page.—Ed. "S.M.H."]

Be Civilised or be Killed.—The American authorities in the Philippines have had a great deal of trouble with the Moroes and other wild tribesmen in the interior, and according to Mr. Frank Connor, M.L.C., of Western Australia, who lately spent some months in the Philippines, and is at present in Sydney, they are giving them what amounts to the alternative of being civilised or killed. "The Americans have an army of about 13,000 men there," Mr. Connor stated in conversation yesterday, "and about a tenth of them are engaged in bringing into subjection the non-Christian tribes who inhabit the interior. First of all they send word to the outlaws, who are principally Moroes, that they want them to come into civilised country and be taught how to cultivate the land with the object of turning them into useful, industrious, and peaceful citizens. The first demand made is that they shall give up their arms. If they don't yield at once they are asked a second and then a third time, and if they then refuse the American troops go out and a few days later there is a dispatch in the official news in a Manilla paper that '50 Moroes were killed' in an engagement, in some district, that being the last ever heard of that particular tribe. Nobody takes any notice of these occurrences. While I cannot recommend that course with respect to the wild natives in Western Australia, who are often very troublesome to settlers, I do recommend that the settler be given more protection or be allowed to protect himself, which he is not permitted to do at present."

Nurses for the Backblocks.—The passengers from Vancouver by the Zealandia yesterday included two English nurses engaged by Dr. Barrett, of Melbourne, who is visiting London, for the Victorian Bush Nurses' Association, to work in the backblocks of that State. One of them, Miss Sprott, said that there were many nurses in England who would like to come to the colonies.

Victorian Motor Car Regulations.—In precisely similar circumstances two men were killed in Melbourne this year by being run down by motor cars just as they alighted from tramcars. But in one case the motor car driver was shown to have observed the statutory rule of passing the tram on the right-hand side before striking the pedestrian, while in the other case, the driver did the opposite thing. Charges of manslaughter were preferred against both drivers, who were duly acquitted, but during their trial comment was directed at the extraordinary regulation in Melbourne, requiring motor car drivers when overtaking tramcars to pass them on the righthand side. In the first instance, it was argued that had the driver not observed the rule the fatality would not have occurred, and, in the second instance, the Crown was forced to take the opposite view, and declare that had the driver observed the rule he would have avoided the fatality, and, besides, would not have been charged with negligence. It is understood, however, that steps are being taken to amend the bylaw, to bring it into line with the regulations which apply to ordinary vehicle traffic.

"One for Germany."—Mr. Robt. M'Millan, when addressing the Country Press Association's gathering on Saturday, told of a man who described a band programme. He said the band played "Rule Britannia" to please the Englishmen present; "The Marseillaise" was for the Frenchmen; "The Campbells are Coming" for the Scotchmen; and "The Wearing of the Green" for the Irishmen. "Then," he said, "they played "For those in Peril on the Sea," and that was one for the Germans.

Illawarra Trains.—The Railway Department has made a change in the passenger traffic in regard to the Illawarra trains. A separate platform has now been provided at Redfern Station for them. In the past these trains, when stopping at Redfern, blocked the traffic on the slow train suburban lines. The special platform now provided will remove a cause of delay in the traffic.

Dear Boots.—The public has become so accustomed to the principal domestic necessities being increased in price, with an extra shilling or two on the rent, a modest farthing on the bread, and sundry pennies on other commodities, that the knowledge that it will have now to pay more for its boots, shoes, and slippers will be received with equanimity. Paternal composure has become a characteristic of the Australian household, and to pay a little more for the family footwear should not ruffle it, as it is but a minor detail in the avalanche of increased prices. The present increase will be the third made by the boot manufacturers within a comparatively short time. But the hide market is on the up grade. Each successive auction sale sees an increase. During the last six weeks the tanners have been so seriously affected that they have decided to make a ten per cent. increase on the selling price. The result of this is that the Boot, Shoe, and Slipper Manufacturers' Association has in turn agreed to pass on the extra cost to the unfortunate consumer. It is stated that the quantity of hides and skins that are being shipped from Australia is largely responsible for the heavy demand for the local article.

A Timely Score.—Amateur cricket and pounds, shillings, and pence are not, as a rule, allied closely, and a casual spectator at the Burwood v North Sydney match on Saturday afternoon would have had good reason to believe the bookmaking element were present in force. H. G. Pratten was batting, and, as soon as his individual score exceeded fifty, spectators commenced to value his score at the rate of a shilling a run. When he hit a four he was called "an ungrateful son," and by some "an avaricious batsman." All this seemed bewildering until it was explained that Pratten's father, who, by the bye, is president of the Chamber of Manufactures, had promised his son a new bat if he scored fifty, and a shilling a run for every run he made over. Pratten scored 93, so he became entitled to a new bat and forty-three shillings. He was asked by "wags" to give them his old bat, and how much he had paid to "square" the bowlers. Pratten smiled serenely through it all, and had the pleasure of making his highest score in senior cricket.

Chapter of Misfortune.—After scoring numerous successes in the Ballarat Band Contest last week, the visit of the Manly Band to Victoria terminated on Saturday in singular misfortune. On Friday Mr. C. Skinner, solo euphonium, received a telegram that his father had met with a very serious accident, and that he was in a critical condition. The same day Mr. E. Haywood, solo soprano, received a wire stating that his fiancee, who had gone over to Victoria to join him, had died in Melbourne. On Saturday night, when the Manly Band was playing "Samson and Delilah," its last test piece—the band which had preceded them began to play in another part of the ground "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The effect of this was electrical, and the members of the Manly Band suddenly ceased playing. The hymn tune completely unnerved them, and the contest was over so far as Manly was concerned.

Miss Hannah McLeod, who has been matron of the Women's Hospital, in Crown-street, Sydney, since it was established about 18 years ago, died on Saturday morning, aged 55. Deceased was one of the pioneers of the district nursing scheme. She was a native of Sydney.

KIRK-KILISSE.

BRILLIANT VICTORY.

BAYONETS IN THE MOONLIGHT.

RETREAT CUT OFF.

GREAT SERVIAN SUCCESS.

PROBLEM FOR THE POWERS.

It is reported that Mukhtar Pasha, who fled with the bulk of his army from Kirk-Kilisse to the south-east, has had his retreat cut off.

The Bulgarians have now completely encircled Adrianople, and their artillery has set portions of the town on fire.

The victorious Servian army, after the battle of Kumanovo, marched to Uskub, and entered the town unopposed.

There are indications that the Turks are preparing to withdraw from Scutari, which is now closely beset by the Montenegrins.

The Greek army has pushed northward to Kozani, within 30 miles of the Monastir railway.

There is a growing feeling that the Powers will have to accept an alteration in the status quo in the Balkans if the Allies continue their victories.

THE STATUS QUO.

PROBLEM FOR THE POWERS.

VIENNA, Oct. 26.

The fall of Kirk-Kilisse and the demoralisation of the Truks have created a profound impression.

The influential newspapers declare that the dicta of the Great Powers that Turkish integrity must not be interfered with cannot be upheld.

The "Neue Freie Presse" declares: "The status quo has been shaken, and the Powers cannot insist on confining the victors to their former limits."

The "Zeit" says:—"Europe must accommodate itself to revolutionary changes in the Near East.'

The Foreign Office, through the "Wiener Gazette," states that Russia and Austria will inform the Balkan monarchs at the right time that Turkish integrity must not be touched.

The "Reichspost" states that the status quo in the Balkans is dead, and no diplomatic skill can revive it. Austria, it adds, has neither the power nor the mission to prevent Turkey's collapse. This newspaper hopes that it will be possible to reconcile Austria's interests with the expectations of the Balkan States.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.

Official quarters express the belief that the Great Powers will intervene after the first decisive battle.

"BALKANS FOR BALKAN PEOPLE."

THE LEAGUE'S AIM.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

The Balkan League proposes that no State shall conclude peace with Turkey singly.

Balkan diplomatists describe the primary aim of the league to be "The Balkans for the Balkan people."

They add that the league is favourable to the interests of the Triple Entente, inasmuch as it will always prove an obstacle to German expansion.

SOFIA, Oct. 25.

The Premier, commenting on the capture of Kirk-Kilisse by the Bulgarians, said that the allies had no intention of exterminating the Turks.

He added: "If the Powers are sincerely desirous of pacifying the Balkans peace can soon be concluded."

BRITAIN'S PRECAUTION.

NAVAL RESERVES WARNED.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

The newspapers state that the Class A Fleet Reserve, numbering 30,000 men, has been warned to be in readiness to respond to an immediate call to rejoin their ships.

THE FIGHTING.

HOW KIRK KILISSE FELL.

WILD BULGARIAN CHARGES.

SOFIA, Oct. 26.

The Bulgarians regarded Kirk-Kilisse as the Port Arthur of the war.

It is estimated that the town was garrisoned by 8000 men, while the outside support numbered 50,000.

After several days' manoeuvring General Dimitrieff, commanding the second army corps, practically surrounded the Turks.

Then General Ivanoff, the Bulgarian Commander-in-Chief, on Wednesday evening peremptorily ordered General Dimitrieff to take Kirk-Kilisse by Thursday morning.

The order to advance against the fortifications was given, and the troops went forward with alacrity in the brilliant moonlight.

The Turks defended with stubborn bravery, and the Bulgarian advance was made in the teeth of a withering fire. Sheaves of dead marked their progress up the fort-crowned slopes.

The Bulgarians dashed for the earthworks, and several of these were carried in succession at the point of the bayonet, a weapon in the use of which these troops excel.

The fighting in the earthworks was of the fiercest description, the Turks disputing every inch they gave way.

The battle raged throughout the remainder of the night, the Bulgarians winning their way by brilliant charges into the edge of the town itself.

By 10 o'clock it became evident that the Turkish position was untenable, and the fine courage which had sustained the Ottoman troops, began to collapse.

Mukhtar Pasha, the Turkish commander, and Prince Aboul Halim, foreseeing the result, escaped with a portion of the garrison and a considerable amount of war material, towards Bunarhissar, 15 miles to the south-east.

At 11 o'clock the remnant of the garrison hoisted the white flag and surrendered.

The Bulgarian casualties totalled 5000, and the Turkish losses are estimated at 16,000.

There were plenty of grim evidences among the wounded of the free use of the sword and the bayonet during the fight.

Many of the Turks in Kirk-Kilisse were famished, indicating that the transport arrangements had been insufficient.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 26.

Ahmed, a son of Mukhtar Pasha, the Turkish commander at Kirk-Kilisse, is among the Turks who fell into the hands of the Bulgarians.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

Details respecting the taking of Kirk-Kilisse by the Bulgarians show that the heavy bombardment, which preceded the storming, set fire to the town.

A terrific struggle took place between the opposing armies in the vineyards immediately to the north, whence the Bulgarians forced an entry into the town.

Having won their way into the town they became masters of the place after an hour's fighting in the streets, and then pursued the retreating Turks.

The Bulgarians' booty included 58 guns and two aeroplanes.

The Central News Agency declares that Mukhtar Pasha himself and Prince Aboul Halim were taken prisoners.

CUTTING OFF THE RETREAT.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

The "Times" states that the Bulgarians' endeavour to cut off Mukhtar Pasha's retreat towards Constantinople will be hampered by their inefficient cavalry.

The paper adds that interest now centres in the retreating Mukhtar Pasha rather than in Nazim Pasha, who has assumed supreme control of the Turkish army.

There are indications that a great battle is about to be fought. The organisation of the Turks is inferior, and their artillery cannot be compared with that of the allies. They are also deficient in transport equipment and feeding arrangements, and there is also a serious deficiency of horses. The Redif (reserve) regiments are badly under-officered.

It is rumoured that there are grave differences between Mukhtar Pasha and Nazim Pasha.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.

The "Lokal Anzeiger's" correspondent at Eski Saghra, states that Mukhtar Pasha's retreat has been cut off by the Bulgarians.

THE TURNING MOVEMENT.

SOFIA, Oct. 26.

The Turks fled from Tirnovo before the Bulgarians arrived. They were in a miserable plight, their rations having been reduced to 1½ kilo per head per day.

The Bulgarians are now pursuing the fugitives south past Visa.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

The turning movement at Visa continues, and a big battle has been in progress all to-day.

THE FIGHT FOR ADRIANOPLE.

SOFIA, Oct. 26.

The First Bulgarian army corps fought its way nearer to Adrianople yesterday. It captured the railway station just outside the town and three forts at Marash, taking 1800 prisoners. It also took the villages of Havaras, a short distance to the north-west, and Sufilar, to the north-east of Adrianople.

During a severe engagement at Yurush, near the town, the Turks lost 300 killed and 500 prisoners, together with three quick-firers and 13 ammunition waggons.

The Bulgarians have reached Karadach, 3½ miles from Adrianople, and their bombardment has set fire to a portion of the town.

General Ivanoff is now completing the investment by linking up at Bosniakeui, on the Maritza, two or three miles south of the town, the forces that advanced down the Arda valley from the west, and the force that has swept round the east.

Fighting continues along the line from Adrianople to Kirk-Kilisse. The Bulgarians are gaining some ground and endeavouring to outflank the Turks, and cut the communication with Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 26.

The Bulgarians made a night attack on Fort Marash, on the west of Adrianople, but a heavy artillery fire from the fort repulsed them with heavy loss.

There is a force of 60,000 in the garrison at Adrianople, and a similar number protecting the Turkish lines of communication from Adrianople to Lule-Burgas, 45 miles to the south-east.

The whole of the Asiatic section of the Turkish army is being concentrated in the vilayet of Adrianople.

The mobilisation of the army is still only half completed.

There will shortly, however, be 400,000 men concentrated near Constantinople, where a decisive battle will occur.

PETCHEVO OCCUPIED.

SOFIA, Oct. 26.

The Bulgarians have occupied Petchevo about 25 miles due south of Djumaia.

FIGHTING AT DJUMAIA.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 26.

The Turks assaulted Djumaia, which is in Turkish territory, immediately south of Sofia, and captured the Bulgarians' central position, after which the defenders retreated, having sustained heavy loss.

The Turks captured a Bulgarian battery in the Despoto mountains, east of Djumaia.

SERVIAN VICTORY.

BATTLE OF KUMANOVO.

SAVAGE FIGHTING.

BELGRADE, Oct. 25.

Details respecting the battle of Kumanovo state that 25,000 Turks were engaged in the conflict, which was continuous throughout Tuesday and Wednesday, and part of Thursday.

Prince Alexander, the Crown Prince, led the Servians.

The Turks took the offensive, attacking the Servian positions five miles north of the town on Wednesday afternoon.

The battlefield was shrouded in fog.

By dusk the Turkish onslaught had been checked, but not before severe losses had been sustained by both sides.

At 1 o'clock in the morning the Servians approached the Turkish entrenchments, and another fight, lasting two hours, ensued.

At daylight the Servian artillery covered a general advance. The country was open, and the Servians were exposed to a heavy fire; nevertheless they stormed the successive Turkish earthworks. Fierce hand to hand struggles took place, in which many men dropped their rifles, and used their knives.

Eventually all the earthworks were captured, and by noon the Servians had cleared both the Libovkas valley and the town of Kumanovo itself, the Turks withdrawing 15 kilometres to the south.

During the battle the Servian artillery annihilated three squadrons of Turkish cavalry.

The Servians had many officers killed during the fighting.

It is reported that the Turks lost 5000 men. One "Turkish" officer who was wounded proved to be a German.

The Servian spoil included 55 field guns, six mountain guns, and 16 mitrailleuses, and an enormous quantity of ammunition.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

The Servian Legation announces that 500 Moslem Albanians and Turks at Kumanovo were bayoneted for attacking a detachment when the latter had got to within 15 paces of them to receive their surrender on the white flag being hoisted.

USKUB OCCUPIED.

BELGRADE, Oct. 27.

The Servians, after the battle of Kumanovo, marched on to Uskub, which they entered unopposed.

The Consuls there requested the Crown Prince, commanding the victorious army, to protect the inhabitants.

IN THE NORTH-WEST.

BELGRADE, Oct. 26.

The Turks yesterday attempted to retake Novi Bazar, but the attacking force was practically annihilated.

The Servians have captured Vuchitra, about 5 miles south-east of Mitrovitza, near the railway to Uskub.

Now that Sienitza has fallen into their hands, the Servians claim that they dominate the whole sandjak of Novi Bazar.

The Servian spoils at Sienitza included 13 field guns and nine mortars.

BELGRADE, Oct. 25.

Some of those who were wounded at Prepolatz, on the border, about 30 miles south-east of Novi Bazar, on the 18th, state that a force of Turkish regulars and Moslem Albanians were seen moving in the woods across the frontier, and the Servians had scarcely reached a defensive position when the Turks opened a heavy fire on them, lasting several hours.

Late in the afternoon, when the Turks were within 15 yards of the Servian lines, the commander of the latter ordered a bayonet charge.

As a result of the engagement 1000 Turks were killed, and the Servian loss was considerable.

GREEK ADVANCE.

KOZANI OCCUPIED.

THE BRUTAL TURK.

ATHENS, Oct. 26.

The Crown Prince's army entered Kozani, about 20 miles north-west of Serfidze, and 30 south of the Monastir railway without opposition.

The inhabitants welcomed them in a most enthusiastic fashion.

Although the Greeks were allowed to enter the town unopposed, the Turks subsequently attacked them there, but they were repulsed.

A reconnaissance yesterday disclosed the fact that the village of Koumtsades had been looted by the Turks. All the young male Christian children in the village had been killed by the Turks and Moslem Albanians, and the women and girls had been fearfully outraged.

The recent Greek successes at the Sarandapores Valley are attributed to the mobility of the troops and the long-range guns.

The Greek losses during the fighting in the valley totalled 18 officers and 169 men killed and 40 officers and 1037 men wounded.

The Turkish losses were extremely heavy.

The Crown Prince and his staff attended the funeral of 70 women and children who were massacred by the Turks at Serfidze prior to the Greek army capturing the city.

Six hundred Turkish prisoners have been sent to Greece.

IN EPIRUS.

ATHENS, Oct. 26.

After severe fighting, which extended over three days, the Turks retired from their positions at Kiaffa, in Epirus.

The Greeks are now marching on Philippiada, 40 miles south of Janina, and Strebina, a few miles further to the south-east.

ATHENS, Oct. 26.

Fighting is in progress near Pintepigadhia, about 25 miles south of Janina.

THE MONTENEGRINS.

ATTACK ON SCUTARI.

TURKS PREPARING TO RETREAT.

CETINJE, Oct. 25.

The Montenegrin infantry quitted their entrenchments outside Scutari, and advanced on the town, but they were checked by a withering Turkish fire.

A shell fell within ten yards of the Crown Prince.

In the event of the failure of the mission of the envoys who were sent into Scutari to arrange terms for its capitulation the Montenegrins are preparing to renew the attack from three sides.

The population is in a state of panic.

VIENNA, Oct. 25.

A portion of the garrison defending Scutari is withdrawing to Zabrina Heights, situated to the south.

This is interpreted as an indication that the Turks are preparing to retreat.

The Montenegrins have silenced three batteries on Tarabosch Hill, the key to Scutari.

THE WAY TO IPEK.

CETINJE, Oct. 26.

General Vukotitch, who has been operating in the Schlieb Mountains, has now subdued the Moslem Albanians, who have been opposing him, and his way is clear to Ipek, 35 miles south-west of Novi Bazar.

GENERAL ITEMS.

LUKEWARM TURKS.

WARLIKE CRETANS.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

The "Daily Telegraph's" correspondent on the Turkish side refers to the lack of enthusiasm in the Ottoman ranks, owing to misrule and distrustfulness between the Young Turks and the rest.

The Asiatic reservists, who in recent months have been ordered first to Albania and then to Tripoli, and then elsewhere, have lost heart.

The priests are endeavouring to work up some enthusiasm in Stamboul, but even there the Turks have to be forcibly enrolled, and many of the wealthier classes are paying the exemption fees.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 27.

A military train was derailed yesterday through running into a flock of sheep between Seidler and Adrianople. Several soldiers were injured, and the train service has been delayed for 24 hours.

ATHENS, Oct. 26.

Eight hundred additional Cretan volunteers have arrived here.

M. Dragoumis, the newly-appointed Greek Governor-General of Crete, was accorded an ovation on his arrival at Canea.

SIMLA, Oct. 26.

The Moslems in the chief centres, including Delhi and Bombay, have subscribed £15,000 towards the Red Crescent funds.

NOTES ON THE WAR.

The profound impression which the defeat of the Turks is evidently making in Europe can be readily understood, for the efficiency with which the armies of the allies are being handled must surprise those who had not kept in touch with their more recent organisation. The admission by the Austrian newspapers that the status quo ante bellum can no longer be insisted upon by the Powers is very significant. The note of the Powers to the Balkan States indicating that the integrity of Turkey would have to be maintained whatever the result of the war will clearly have to be modified. The statement from Berlin suggesting that the Powers are ready to intervene after the first decisive battle has to be taken in relation with the reported decision of the allies not to conclude peace singly, and to organise a Balkan Confederation subsequent to the war. The Powers could only enforce a settlement unsatisfactory to the allies by force of arms, and they will be reluctant to attempt this. The suggestion that a Balkan League would be favourable to the interests of the Triple Entente as providing an obstacle to German expansion implies that Austria's ambitions will be thwarted by a union of the present allies. And that is by no means certain. But the decisive battle has yet to be fought, and we are not likely to hear of intervention till it takes place.

* * * * *

The capture of Adrianople cannot now be long delayed. It is now stated that the Turkish garrison consists of 60,000 men, and this would correspond to the army corps which was left to defend the town whilst the main Turkish army concentrated further south at Eski Baba and Lule Burgas. After a number of engagements to the west, north, and north-east of the town, the Bulgarians, under the supreme command of General Ivanoff, have now completely surrounded Adrianople. The railway station across the Maritza River to the south-west of the town has been occupied, and the third Bulgarian army corps, under General Kutchineff, which has been advancing along the Arda Valley to the west, and a portion of General Dimitrieff's victorious army operating between Adrianople and Kirk-Kilisse have linked up at Bosniakeui, two or three miles south of the town, on the River Maritza. The town is most heavily fortified on the north and west, and the bombardment from the south in addition to the attack from the other sides should bring about the town's capitulation. A portion of the city is already on fire.

* * * * *

Further details with regard to the capture of Kirk-Kilisse indicate the superiority of the Bulgarian force at every point. The moonlight attack on Wednesday night must have been a brilliant achievement, and the Bulgarians seem to have brought a good deal of dash and skill into their assault, although the Turks were not lacking in their customary courageous and stubborn defence. This war, following the experience in South Africa, in Manchuria, and in Tripoli, is by no means supporting the prediction that, with the advent of long-range guns, hand to hand fighting is a thing of the past. We are hearing of bayonet charges, street fighting, and the replacement of rifles by knives at more than one portion of the war area. The estimate now made of the Turkish losses at Kirk-Kilisse is 16,000, besides 58 guns, two aeroplanes, and other military equipment. The Bulgarians admit that their casualties amounted to 5000, and there is no doubt that the fighting was throughout very severe. The garrison is stated to have consisted of 8000, whilst a force of 50,000 met the Bulgarian attack outside. When Mukhtar Pasha (son of the late Grand Vizier), who was in command of the Turkish force at Kirk-Kilisse, realised that the town was likely to be surrounded, he appears to have escaped with the main portion of his force, leaving a comparatively small garrison to delay the Bulgarian attack and surrender as soon as he had made good his retreat.

* * * * *

Mukhtar retired with a force which must, on the basis of the figures already quoted, have amounted to 20,000 or 30,000 men along the road which runs south-east from Kirk-Kilisse to Constantinople. General Dimitrieff sent a column in pursuit, but the Turks reached Bunarhissar, about 15 miles from Kirk-Kilisse, and proceeded on their way to Visa, a further 15 miles distance. Meanwhile a Bulgarian force had been proceeding along the coast via Tirnovo, with the object of cutting off the Turkish communications from Constantinople via Visa, and some point on the railway to the south. Mukhtar has evidently been overtaken by one or both of these two Bulgarian forces, for the latest cable with regard to these operations states that Mukhtar's retreat has been cut off, though at what point is not at present indicated.

* * * * *

The "Times" correspondent suggests that interest is now centred in this phase of the situation. The importance can be at once realised. Not only may Mukhtar's force be defeated, and the work done at Kirk-Kilisse completed, but what is still more important the lines of communication from Constantinople may be effectively cut. If the Turkish transport commissariat arrangements are as deficient as appears to be the case, the main Turkish army, which is concentrated at Eski Baba and Lule Burgas, will be seriously incommoded. A Constantinople message states that the Turkish army is still only half mobilised, and that 400,000 men will soon be concentrated "near Constantinople," and it would appear that the decisive engagement will be fought nearer the capital than the concentration further north indicated. The flanking movement now in progress may force Nazim Pasha to move his seven army corps, or a portion of them, from their present base and assume the offensive. The extent of the Bulgarian forces in the Visa district is not known and the possibility of General Dimitrieff's success will depend on the strength of the force he is able to command, and the size of the column advancing on Visa from the coast. Another possibility is that a portion of General Ivanoff's army, which is investing Adrianople, and must outnumber the Turkish garrison by at least four to one, will be detached before the town falls, and march to the south with the view of preliminary manoeuvres in the district in which the main Turkish army is now concentrated. A hundred thousand men should be more than sufficient to complete the capture of Adrianople, and the remainder of the Bulgarian army corps could then assist in the out-flanking movement in the south. So far the Bulgarian Generals have shown capacity for rapid decision and skilful execution, and the "decisive battle" may take place sooner than was at one time anticipated.

* * * * *

An important element in the situation is the internal dissension and lack of enthusiasm among certain sections of the Turkish troops, which are reported by the "Daily Telegraph" correspondent. Grave differences are rumoured to have arisen between Nazim Pasha the Turkish commander-in-chief, and Mukhtar Pasha. But more serious still is the indifferent and even hostile spirit displayed by the rank and file, which have not forgotten the antagonisms between the old Hamidian rule and the government of the Young Turks. The Albanians are resentful at misrule, and the Asiatic troops have lost heart at resultless campaigns in Tripoli and elsewhere. The Turks can only prevent complete disaster by a united, whole-hearted display of the qualities which have made them famous as a military force. When this is lacking their prospects are indeed hopeless.

* * * * *

The Servians have achieved a success of very considerable moment by the capture of Uskub. The town is the most important strategic and commercial centre in European Turkey north of Salonika. It commands the railway southwards to Salonika, northwards to the Sandjak of Novi Bazar at Mitrovitza, and north-east to Nisch, thus connecting with the trans-European railway. Roads radiate in all directions, and the main trade route to the Adriatic passes through it. It has historical associations, for it was the birthplace of Justinian and the capital of the Roman province of Dardania, and the capital of the Servian Empire under Dushan in the fourteenth century. The attack on Kumanovo, 15 miles north of Uskub, decided the fate of the latter town, which was itself not defended. The fighting at Kumanovo appears to have been particularly severe, and lasted continuously for three days. Presumably the remainder of Zekki Pasha's army of 100,000 men has retreated to the south towards Kuprili, on the railway, and the Servians will doubtless pursue this force. The road to Salonika will then be open to the Servians, who will receive the co-operation of the Greeks if they decide to attack the former headquarters of the Young Turk Party. The success of the Servian army is one of the surprises of the war.

* * * * *

The Greeks are continuing their successful pursuit of the retreating Turks. They should now have little difficulty in capturing Janina, in Epirus, and the seizure of Kozani, north-west of Serfidze, brings them within measurable distance of the railway between Salonika and Monastir. The news from Montenegro is scanty. But the seizure of Scutari cannot now be much longer delayed, and General Vukovitch is now about to attack Ipek, to the east of the North Albanian Mountains.

BRITAIN'S DEFENCE.

MINISTER'S VIEWS.

LORD ROBERTS DENOUNCED.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

Mr. Lewis Harcourt (Secretary of State for the Colonies), in a speech at Rossendale, Lancashire, said that Britain was determined to rely upon her own forces in the Mediterranean, irrespective of alliances or understandings.

Referring to the question of imperial defence, he said he was convinced that as a result of the visit of Mr. Borden and his colleagues to England no effort would be wanting on their part to provide the assistance and support they might deem necessary to maintain, and even strengthen, our supremacy on the sea.

There was on the part of the Canadian Ministry and people a natural and laudable desire for a greater measure of consultation and co-operation with the motherland than had been the case in the past. Such a course was not intended to and need not open up those difficult problems which, seeming to entail questions of taxation and representation, had made that policy many years ago a dead issue. Therefore, the Dominions might immediately be given a larger share in the executive direction of the defence of the Empire. Everybody would be glad if a member or members of each overseas Cabinet could be annually in London. The door of fellowship and friendship would be always open to them. The Government, he declared, did not need the formality of an Imperial Conference for the continuity of Imperial confidence.

Mr. Walter Runciman (president of the Board of Agriculture), in addressing a meeting at Elland, Yorkshire, referred to Lord Roberts' recent warning in regard to Britain's unpreparedness for war.

He said that Lord Roberts' speech was deplorable, pernicious, and dangerous. If the utterances of Lord Roberts were resented in Germany he would like Germany to know that they were equally resented in England.

THE CZAREVITCH.

CONFLICTING ACCOUNTS.

PUBLIC DEMANDS THE TRUTH.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 26.

There are many conflicting stories concerning the injuries sustained by the Czarevitch, whose condition is now said to be hopeful.

The public is clamouring for the true version.

One story is to the effect that the Czarevitch was deliberately shot in the groin while aboard the Royal yacht Standart. It is alleged that several revolutionaries by means of false papers secured enrolment in the Standart's crew.

Another report states that the injuries were the result of an accident aboard the yacht. It is said that the Czarevitch was climbing some spars and fell.

The suicide of Admiral Chagin, who commanded the yacht, is variously ascribed to a sense of responsibility in having assured the Czar that the yacht was safe, and to his love affair recently reported.

Admiral Chagin led the Russian Naval Brigade in China during the Boxer rebellion. He bequeathed, £5000 to his girl lover, who is reported to have attempted suicide.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 25.

The woman who cut her throat on discovering that Admiral Chagin had committed suicide is not seriously injured.

MR. ROOSEVELT.

STRONG POLICE GUARD.

OYSTER BAY, Oct. 26.

A stranger attempted to enter Mr. Roosevelt's home at Oyster Bay, but was forcibly ejected.

The ex-President is receiving many threatening letters, and he has been provided with a special police guard.

Mr. Roosevelt has so far recovered from his wound that he has resumed his electioneering campaign for the Presidency. Preparations are pending for a further series of meetings.

Mr. Roosevelt says that he is feeling splendid, but the doctors have warned him not to overtax his strength.

SUIT FOR LIBEL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.

Mr. Roosevelt is suing Mr. George Newell, the editor of a small daily at Ishpeming, Michigan, claiming damages for libel.

The journal published an article accusing Mr. Roosevelt of intemperance, both in respect of language and liquor.

DEAR MEAT.

GERMANY IMPORTING.

CHANCELLOR UNBENDING.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.

The Berlin Municipality is receiving consignments of meat at the rate of 150 tons weekly, which will shortly be doubled.

Herr von Bethman-Hollweg (German Imperial Chancellor) stated in the Prussian Diet that it was not intended to repeal the regulations regarding meat inspection, which would practically prevent the importation of frozen beef.

It was the Government's duty, the Chancellor added, to make and permanently keep the home meat production independent of foreign countries.

If in periods of abnormal markets higher prices were paid for economic independence Germans would not be making sacrifices to a usurious protectionist policy, but discharging a debt to the Fatherland for their safety.

MEXICAN REBELLION.

FATE OF GENERAL DIAZ.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 26.

The Government is deliberating whether it will execute General Diaz, nephew of ex-President Diaz, the leader of the latest rebellion in Mexico.

The other officers who were captured with General Diaz are likely to be shot.

The friends of Diaz are trying to save him.

NEW P. AND O. LINER.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

The P. and O. Company's steamer Benalla has been launched.

LONELY PITCAIRN.

ISLAND EVILS.

RESULT OF INTERMARRIAGE.

PLEA FOR THE PEOPLE.

For over five years Mr. W. W. Carey, a Seventh Day Adventist missionary and a native of Tasmania, has been labouring on Pitcairn Island, that lonely speck of land in the Eastern Pacific, where a section of the descendants of the Bounty mutineers are still living, the remainder being settled on Norfolk Island. Mr. Carey arrived in Sydney a few days ago by the steamer Frankmere, which looked in at the island on her voyage across from Valparaiso, and gave Mr. Carey, who had been trying to get away for a year or more, a passage home.

AN ISOLATED COMMUNITY.

The Pitcairners have very few visitors. They are a people apart, far off the regular routes of travel. Papers and magazines are sometimes years old by the time they reach them. Mr. Carey did not receive some of his letters until two years after they had been posted. Now and then a man-o'-war drops in, H.M.S. Torch calling in 1907, and H.M.S. Challenger last year, and occasionally passing sailing craft are hailed, and the islanders, who are expert boatmen, go out and barter fruit, vegetables, and curios for clothing. Money, of course, is not refused, the small sums that are acquired being handed to the women, and spent in purchasing dress materials and articles for domestic use when a small trading schooner pays its visit about every two years. There are 148 people on the island, the sexes being pretty evenly divided—71 males and 77 females. With a desire to drift through the remainder of their days with placid ease, three Americans have taken up their residence on the island—a Mr. Coffin, an old sailor, and a Mr. Lincoln Clark and his son, from Los Angeles.

The island supplies almost all the wants of the community, with the exception of clothing. Oranges, bananas, pineapples, lemons, limes, sugarcane, sweet potatoes, beans, and taro grow in great abundance. Arrowroot was at one time the staple crop, but its preparation is a tedious operation, and the price has been so low that the islanders gave up growing it for sale, but are cultivating it again, because the price has gone up. A species of molasses is made from the sugarcane, the milling of which has to be done by hand. The rich syrup made from the juice of the cane is used instead of sugar. Orange leaves are used in place of tea. There are a large number of goats on the island, individually owned and branded. Fowls are likewise branded, the method adopted being the cutting off of particular toe-nails, which is done as soon as the chickens are hatched. There is only one horse on Pitcairn, and no oxen. The nearest market for the produce is Mangareva, one of the Gambier group, about 300 miles away. The islanders used to have a 15-ton cutter which traded there, but it was wrecked, with loss of life, in 1904. Since that time there has been no opportunity to export produce, as but few of the schooners trading in the archipelago venture as far east as Pitcairn.

NO COMMUNAL SYSTEM.

The government of the island is conducted by a chief magistrate (Mr. Gerard Christian), who is assisted by two assessors, the chairman of the internal committee, and a Government secretary, all the positions being honorary. Mr. Carey says that the Government is fairly satisfactory, but he is of opinion that it would be better to have someone not related to the community in control, though the present chief magistrate is a very good man. The island is between five and six square miles in extent, and about four miles of roads have been constructed.

It is not a fact that the communal system is in vogue. That is a mistake often made in stories about Pitcairn. "They help one another, of course," explained Mr. Carey, "but to describe them as communists is quite erroneous. Each has his little plot, and if a man loafs he suffers." When it is remembered how small the island is, it is easy to understand the lack of excitement that characterises life there. The cry of "Sail Ho!" causes a tremendous flutter in the village, for the calling of a ship is a very great event for this isolated community.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS.

Once adherents of the Church of England, the islanders have now adopted the tenets of belief held by the Seventh Day Adventists. Mr. Carey says that they are a happy people, very hospitable and sociable, and passionately fond of music. "The island has, I know," he remarked yesterday, "often been pictured as a sort of Garden of Eden, inhabited by saints. That is hardly so; they are not saints. Some of their characteristics tend more toward the native than the English side, but they are much superior to the natives. They are a very clean people. But they are inclined to be a bit lax in their morals. Considering their antecedents, and all other conditions, what lapses occur are perhaps not to be wondered at. During the first ten years of settlement on the island, almost every crime under the sun was committed. As for Adams, well, he was just another Brigham Young."

INTERMARRIAGE.

Intermarriage is having a very injurious effect upon the people morally and physically. "Every couple," Mr. Carey stated, "are more or less related. Two brothers married two sisters, and their children intermarried, and the progeny of the latter are not fully developed. The people, as a whole, are not over bright, though there are some there quite as smart as average Australians. On account of the very limited choice, many of the marriages are not happy ones. In fact, the young people will tell you quite frankly that they would not marry each other if they could get anyone else. Though they are very much attached to their island, I regard it as imperative, in their own interests, that they should leave it, and be scattered in Australia or somewhere else. It is no use establishing them in settlements, because they are very clannish, and might go on intermarrying, thus continuing the very evil that we want them to avoid."

No wines or spirits of any description are used on the island, and tobacco is used only by the two Americans.

In addition to his religious work, Mr. Carey acted as school teacher, physician, and general adviser of the people, who were very loth to part with him.

FOREST TRAGEDY.

MAN SHOT DEAD.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A terrible tragedy occurred at Emu, seven miles from Bealiba, last evening, when a powerfully-built young man named Robert Lockwood was shot dead by his brother-in-law, William Carlyon.

Both men were forest workers, and resided at Emu. Last night Lockwood called at Carlyon's house in an intoxicated condition, armed with a big knife and the tug chain of a dray. An altercation commenced, and it is alleged that Lockwood endeavoured to put into operation his threat to murder the whole family, whereupon Carlyon drew a revolver in self-defence and shot Lockwood dead.

Carlyon has been arrested.

POLICE CAB CAPSIZES.

LUNATIC'S DESPERATE ATTEMPT.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

Whilst the police cab was conveying four policemen and a lunatic prisoner to the court-house on Saturday morning the bolt came out of one of the shafts, and the cab toppled over. The occupants were thrown to the ground, but escaped with a few bruises and abrasions. The prisoner made a dash to throw himself under a passing train, but was prevented by one of the police. The cab horse bolted, and became entangled in a barbed wire fence surrounding the central reserve, and was only rescued after being severely cut about the legs.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PANIC.

FATHER CHRISTMAS ON FIRE.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

While a cantata was being produced in the Bromley Sunday School, at Dunolly, a match set fire to the beard of a Father Christmas, and a panic ensued, the building being crowded at the time.

Fortunately no one was seriously injured, but some of the ladies received slight hurts through being crushed. A lad who was taking the part of Father Christmas was severely burned about the face and neck.

THE SCULLERS.

SCRAMBLE FOR AUSTRALIAN CHAMPIONSHIP.

THREE CHALLENGERS.

The sculling world is unusually agitated at present. Harry Pearce, the holder of the Australian championship, is rushed with offers of matches. While he would have been glad of them before he forwarded his deposit of £100 to bind a match with Barry next English spring, he is now embarrassed by the wealth of opportunity. It is generally believed that his backers are anxious that his next race should be for the world's championship, and in that case he will be obliged to reject the recent offers of Alf. Felton, J. Paddon, and Charlie Towns. In that case he must forfeit the Australian championship in the interests of his match with Barry.

If he forfeits, Felton will be entitled to claim the Australian championship, as he has already put up £25 with his challenge. Felton's friends regard their action in getting in first as smart work; so do Towns's friends. As a result, offers have been made to back James Paddon against Felton, and Towns against Felton. Towns, especially, seems bent on getting a match, as he has put up £25 to row either Pearce or Felton. This means, of course, that if Felton gets the championship by forfeit, Towns will be first challenger to bid for the title so easily secured by Felton.

Pearce has not yet decided what he will do so far as these three men are concerned. One thing he is fixed upon, and that is he intends to do his level best to wrest the world's championship from Barry. If he succeeds, and had these challenges not cropped up, the Australian championship would have passed away from him by regulation. This cannot now happen, as Felton has complied with the conditions of the challenge. If Pearce's backers are willing that he should defend the title against Felton he will do so, provided that he will not jeopardise his match with Barry. The question will be settled early this week.

"I wish this rush had been going six months ago," said Pearce yesterday. "I would have been delighted to have given the three of them a match."

The backers of both Felton and Paddon are satisfied that both these men will figure prominently in the sculling world in the near future. A match between them is sure to create widespread interest.

There are those who think that Pearce should have been allowed to hold the title of Australian champion till he met Barry. But this view is now out of the question.

BOAT SWAMPED.

MAN DROWNED AT LONG BAY.

PLUCKY ATTEMPT AT RESCUE.

Yesterday, at about 1 p.m., James F. McLachlan, 22 a motor-lorry driver, employed in the Public Works Department, residing at 26 University-street, Camperdown; Thomas Howard, of Brennan-street, Leichhardt, and Samuel Creig, of Paling-street, Leichhardt, set out on a fishing excursion from Long Bay, in a 14ft sailing boat, called the Iosta. When about 200 yards from the north head, a big wave swamped the boat, and she capsized.

The three occupants were thrown into the water.

McLachlan was soon in trouble, and Howard made a desperate attempt to get him to the waterlogged boat, but on each occasion the waves carried the craft away.

On the third occasion Howard was struck on the head by the boat and had a narrow escape of losing his life. He was thus obliged to give up any further attempts to save the drowning man, who disappeared.

About that time a party from the beach, consisting of Messrs. James M'Cabe, John Anderson, and Herbert Graham, of Long Bay, and W. Fitzhenry, of Kensington, reached the scene in a boat, and rescued Howard and Creig, but they could not see any trace of McLachlan. The waterlogged boat was towed ashore. McLachlan was a married man.

Constables Dunlop and McDougall searched the locality during the afternoon for the missing man's body, but without success. The pilot steamer Captain Cook also patrolled the scene of the accident, but did no more than pick up a few articles which had been washed out of the boat, including the sail, a fishing line, and 50 fathoms of new rope. The police will continue the search to-day. The locality is infested with sharks.

DAVIS CUP.

ENGLISHMEN AT PRACTICE.

TWO PERFECT STYLES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The members of the Lawn Tennis Association of Victoria were yesterday afternoon privileged to witness C. P. Dixon and J. C. Parke, two of the members of the British Isles Davis Cup team, and who will be probably selected to play in the singles matches, at practice on the association's lawns. Owing to some heavy rain in the forenoon, the court was not quite as fast as it otherwise would have been, but even this fact did not seem to mitigate to any apparent extent the severity of their game.

Both players possess perfect style, and with ease and grace of motion added, and an agility which in the case of Dixon is rather remarkable (he is almost 14st in weight), they are without doubt two worthy exponents of the game.

Dixon possesses some particularly brilliant shots, amongst which may be noted his forehand drive, which he excutes with consummate ease from any part of the court, be it a high bound or a low ball. Dixon strikes it with great pace and accuracy. His backhand stroke is also a very fine shot, possessing a beautiful length with a great deal of cut. In fact, Dixon seems to be particularly fond of imparting a cut to the majority of his backhand strokes, and his cut volleys are remarkably well placed and severe.

In Parke one sees a player of very similar style to Dixon, the only apparent difference being an entire absence of any work on the ball. His service and ground strokes are beautifully timed, and his backhand strokes seem to be well-nigh perfect, both as regards severity and ease of execution. Parke belongs to that order of player that tries for every ball, and time after time he effected some remarkably fine saving shots, while on more than one occasion he collided with the back fencing, over 20ft behind the baseline, in his efforts to reach the ball.

Since the arrival of the British team, there has been a marked increase in the demand for seats. Nearly 1300 have already been booked.

LIBERAL VICTORY.

PORT CURTIS SEAT.

RECONTESTED ELECTION.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

The Port Curtis election, which was declared void by the Elections tribunal, was recontested on Saturday, with the result that Mr. Kessell, the Liberal candidate, who was defeated at the general election, was returned.

Results:—

Mr. Kessell (Liberal), 1264.
Mr. Breslin (Socialist), 1202.
Majority for Mr. Kessell, 62.

A couple of small returns are still to come, but these it is anticipated will further increase Mr. Kessell's majority.

DISASTROUS PICNIC.

PARTY POISONED.

EXCITING SCENE.

FIFTEEN PEOPLE IN HOSPITAL.

While a party of picnickers were spending the day at Clifton Gardens yesterday a number of them were suddenly prostrated by violent sickness, and all the symptoms of serious ptomaine poisoning. Four only out of a party of 18 were in a condition to be of any assistance to the others.

Mr. David de Mestre, of Broughton-street, Glebe, when seen at Sydney Hospital last night, had a graphic story of the occurrence to tell.

"We had lunch at about midday, and I really don't know what there could have been to disagree with us. We had some pressed tongues and tinned trifle, it's true, but both the tongues and the trifle tasted quite right, and no one had the faintest idea that anything might be wrong. After lunch we started to play "twos and threes," and generally were having a good time, when suddenly Mrs. Lolard was taken violently ill. We did not think, even then, that there was anything really wrong, and surmised that it was just a severe bilious attack that had seized her, but in a few minutes others started to drop down in every direction, and we realised that something was seriously the matter."

"I was not feeling well, but was able to keep on my feet, and with Mr. Anderson, Mr. Lolard, and Mr. Cameron managed to get the others towards the boat. Even as it was we would have had a very much worse business had it not been for the help of the Water Police, who did great work, and arranged for the ambulances to meet us at the quay. I managed to hold up during the trip across the water, but gave in at the end."

The Civil Ambulance, with all its horse waggons and the motor, was in waiting at the Quay when the steamer arrived, and took 13 to Sydney Hospital, where all were admitted, many in a serious condition.

Those admitted to the hospital were:—

Mrs. MARY ANN LOLARD, 42, a married woman, residing at 441 Glebe-road, Glebe.

Miss BEATRICE LOLARD, 17, 441 Glebe-road, Glebe.

Mrs. KATE SARGENT, 441 Glebe-road, Glebe, and her two-year-old son, the latter not very bad.

Miss VIOLET CHECK, 17, Halloran-street, Lilyfield.

Miss JESSIE CHECK, 21, Halloran-street, Lilyfield.

Miss LILY SMITH, 16, 112 Mitchell-street, Glebe.

Miss STELLA SMITH, 19, Mitchell-street, Glebe.

Miss VIOLET CAMERON, 16, 109 Bridge-road, Glebe.

HAMIL ANDERSON, 21, 109 Bridge-road, Glebe.

WILLIAM STEVENS, 18, 21 St. James'-road, Glebe.

JOHN LOLARD, 25, 441 Glebe-road, Glebe.

DAVID DE MESTRE, Watkin-street, Newtown.

Mr. Jacob Lolard, 23, of Glebe-road, Glebe, was feeling well enough to proceed to his home when he arrived at the Quay, but on arriving at his residence was prostrated, and had to be treated by his family practitioner.

Three only of the party were unaffected—Messrs. H. and V. Anderson and Mr. Cameron. These were able to help their friends, and waited by them at the hospital.

UNLUCKY WEEK-END.

The task of conveying the poisoned picnickers to the hospital came as the finishing touch to a week-end of hard work to the Civil Ambulance, and demonstrated the great utility of the new motor ambulance. Had there been only the horse equipments, the men state, the horses would have been worn out by the hard work, and lives might have been lost by the delays so arising.

Besides the constant transport work that always falls to the lot of the Civil Ambulance, they had to attend to a great number of emergencies. The first of which was the task of conveying to Sydney Hospital Mrs. Dora Hoan, 50, a married woman, who was found at Surry Hills in a state of collapse, with an empty bottle labelled "Chlorodyne," lying beside her. On admission to the hospital she was in a critical condition.

At a quarter past 8 the motor turned out to Redfern-street, Redfern, where it was found that one of a party of telegraph linesmen working on a pole there had fallen to the ground. The unfortunate man, whose name is Harry Tindle, residing at Redgrave-street, Lakemba, had fallen a distance of about [illegible] feet, and had sustained a fracture of the right arm, a severely lacerated scalp wound, with possible concussion and severe internal injuries.

During the afternoon a sensational tram accident occurred at Rose Bay. A tram bound to the Quay caught fire through one of the fuses blowing out. Several of the passengers became excited, and could not wait for the tram to pull up, though the driver immediately applied his brakes, and they leaped from the car. One of these, Miss Kate Walsh, 30, residing at Kent-street, Rose Bay, was thrown to the ground, and susutained a severe compound fracture of the right thigh and probable fracture of the left ankle. She was hurried to St. Vincent's Hospital by the ambulance and admitted, suffering severely from shock, in addition to other injuries.

Vincent Viskovich, a foreigner, residing at Woolloomooloo, and his son, James, also leaped from the front of the tram, and were both thrown on to their heads. The father was killed instantly, while the son was rendered unconscious. They were hurried away to St. Vincent's Hospital in a motor car, where the casualty surgeon pronounced life extinct in the case of the father, and admitted the son in an unconscious condition.

Several cases of methylated spirit drinking and minor injuries to persons in various parts of the suburbs kept the men going in the intervals to more serious cases, the last of which was the case of a boy cyclist, George Wright, who was thrown from his cycle in Liverpool-street, City, and sustained a fractured right thigh and internal injuries. It seems that he was trying to avoid a tram, when he lost control of his machine, and collided with the kerbstone, with the result that he was flung against a verandah post.

AUSTRALIA'S BIG LOSS.

BRANDING HIDES.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

Mr. James Powell, chairman of the leather section of the London Chamber of Commerce, in giving evidence before the Imperial Trade Commission, estimated that Australia lost nearly £1,500,000 annually because of the damage caused to hides by fire branding. Referring to this statement to-day, the Minister for Customs (Mr. Tudor) said that the amount was certainly astounding. Attention had been directed to the matter from time to time, and only recently he had received from Great Britain samples of leather showing the damage caused by large fire-brands. These were to be displayed at the next Australian Natives' Association exhibition, in order to give the public some idea of the injury wrought. The question was one for the producers. If they would not take steps to prevent the loss, he did not know what action the Government could take to compel them to do so.

BROTHERS' QUARREL.

BOOTS AND BOTTLES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Yesterday afternoon two brothers named Donald, who are camped on the Campaspe River, near Rochester, while driving in a spring cart had a quarrel, and fought desperately with their fists and with boots and bottles. A revolver was also used, but no gunshot wounds were inflicted. Both men were badly injured, one having seven gaping wounds in his skull, apparently caused by blows with the bottles. The other was also badly cut. The wife of one man was present, and had her face battered, seemingly from kicks from a boot. There was drink in the cart. The police brought all concerned to Rochester, where they were attended to by a doctor. They were then locked up.

AERIAL ELOPEMENT.

FLIGHT OF 75 MILES.

THE FUGITIVES FORGIVEN.

FORTWAYNE (Indiana), Oct. 26.

The first elopement by aeroplane is announced.

The parents objected to the marriage of Miss Aimee Cour with her fiancee, Mr. Arthur Smith, and the latter carried her off in an aeroplane.

The couple flew 75 miles, were married, and telegraphed the fact to their irate parents, who finally forgave them.

EMPIRE TRADE COMMISSION.

FEDERAL LAND TAX.

LONDON, Oct. 25.

Before the Empire Trade Commission, Mr. Andrew Williamson suggested that if amendments which had been proposed by the Australasian section of the London Chamber of Commerce were adopted they would remove grievances and injustice created by the Commonwealth land tax.

He reiterated some of the arguments which were used by the deputation which waited on Mr. Fisher, Commonwealth Prime Minister, in London, in June last year.

Mr. F. W. Turner secretary of the Scottish and Australian Investment Company, Ltd., said that the company was now investing money in Canada, which previously went to Australia. He knew of no other companies who were doing likewise.

BINGHAM STRIKERS.

CRETANS SHOOT AT DEPUTIES.

SERIOUS STATE OF AFFAIRS.

BINGHAM (Utah), Oct. 25.

Further rioting has taken place in connection with the miners' strike at Bingham.

Five hundred Cretan miners fired on a posse of deputies and mine employees, wounding five, one fatally.

The Cretans, after delivering the attack, fled to the hills overlooking the mines. They are strongly armed, and a further outbreak is feared.

KATMAI IN ERUPTION.

SEA STREWN WITH ASHES.

AN ANXIOUS TIME.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.

Katmai volcano is again active.

Steamships report that the sea is covered with ashes and pumice stone.

Darkness has prevented many vessels proceeding on their voyages.

A heavy pall of smoke hides the peak, from which flames are shooting. Many people have been driven from their homes, and a steamer is standing by to render aid.

AUSTRALIAN FOOTBALLERS.

CALIFORNIA DEFEATED.

BERKELEY (California), Oct. 26.

The Australian Rugby Union footballers defeated California University, at Berkeley, by 13 to nil.

The match was played in drizzling rain. The Californians withstood the Australian attack until the end of the first half, but long, skilful punts overcame their defence.

Tasker played the star game throughout. Once he intercepted a pass in the centre, and carried the ball down the field to within five yards of the Californian goal.

CANADIAN DEFENCE.

PROBLEMS OF THE PACIFIC.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.

The Premier of British Columbia, Mr. R. M'Bride, in the course of an address, said: "Across the Pacific great peoples are awakening to a new life. Perhaps in another decade China and Japan will be marshalled in order to threaten Canada's Pacific possessions. It is time Canada awoke to the peril, and formed a regular Canadian army and navy second to none."

THE CRICKETERS.

MATCH AGAINST BRITISH COLUMBIA.

VICTORIA, Oct. 26.

In the match against British Columbia, at Victoria, the Australians scored 395.

Collinson made 142, and Gregory 118.

British Columbia scored 10 runs without the loss of a wicket.

POLITICAL RIOT IN HAVANA.

HAVANA, Oct. 25.

A riot broke out owing to the differences between the Liberals and Conservatives.

Many were killed and wounded during fighting in the streets.

The electioneering campaign has been marked by numerous disturbances.

THE NEW SOUTH WALES LOAN.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

The prospectus of the New South Wales one and a half million loan has been issued.

The "Financial Times" says that the debentures offered are a perfectly good investment, and that there should be no difficulty in finding subscribers.

ACCIDENT ON THE MARAMA.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 26.

W. Turkington, a steward, was killed, and a sailor named Sinclair and a steward named Buchan were injured, perhaps fatally, through the gangway plank on the Marama falling.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

AUSTRALIANS' SUCCESS.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

In the final for the lawn tennis doubles championship of Europe, Doust and Prebble beat Barrett and Myers, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0.

In the singles, Pockley beat Heydon, 6-8, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 6-1.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

Simmons, a fishmonger, who was arrested in connection with the robbery of a ring, valued at £30, from a jeweller's shop in Edgeware-road, has been discharged.

Mr. Hay, the English engineer, who recently reported on an underground system of railways and tramways for Sydney, has submitted the successful design for the reconstruction of the Southwark Bridge.

Women's suffragists at Ilford yesterday ruined large quantities of letters by pouring chemicals into the pillow boxes.

PEKING, Oct. 25.

A soldier, who is accused of shooting the Rev. F. Day, in March last, was tracked to Tientsin, and finally caught at Kirin, after a sensational chase extending over eight months.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 26.

Tom Burrowes swung clubs for eighty hours four minutes, establishing a new world's record.

PARIS, Oct. 26.

France and Spain have agreed on all points in regard to Morocco.

A SADDLER ROBBED.

On Friday night a thief entered the back window of Mr. Thos. Malone's saddlery shop in Thomas-street, Haymarket, and stole about £10 worth of harness.

MR. WILLIS'S LAUGH.

OUT OF THE CHAIR.

ALL PARTIES CONDEMNED.

"I don't believe in the Labour platform a bit."

The Speaker, Mr. Willis, made that definite pronouncement in the course of a speech at the Country Press Association's harbour outing on Saturday. The delegates were the guests of the Government, and several speakers, reported elsewhere, preceded Mr. Willis, who was received with much cheering.

"I have read of you gentlemen," said Mr. Willis, "and I have read your articles, and I think there is every reason why you should sign them in future. (Laughter.) We know you may say things you don't mean, because you are aware people will not read your papers unless you make them readable, very readable. So you give them what happens, and very often what has not happened, to me. (Laughter.) Very often words are put into my mouth which I have not said, and when I do say something the press says nothing. (More laughter.)

"You know, I am supposed to say nothing, but stand still and be bullied, and take it all kindly and smile. I don't smile when I'm in the Chair, but I fairly laugh when I'm out of the Chair, because I am told many people believe what they see in the papers. No sensible man would believe that newspapers would sell if they always told the truth. That is why they give a little—a very little, sometimes—that is truth and a deal that is fiction. And then the paper is readable." (Laughter.)

Mr. Willis said, much as he would like to say something about the Government, he must not. But after listening to Mr. M'Millan's speech he would ask them if they had ever heard a Scotchman say a good word for a bad cause. And Mr. M'Millan had said the Ministers were decent fellows, though they would have noticed Mr. M'Millan was on top all the time. (Laughter.)

"I do not believe in the Labour platform a bit," concluded Mr. Willis; "but the present Government have done much more good than their predecessors did. That was because they could not do worse. (Loud laughter.) The day will come when we shall see a live party, and that party can only thrive when you gentlemen write a few sensible articles, and speak well of the Speaker." (Laughter.)

THE EVICTION.

FURTHER MEETINGS IN THE COUNTRY.

Arrangements have been made for public meetings of protest against the eviction of the Governor-General as follows:—Windsor, to-morrow; Bathurst, Wednesday; Orange, Thursday; Blayney, Lismore, Camden, Friday. Numerous other places are trying to fix upon dates that will enable different members of the Citizens' Executive Committee to be present and speak on behalf of the protest movement. Sir William M'Millan will be at the Bathurst, Orange, and Blayney meetings.

"The above," said the hon. secretary, Mr. Arthur Macarthur, in giving the intimation yesterday, "supplies a very effective answer to Mr. Hall's statement that the question of the eviction of the Governor-General has been closed. However, I still hope that he and his colleagues will not prove inexorable, and will bow to the undoubted will of the people, and agree to a dignified and honourable compromise."

CITIZENS' PETITION.

CHEERS AND COUNTER CHEERS.

WEST MAITLAND, Sunday.

The Mayor of East Maitland (Alderman W. M. Porter) presided over a public meeting held in the Mechanics' Institute last evening in protest against the action of the Government in the eviction of the Governor-General.

Alderman Chambers moved,—"That this meeting endorses the petition protesting against the eviction of the Governor-General from Government House." This was seconded by Mr. W. H. Foster, and supported by Major Nicholson, M.L.A.

An amendment that this meeting endorses the action of the State Government in safeguarding the revenue of the State by terminating the agreement regarding Government House, was moved by Mr. T. B. Egan, but the Mayor declined to accept it.

Mr. P. Ferry then moved an amendment,—"That the matter stand over for three months." They did not know why the agreement was terminated, and any action at present would therefore be premature.

The original motion was carried with cheers, with counter cries from the supporters of the Labour party.

LYELL DISASTER.

FLOODING THE MINE.

QUEENSTOWN (Tas.), Sunday.

Later inspections that have been made of the North Mount Lyell mine disclose that the fumes are still too bad to permit of any underground inspection, and it has therefore been again closed down, and will remain so till to-morrow. Meantime water is still running into the mine, which can be taken to mean that the alternative method of extinguising the fire by flooding the mine has not been rejected.

The Queenstown subscriptions to the disaster fund now total £251.

ASSISTANCE FOR SUFFERERS.

ORANGE, Saturday.

The Orange Town Band and Court Little John, Ancient Order of Foresters, are moving actively with respect to assistance to the distressed relatives of the deceased Lyell miners. The former gave a special recital on Thursday evening in Robertson Park, and collected £8 10s; while the latter is making a special collection among the members, the contributions being headed with £5 from the lodge funds.

JUMPED FROM THE TRAIN.

GIRL SHOCKINGLY INJURED.

On Saturday afternoon, a young girl, named Julia Graves, aged 14 years, residing at 15 Ivy-street, Darlington, met with a terrible accident at Clyde railway station. It appears that she boarded the 1.30 p.m. train from Sydney, her intention being to visit Mrs. Martin, of Carlingford. The train was not scheduled to stop at Clyde, where she intended to get out and take the Carlingford train, and as it ran through, at the rate of about eight miles an hour, she jumped out, and was seen to fall under the moving train. The alarm was given, and the train brought to a standstill, but not until several of the cars had passed over her. When extricated it was found that the right leg had been cut off at the knee, the left foot and the right hand crushed, and the nose also was broken. The unfortunate girl was taken to the Parramatta District Hospital, where Drs. Hall and Whiting attended to the injuries. It was found necessary to amputate the left foot and right hand. Very little hope is entertained of her recovery.

THE FLAGSHIP.

The H.M.S. Drake's commission is now expiring, and the flagship will leave Sydney on the homeward trip early next year. The vessel's final itinerary has been drafted, and she will leave Sydney for Melbourne on October 30, returning about November 14. After a short stay in port she will leave for New Zealand, and will return about the middle of December. The Drake will leave Sydney on the homeward trip on January 3, 1913, arriving at Plymouth on February 21.

WHALE OFF THE HEADS.

ANOTHER CAPTURE.

The gunboat whaler Norwegia and the factory ship Polynesia, which left Newcastle for Jervis Bay yesterday, captured a large whale while passing Sydney Heads. The steamers were well off the land at the time, and the whale was made fast and taken on to Jervis Bay.

SOUTH HEAD LIGHT.

OIL BURNERS.

A RETROGRESSIVE STEP.

It is now evident that the recent change from electricity to oil in the Macquarie Light at South Head is meeting with almost unanimous disapproval from captains of vessels using this port.

The experiment with oil has had a fair trial, but, judging by the comments of many masters of vessels calling here, the oil light has failed to come up to expectations. On the contrary it is contended that the light now has less penetrative power, and is less reliable to mariners than the old electric light.

Captain Francis J. Baylidon, R.N.R., of the Sydney Nautical Academy, was last week asked to give his views on the subject.

Captain Baylidon was for nine years a master in Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Co.'s island line of mail steamers, and was for another six years connected with the Canadian-Australian Royal Mail Line.

"I strongly urge: 'Give us back our electric light,'" said Captain Baylidon when spoken on the subject.

"I have daily conversations," continued Captain Baylidon, "with numbers of our interstate, coastal, and collier officers, who are continually entering and leaving this port. They tell me that the light now is not to be compared with what it was, that it is no better than an ordinary light; and that 'it is no better than the Hornby light.' Not a single man has mentioned it as being an improvement on the electric light. One and all deplore the change, and they are the men who use it.

"We were led to believe that the change was adopted because oil has a better penetrative power than electricity, and so is more useful in thick weather. That is so. The crude oil burners used in powerful lights in Europe give out a predominance of the yellow and red rays, which have the most powerful penetration. But when oil has been vaporised, as that now used in the Macquarie light is, it becomes a non-luminous gas, and this can only be made to give light by the employment of an incandescent gas mantle. The oil, by itself, no longer gives the light. Now, the incandescent mantle produces a greenish white light, of the worst possible nature for the work it is called upon to perform, that is, to penetrate haze. Thus the very rays—red and yellow—which are most valuable and useful, are almost eliminated, and the remaining blue and green rays are quickly absorbed at the very time they are most required, namely, when anything in the nature of mist or fog comes up. The result is, as my nautical brethren have already found from actual experience, that the present light is far inferior to the electric light we have been accustomed to for so many years.

"The apparatus of Macquarie Light was constructed, almost regardless of expense, by the foremost firm of British lighthouse constructors (Chance Bros., of Birmingham). Quite apart from the inferior penetrative power of the gas mantle, I am of opinion that the beautifully and scientifically constructed optical apparatus, designed by them for the electric light, must necessarily be unsuitable for the ordinary gas mantle. This is a point which I myself would much like to see the opinions of experts quoted upon, for it seems to me only reasonable to attribute to this cause the distortion of our former magnificently-defined beam of light, which we so admired, into the present insignificant apology which has taken its place.

"The electric machines are perfect specimens of lighthouse machinery, made by specialists for the special purpose. To me it seems absolute vandalism to interfere with all this unless some substantial improvement is the result. There is abundant evidence that retrogression, instead of gain, has been the result."

In conclusion Captain Baylidon said: "We had one of the most scientific and perfect lights in the world, and it has now been unscientifically tinkered into a perfect travesty of its original beauty. Its value and utility have been sadly diminished. The fine work of able men has thus been mutilated. It is my opinion that this oil experiment has had a fair trial for some months, and has proved to be inferior, therefore I repeat, 'Give us back our electric light.'"

AUSTRALIA'S PORTALS.

"SYDNEY NOT THE FRONT GATE."

NEW GOVERNOR'S VIEW.

Sir Gerald Strickland, who is to succeed Lord Chelmsford as Governor of the State, does not share the general opinion regarding the destiny of Sydney. He told an audience in Perth in October last that "Sydney was not the front door of Australia, but Fremantle was," and, again, "Melbourne might get depth for the berthing of 60,000-ton steamers, but Sydney never would."

The full text of Sir Gerald's remarks appears in the "West Australian" of October 30, of last year, in a report of a discussion on dock construction, which was introduced by Mr. J. F. Ramsbotham, engineer for the construction of Fremantle dock. Sir Gerald said that in building a dock at Fremantle lessons could and should be taken from other shipping dock ports—lessons in regard to the need of making space provision not only for present-day ships, but for the larger ships of the future. The size of modern steamships was growing apace, although he considered that growth was not unlimited. A limit was being placed on the growth of steamers by the locks of the Panama Canal, these locks being 110ft in width and 1000ft in length. These locks would be able to accommodate vessels up to a tonnage of 45,000 tons, and if a vessel were built like a box, even up to 65,000 tons. The size of ships was increasing like a thief in the night. In his own college days vessels such as the Servia and the City of Rome had been the largest vessels afloat, and yet he firmly believed that at any rate half of those present that night would live to see 65,000-ton ships coming to Australia. Mr. Ramsbotham had told them that Fremantle, as a port, was pre-eminent, but he did not think Fremantle was without rival. She had a rival in the port of Hobart, which was one of the most magnificent ports in the world, the deepwater accommodation there being excellent. Melbourne might get depth of water for steamer berthing, but Sydney never would. The Panama Canal was going to bifurcate the trade of the world. There arose the question which port was the front gate of Australia. Sydney was not, but Fremantle was. (Hear, hear.) Fremantle realised the position only about twelve years ago. The combined brains of the late C. Y. O'Connor, Sir Winthrop Hackett, and Sir John Forrest had provided a harbour at Fremantle which at the time was considered extravagantly large and unreasonably expensive. Already the harbour was becoming too small for the traffic, and he verily believed that if in a period of a few years they were unprepared to receive within 20 miles of Perth ships of 60,000 tons, Fremantle would not be the "front door of Australia." Whether it would be Hobart or Melbourne could not be said. It resolved itself into a race of brains and finance, and called for "pulling together." There were lessons to be gained from other ports. He cited the case of the harbour at Malta, now one of the most beautiful in the world. During his term of office there, due to the then insufficient accommodation of the harbour, a movement had been commenced for the transference of the British fleet from Malta to Gibraltar. Steps had been taken in time to prevent the extinction of Malta as a port of any importance, and to-day they had a fine harbour and incomparable dockyards there. He would like the people of Western Australia to deal with their harbour problems years in advance, and so prevent Fremantle running the risk of not even gaining first, or even second, place. (Hear, hear.)

POLICE RAID.

THIRTY-TWO ARRESTS

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The police made a raid on a small cottage in Griffin-lane, city, at midnight, and arrested 32 persons, including five women.

One man was charged with being an idle and disorderly person, occupying a house frequented by thieves, and the remainder with being found in a house frequented by thieves.

The police seized 248 bottles of beer, two revolvers, 50 rounds of ammunition, and two skeleton keys.

TOURING CADETS.

WORLD TRIP ENDS.

AUSTRALIA'S SQUAD BACK.

The Australian cadets who visited Canada at the invitation of the Dominion Government returned to Sydney by the Zealandia yesterday.

The contingent consisted of 12 picked lads—two from each State—under the command of Warrant-officer Hart, of Melbourne, and they were met by Captain Lyons, of the Army Service Corps, those going to other States being accommodated at the barracks till their departure this evening. The names of the lads are:—

New South Wales.—Privates M'Dougall and Smith.

Queensland.—Colour-Sergeant Stuart and Lance-corporal Hutton.

Victoria.—Sergeants Ifemward and Bretherton.

South Australia.—Colour-sergeant Butterworth and Private Kernot.

Western Australia.—Colour-Sergeant Everington and Corporal Christy.

Tasmania.—Privates Harvey and Charlesworth.

"We've been right round the world and had a royal time everywhere," said Warrant-officer Hart, when asked for particulars of the tour. "We left Australia last June by the Suevic, calling in at Durban and Capetown on the homeward run. On arrival at Tilbury Docks a representative of the Colonial Troops Reception Committee met and took charge of us. We were 12 days in London, and were splendidly entertained. We went over the Woolwich Arsenal and the naval establishment at Portsmouth, and also visited Lord Rothschild's fine seat at Tring Park, Lord Rothschild giving an address to the boys. In fact, we went practically everywhere, and all the trips were carried out without any cost whatever to the boys. We can't speak too highly of the way we were treated in London. After visiting Glasgow we went across to Canada, and at Quebec were met by Mr. Orr, son of the secretary of the Canadian International Exhibition, who took us on to Toronto, where we entered for all the military competitions, and kept our end up very well. At Toronto and everywhere else the boys worthily upheld the credit of Australia, their conduct throughout being most exemplary. Not one of them has had a day's sickness. The New Zealand contingent, which consisted of 20 cadets, under Captain Fullerton, of Dunedin, came over from Vancouver with us, disembarking at Auckland."

DARLINGHURST TRAGEDY.

MRS. HORT REMANDED.

At the Central Police Court on Saturday, before Mr. Clarke, S.M., May Hort, a married woman, who was arrested in connection with the tragedy at Taylor-street, Darlinghurst, on Friday night, when Harry Foley, 26, a billiard-marker, was shot dead, was charged with feloniously slaying Foley.

The solicitor for accused (Mr. Stewart) asked for a remand till Friday next. He stated that the whole affair, which was very sad, was purely accidental. The deceased had called at the house of Mrs. Hort, and asked to be shown a revolver, which he intended to purchase. The weapon accidentally went off, and Foley was killed. He asked for bail for his client.

The magistrate granted a remand till Friday next. Bail was allowed in a personal recognisance of £200, or two sureties of £100 each.

AUSTRALIA'S FRONT DOOR.

TRANSFER OF LANDS.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

Mr. William Halley, one of the American land-seekers, who went to the Northern Territory, considers that once the transcontinental railway is built, that part of Australia will come into its own.

There are, he says, immense areas of land capable of intense cultivation, and of supporting a large white population. There are vast stretches of country on the tablelands, with not a hoof running on them, where the finest of cattle grasses grow, and which could support millions of sheep, and where the climate is not at all tropical. When the railway is built Darwin will be the front door of Australia.

MORTALITY RATES.

THIRTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

In connection with the census of April 3, 1911, the Commonwealth Statistician, Mr. G. H. Knibbs, has undertaken a comprehensive investigation of the rates of mortality experienced in the several States and in the Commonwealth as a whole during the 30 years from 1881 to 1910.

In all cases the rates of mortality diminish with age until about age 11, and then increase. Age 11 may consequently be said to be that at which the lightest rates of mortality are experienced. In each decennium the rate of mortality amongst females was markedly lighter than amongst males at nearly all ages.

FIRE AT MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

A fire occurred early this morning in a building at the corner of Little Flinders and Russell streets. The first and second floors were occupied by S. Davis and Co., clothing manufacturers, and the ground floor by Geoffrey Moriarty, physical culture school. The second floor and contents were severely damaged by fire. The first floor was badly damaged by water. The ground floor also received slight damage from the water. The contents were insured for £430 in the Union Company, and £850 in the States Insurance Company.

COMMONWEALTH EISTEDDFOD.

The competitions of the Commonwealth Eisteddfod were continued in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Saturday. The adjudicators were Mr. L. D. Hage and Mr. S. R. Cole. Results:—

Qualified for Final. Vocal solo, under 16: Barbara Hume (Glebe) and Phyllis Taylor (Glebe). Piano solo, under 12: Dolly Aitken (Summer Hill), Nellie Molyneux (Watson's Bay), and Marjorie Cocks (Lindfield). Final vocal solo, under 12: Dorothy Landers (Paddington), 1; Royden Williams (Forest Lodge), 2; Eileen Morgan (Manly), 3. Qualified for Final.—Vocal solo, under 14: Nellie Mealing (Glebe) and Francis James (North Sydney). Final. Violin solo, under 18, corrected result: Alice Buchanan (Minmi), 1; Charles Bone (Paddington), 2; Jack Lyons (Surry Hills), 3. Final.—Piano solo (any age, restricted): Constance S. Bean (Waverley), 1; Mabel Robinson (Newtown), 2; Ivy Randall (Newtown), 3. Qualified for final.—Piano solo, under 16: Eileen Cassidy (Centennial Park) and Ruth M. Collett (Parramatta). Vocal solo (girls under 18): Bessie Smale (Balmain) and Maisie O'Donnell (Glebe). Piano solo (under 15): Elvera Suacchitana (Paddington) and Mollie M'Alary (Beecroft). Final.—Vocal solo (boys under 18): James Donnelly (Darlinghurst), 1; Cecil Ahearn (North Sydney), 2; Ernest H. Lockrey (Glebe), 3.

The competitions will be continued to-night.

FEDERAL ELECTIONS.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

Mr. D. Hunter has been selected to contest the Oxley seat in the Liberal interest at the coming Federal elections.

COUNTRY JOURNALISTS.

PRESS AND PARLIAMENT.

THE PRISONS JOURNAL.

The delegates to the Country Press Association's conference were the guests of the Government on Saturday afternoon at a steamer excursion round the harbour. During the afternoon a few speeches were delivered.

Mr. Johnston, the president of the association, moved a vote of thanks to the State Government for its courtesy in providing the outing.

The Minister for Agriculture, in acknowledging the compliment, said his Government appreciated fair press criticism. The Government feared nothing from an untrammelled press, and was engaged in framing a bill to remove the last remaining embargo of the penal days from the press of the State. (Applause.)

The Minister for Justice, Mr. R. D. Hall, M.L.C., made a humorous reply: "I can hold out great hopes to you all," he said, "for I am head of the prisons department. (Laughter.) I am starting a newspaper there, and generally have a few editors inside. But we hope with the aid of Mr. Willis, if the Sydney press do not treat us better, that we will get a still better staff of editors for the new journal."

Mr. Robert McMillan said a prison journal in Ohio had proved a failure, because the paper ran short of editors. (Laughter.) It had always had plenty of compositors. While he was opposed to the Labour party politically, he recognised them as decent fellows.

Mr. Mills, president of the Associated Press of New Zealand, said he discussed the all-British cable service with Mr. Rhodes, a member of the Ministry, before leaving for Australia. Mr. Rhodes said he hoped shortly to have a conference with the Australian Ministry on the subject, but he could not commit himself until he saw more of the development of wireless telegraphy. He asked Mr. Rhodes if he could say he was in sympathy with the all-British movement, and Mr. Rhodes replied: "I'm a New Zealander, and you know what that stands for." New Zealanders and Australians would be as one in reciprocity. (Applause.)

Short replies were also made by Mr. Luke (Victoria), Mr. Lister (Queensland), and Mr. Barnett (South Australia).

TRADES AND LABOUR.

PASTRYCOOKS' AWARD.

The award of No. 4 board of the food supply and distribution No. 1 group, known as the pastrycooks' board, has been made available. Journeymen pastrycooks go up from £2 12s 6d to £2 17s 6d per week, this being the minimum. Assistants are to get £1 15s; assistants under 21, £1 2s 6d, and assistants under 18 £1. For female pastrycooks and assistants the minimum rates are to be two-thirds of the foregoing. Carters have come in for a very substantial increase. Those over 21 years of age go up from 30s to £2 8s per week. Carters under 21 are to get £1 15s per week. Carters who are paid commission are not to receive less in wages and commission than those minimums. Yardmen over 21 are to receive £2 8s per week. Pastrycook packers are increased by 1s per week. First-class packers are to receive £2 17s 6d, and second-class packers £2. Female first-class packers are to receive two-thirds of the rates provided for males. Second-class female packers are to receive not less than 15s per week. Overtime is to be paid for at the rate of not less than time and a quarter for the first three hours; time and a half for the second six hours, and double time thereafter. Jobbers (pastrycooks) are to be paid at not less than 10s for eight hours, and 1s 6d thereafter. Assistant jobbers are to be paid 9d per hour for 8½ hours, and 1s thereafter. The employment of pastrycooks, packers, assistants, and carters is to be weekly. Apprentices (5 years' indenture) are to be paid 10s for the first year then 15s, 20s, 25s, and 35s—one apprentice to every three, and a fraction of three, journeymen. The week for pastrycooks' apprentices and packers is to be 48 hours, and for assistants 51 hours. For carters the week will be 54 hours. All disputes arising under the award are to be referred to the wages board.

The award will come into operation on November 17, and have a three years' duration. It will be binding throughout the State, excluding Yancowinna. At the hearing Mr. R. Croft appeared for the applicant union, and Mr. Broomfield, instructed by Mr. E. R. Cohen, for the respondents.

MILLING EMPLOYEES.

The award of the No. 2 Mill Employees' Wages Board, made only a few months ago, is not, it is said giving satisfaction to the employees of the milling trade who are working under it. A minimum wage of £2 6s a week, with £3 for stone dressers ought, the union thinks, be further improved. Application is therefore being made for a variation of the wages clauses, and for other determinations. It is asked that the wage should be, at least, £2 8s, the same as the flour section, and that stone dressers should receive £3 5s per week. New clauses are desired with respect to men working under certain conditions.

EMPLOYERS ANXIOUS.

BIG DEFENCE FUND.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION.

ADELAIDE, Sunday.

The Employers' Federation held its annual meeting on Friday. The report of the executive indicated that the outstanding feature of the year had been the keen interest of employers in the federation. The policy of encouraging the grouping of employers into subsidiary organisations had met with the heartiest support, and had done much to closely knit the federation ties. Comparatively speaking, the federation was stronger than any in the Commonwealth. The year had brought eight serious industrial disputes. The wages boards were being steadily extended, and now covered over 50 trades. Federal legislation was tending to interfere with the wages board principle of controlling industries, and it was being closely and anxiously watched. The employers' mutual defence fund showed an aggregate pay sheet of members amounting to more than a million sterling. This was a strong argument for the maintenance of industrial peace, and it had met with widespread approval. The scheme had so appealed to the employers in the other States that defence associations were being formed on the South Australian method or reconstructed.

PURSER SHOOTS HIMSELF.

BRISBANE, Saturday.

The purser of the Prinz Waldemar, Otto Mertens, shot himself as the vessel was coming up Brisbane River from Japan this morning, and died in the general hospital a few hours later.

At 5 o'clock this morning the storeman on the vessel knocked at the purser's door to inform him it was time to get up, as the ship would be at the quarantine station in half an hour. The purser did not open the door, but called out, "I am coming." As he did not appear during the next half-hour, the third officer proceeded to his room to call him again. He got no answer, and sent a Chinese boy to get the key. When the boy was away the third officer heard a report like a porthole being suddenly closed. He then opened the door with the key, which the boy had got, and found the purser lying on the floor of the room. Dr. Page, assistant health officer, went to the man's assistance, and he was removed in an unconscious state to the hospital, where he died at 9.40, not having regained consciousness.

Mertens was about 30 years of age. His home was in Germany. It is stated that he was engaged to be married. No reason has been assigned for the act. He appeared to be in splendid spirits. The captain suggests that he was suffering from nervous strain.

INTERMEDIATE EXAMINATION.

Seventeen hundred students will sit for the intermediate examination which commences to-day, and continues throughout the week. Eight hundred of the candidates are from the country, which, the Minister for Education thinks, is a very good sign. Of the 1700, 450 are sitting for the examination with a view to taking up teaching as a profession. For the last Junior Examination the Minister for Education (Mr. Carmichael) says that there were only 1178 candidates, including all that the private schools sent up. "The granting of an intermediate certificate," Mr. Carmichael adds, "does not depend, like the junior, upon passing—whether high or low—in a few subjects. It depends upon proficiency in four subjects, satisfactory progress in all other subjects, and good general conduct. Each certificate shows the holder's capabilities, which is useful to himself and prospective employers." There will be three places of examination for metropolitan students—the University Hall, the Turner Hall, and Cleveland-street. The candidates from the Girls' High Schools will sit at the University, the High School boys at the Turner Hall, and candidates from other schools at Cleveland-street.

THE DAMAGED MONTORO.

REPLACED BY THE GUTHRIE.

It having been found that the repairs required by the steamer Montoro, in consequence of her recent accident, were more extensive than anticipated, it has been found that it will not be possible for her to sail for Java and Singapore until early in December. In order to maintain the continuity of the service, and to keep faith with shippers of cargo and intending passengers, Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Co., Ltd., have arranged to substitute for the November voyage of the Montoro the steamer Guthrie, well known in this trade.

NEW G.A. LINER.

The German-Australian liner Hobart, the latest addition to this company's fleet, and the last of the new 6000-ton vessels named after the capital cities of the States comprising the Commonwealth, will arrive in port to-day from Hamburg, via Algoa Bay. In all respects the Hobart is similar to her sister ships, Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide, Fremantle, and Brisbane. Her dimensions are—Length 465ft, beam 58ft, depth 30ft. She is propelled by triple expansion engines, indicating 4000 horse power, and her speed when loaded is 13 knots. Her arrangements for despatch in the handling of cargo are of the very latest, seven hatches being fitted with hoists and derricks suitable for loading and discharging under all conditions. Another feature of the cargo arrangements is the large quantity of insulated space, 101,070 cubic feet being available for meat, and 59,000 for fruit. Captain J. Paulsen, previously master of the steamer Apolda, of the same line, is in charge of the new steamer.

Mataura, Nor. bq, has sailed from Poro for Glasgow with a cargo of 1800 tons of nickel ore.

WHALING INDUSTRY.

The Norwegian whaler Norvegia arrived at Newcastle on Saturday after a cruise round Jervis Bay. She left again with the factory steamer Polynesia early yesterday morning for Jervis Bay. While at Newcastle the Polynesia bunkered 1797 tons of coal. Two other gunboat whalers, the Karrakatta and the Commonwealth, have arrived in Australian waters.

The first consignment of oil from the factory ship Loch Tay arrived in Sydney yesterday, when the Seagull II. brought 100 barrels.

WIRELESS MESSAGE.

A wireless message was received from the steamer Karoola last night to the effect that she would arrive at about half-past 7 or 8 o'clock this morning, and would berth at No. 4 Wharf, Miller's Point.

DESTROYERS ARRIVING TO-DAY.

The three Australian destroyers Yarra, Parramatta, and Warrego left Melbourne yesterday, and should arrive in port to-day. The three vessels will be docked here in order to undergo their half-yearly overhaul.

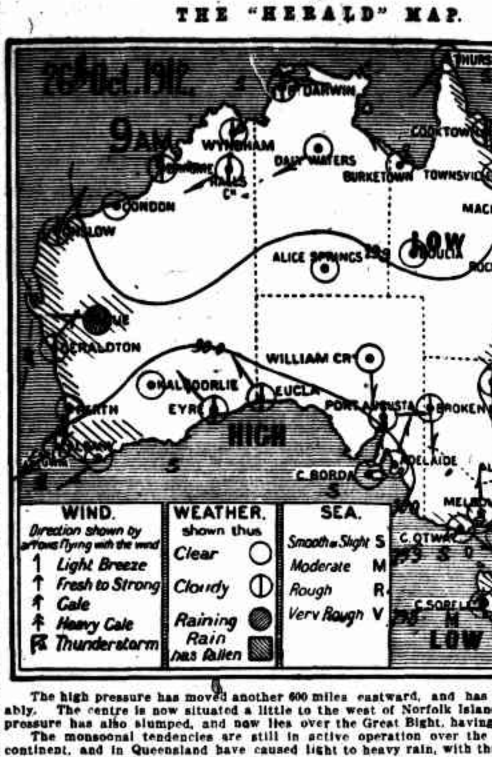
LIGHT HORSE INSPECTION.

Colonel Kenneth Mackay, C.B., commanding 3rd Light Horse Brigade, attended by the brigade staff, visited Wellington on Saturday to inspect the local troop of Mounted Rifles. A whole day parade was held, the unit being exercised in drill and manoeuvre under Captain Pridham. Colonel Mackay expressed himself satisfied with the day's work. He commented on the length of service attained by some of the soldiers present. Farrier-sergeant Kelly has 25 years to his credit, Trooper Staines 26 years, and Trooper Donn 27 years. Colonel Mackay and his staff were entertained at lunch on the ground by Mrs. Pridham and the Misses Barton, who had driven over to view the operations.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The high pressure has moved another 600 miles eastward, and has contracted considerably. The centre is now situated a little to the west of Norfolk Island. The western high pressure has also slumped, and now lies over the Great Bight, having very little character.

The monsoonal tendencies are still in active operation over the northern parts of the continent, and in Queensland have caused light to heavy rain, with thunderstorms in south-eastern and coastal parts.

An extensive Antarctic depression lies over the Southern Ocean.

These conditions should result in further isolated thunderstorms and higher temperatures.

Ocean forecasts.—Fresh in the Straits.

CASUALTIES.

THROWN FROM A SULKY.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

Thomas Cunningham, 24 years of age, a fireman on the steamer Hunter, was driving in a sulky in Brunker-road, Hamilton West, this afternoon with two other men. When passing between another sulky, which was going in an opposite direction, the horse shied and backed in front of the tram, which struck the sulky, causing the occupants to be thrown to the roadway. Cunningham received serious injuries, but his two friends were not hurt. He was taken to the Newcastle Hospital by the ambulance.

FOUND DROWNED.

LAUNCESTON, Sunday.

Mr. W. T. York, a well-known storekeeper at Sheffield, was found drowned in a swimming bath on his property on Friday.

FOUND IN THE RIVER.

HAY, Saturday.

The body of Alexander Tolmie, who had been missing since Monday night, was found yesterday in the Murrumbidgee, about 100 yards below the woolwash.

SHOOTING-GALLERY ACCIDENT.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Charles Croft, aged 41 years, was accidentally shot through the abdomen at the Eastern Markets last night. He was employed at a shooting-gallery in the markets, and after loading a Winchester rifle he placed it on the stand with the muzzle pointing towards him, when it went off. Croft is in the Melbourne Hospital in a critical condition.

QUIRINDI, Saturday.

Mark Ryman, 22, while shunting in the railway yard at Werris Creek was caught between the buffers of two trucks, and badly crushed. He was brought to Quirindi Hospital, where he died this morning at 4 o'clock. Deceased was well known in the Northern district as an amateur bicycle rider.

SOUTH-STREET COMPETITIONS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Fully 31,000 people attended both afternoon and night sessions of the South-street band contests at the City Oval, Ballarat, yesterday.

The Rozelle Band, from Sydney, was a hot favourite for the A grade selection contest, for which was £200. This was won by Ballarat Municipal Band, but Rozelle won the quick-step contest, with a prize of [illegible]

NEXT TO THE DOCTOR COMES THE NURSES' OPINION.

Nurse Gard, of Melbourne, writes of Clements Tonic.

The professional nurse, well trained and fitted by experience to form a correct estimate of the value of a good medicine, commands respect for her opinions. In this instance where a patient was suffering from weakness by using Clements Tonic, Nurse Gard advised. This letter was written from 1 Buckingham-avenue, Coburg, Victoria, 2.4/'11.

CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.

"I know Clements Tonic is used extensively, and many nurses know its value, but seldom without it. A patient of mine grew very weak and low spirited, and I gave her Clements Tonic. A few doses made a change for the better; she rapidly became cheerful, it gave her health and strength, and soon put her on her feet again, which made her a firm believer in Clements Tonic. Since, I have given it to many patients, with the same good results. I am glad to let you know how we, who look after the sick, could not get on without that splendid medicine. (Signed) NURSE GARD."

This medicine is the best to be taken for Constipation, Uric Acid in the Blood, Weak Kidneys, Indigestion, Low Spirits, Sick Headache, Loss of Sleep, Poor Appetite, Nervousness, or Poor Blood. In cases of Weak Nerves, Nervous Breakdown, it should be taken. It effects rapid benefit. All stores and chemists sell it.—Advt.

THE PROPER SPHERE OF GOVERNMENT.

What is the proper sphere of Government? This is a burning question here as elsewhere. In New South Wales we have the State interfering with the gas supply of the people, interfering with enterprising persons who gave the community its illuminant while the Government lazed. In England, too, Government interferes in many directions in which many think its interference is mischievous. In the United States the moneyed interests are at constant war with the State. An interesting appeal was recently issued on this subject over the signatures of Lords Avebury, Balfour of Burleigh, Dysart, Hon. Hugh Cecil, and Mr. Harold Cox. The question of the proper sphere of Government, write these gentlemen, is one that has attracted the attention of philosophers in many ages, and in particular in our own times a thinker who is not, perhaps, even yet fully appreciated, Herbert Spencer, has made it his own. The gist of his political theory is capable of expression in a few words. It is that the admitted object of all political aspiration, the greatest happiness of the greatest number, ought to be sought, not directly by laws for providing the citizen with various benefits through the agency of Government officials, but indirectly, by securing every man in the right of attaining happiness for himself without injury to others by the exercise of his own abilities. In a word, that the true duty of Government is to protect us both from the enemy abroad and from the malefactor at home. That the more this duty is overlaid and obscured the worse it will be performed; while the necessity of finding payment for services which it ought not to perform leads the Government to tyrannise over its subjects instead of affording them the protection which it ought.

But, if this be the true theory of Government, what are we to say of the politics of the present day? Clearly, if these are founded as a whole on any theory at all, that theory is the very opposite of the one we have described. It contemplates a time when every man will be fed, doctored, clothed, and sheltered by the State, and when personal freedom will be sacrificed to official tyranny. That such an ideal can ever be reached we do not believe; but that we may continue indefinitely to approach it, and are now moving fast along the road, it is impossible to deny. Every year we are creating a host of new officials, whose whole duty is to provide for the citizen some benefit which he is supposed to be unable or unwilling to provide for himself, and for which liberal payment must be first exacted from himself or from the community at large. "That we have created offices," said Mr. Asquith, the other day in Parliament, defending himself from the charge of having created them as rewards for political services—"that we have created offices is nothing." So much has the extension of officialism and the increase of expenditure become the business of every day; the expression is typical of the attitude of our politicians. Do we wish the future generations, if it be possible, to be fed, clothed, doctored, and ordered in their coming and goings by officials, as an army is by its captains and sergeants?

The British race has been renowned in the past for the love of freedom. They were content in politics to work out their own salvation, and in so doing they set an example of freedom to the world. It is bitterly significant that when our modern politicians are in need of inspiration and example it is to autocratic police-ridden countries that they turn. Yet, if the love of liberty has silently weakened, it has not even now been expressly forsworn, and there is hope while we yet retain the traditions of a glorious past. Are we to continue a course of legislation the end of which is slavery, or shall we retrace our recent footsteps, and, shouldering once more each of us his own responsibilities, endeavour to be free?

EXCESSIVE IMPORTS.

Imports into Victoria are mounting up heavily, as against the contracted exports. According to some figures compiled by R. G. Dun and Co., the Victorian trade returns for September, as compared with the same month last year, show an increase of £559,451 in imports of merchandise, which amounted to £2,259,495, against £1,700,044, and a decrease of £616,402 in exports of merchandise, which amounted to £520,882, against £1,137,284. The large increase in imports indicates that arrivals of shipments from Great Britain are in process of being caught up after the delays caused by strikes at an earlier period. Another reason for increase is the importation of sugar from abroad to a considerable extent this season. Decrease in exports has been occasioned by the lateness of arrivals of wool for sale and shipments, and by the small supplies of butter available for export before the end of September. Another factor is that there has been less wheat remaining for shipment than was available last year after the great crop of 1910-11. Exports of gold and specie last month amounted to £284,455, against £250,088. During the nine months ending September 30, Victorian imports of merchandise have totalled £18,187,994, or an increase of £2,428,918 over the same period last year; and exports of merchandise £9,006,670, or a decrease of £1,148,079. Exports of gold and specie for the nine months total £3,151,618, against £760,134, an increase of £2,390,484. The totals for merchandise only for the first nine months of 1910, 1911, and 1912, compare as follows:—

	Imports Merchandise.	Exports Merchandise.	Excess of Imports.
1911	15,750,676	10,154,749	5,695,927
1912	18,187,994	9,006,670	9,181,324

The following is a comparison of some of the principal exports from Victoria for the nine months ending September 30:—

	1910.	1911.	1912.
Wool	£2,610,227	£2,181,599	£2,886,001

AMALGAMATED PICTURES, LTD.

The interim report of the above company has been issued in Melbourne. It states that the business at the Majestic Theatre since the opening on August 31 has been gratifying, and that at the Northcote and Richmond (Bridge-road) theatres is good. The Geelong theatre should be finished before the issue of the next balance-sheet. Film-hiring and general show business has been well maintained. A preliminary agreement has been entered into with the larger biograph interests in Australia, which includes taking over the control of Messrs. Pathe Freres and Harrington's, Ltd., film business throughout Australia. The capital necessary to carry on and absorb these valuable businesses has been large, and the company has already expended considerably more than the profit made during the half-year on the purchase of its share. The further capital required is to be obtained by an issue of preference shares, so that the directors anticipate being in a position to pay a dividend for the 12 months' trading to the end of the financial year next February. The new issue consists of 12,000 cumulative preference shares of £1 each, carrying interest at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, such shares to rank pari passu as regards dividends after the ordinary dividends have received 10 per cent. The shares are also preferential as to capital. The shareholders are entitled to an allotment of one share for every five now held. The issue has been underwritten.

FINANCIAL CABLES.

HENRY BULL AND CO., LTD.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

The above company has a credit at profit and loss account of £55,514 as the result of the year's trading. The reserve fund is being increased by £10,000, and £23,289 is being carried forward.

The following comparison may be made:—

	1909.	1910.	1911.	1912.

[illegible]	17,486	18,323	22,101	23,289

It would seem as though the ordinary shareholders get more than 10 per cent. this year, though our cable is silent on the point. The company's year ends on July 31.

INDUSTRIAL.

BEDSTEAD MAKING.

Has it ever occurred to the reader when, after a hard and tiring day in the city, he retires thankfully to his bed, in what a large degree his comfort is due to the skill of the bedstead manufacturer? Probably not. He sinks in a state of blissful repose on to his welcome bed, there to give free rein to his imagination, building those delightful castles in the air, those cherished hopes which during the rush and turmoil of a busy day do not have time to cross his mind. The period between retirement and sleep is the playground of man's imagination. Those vain hopes and distant ambitions, no matter whether they tend to the commercial or romantic, all now take visible shape. There passes from the sub-conscious mind to the conscious one long pageant of past events and trifling incidents. Memories long since dimmed by time suddenly flit by like grey shadows. If worried, memories of all the vicissitudes of life reveal themselves, vague pessimistic prophesies of the future, haunting the brain, until at last, wearied out by its lengthy frolic, the imagination returns to a state of oblivion, in which it remains till the dawn of another working day. To the bedstead manufacturer is due the credit of enabling us in comfort to indulge in such Utopian imagery. Were we compelled to rest on hard boards possibly these vagaries of the mind would not take such pleasant turnings. What is more annoying than a bed or wire mattress which creaks, or a mattress which is unevenly proportioned? A very interesting couple of hours may be spent in viewing the factory of Messrs. Newlands Bros., Ltd., of Riley-street, Surry Hills. Although quite young, this firm has a two-story factory with over two acres of floor space, whilst about 160 men are employed in the various processes. In their showroom may be seen beds to suit every possible taste, ranging from the most simple black-enamelled bed to the massive and richly ornamented Italian and Venetian models.

The factory is conducted on the American system, the raw material arriving at the rear of the building, and the finished article being turned out at the front. With the exception of the steel tubing frames, and a few sundries, everything connected with the manufacture is locally made. In a heap at the rear were to be seen quantities of pig and scrap iron. The pig-iron used in the manufacture is wholly supplied by Lithgow. A little trolley conveys the iron to a raised platform, where a huge furnace blazes, exhaling a degree of heat not appreciated till felt. An electric fan has been installed in the hopes of mitigating the temperature somewhat. The pig iron is placed into this roaring mass of flames, arriving at the base of the furnace in a red-hot molten state. At the foot of the furnace were seen 20 or 30 men, attired in a manner suitable to the atmosphere, each provided with a kind of giant-sized soup ladle. Each man, as it came round to his turn, thrust his ladle under a tap-hole, drawing it forth full of red-hot molten iron. It is probably a mystery to many how the iron castings are so perfectly moulded on to the steel tubing frames of a bedstead. The tubing frames are placed in a cast-iron "chill," or mould, which is shaped according to the pattern of bedstead required. The upper part of the frame being tightly fastened down, a man arrives with a ladle of molten iron, this being run into holes in different parts of the frame. The liquid immediately hardens in the moulds, which are so arranged as to join all the steel tubing together. In a few minutes the iron has sufficiently cooled to allow removal, the whole frame of the foot or base of the bed being then in a roughly-finished state. These frames are left over night to enable them to cool completely. The iron casters are moulded around the corner post frames in exactly the same manner. In the morning they are conveyed by elevator to a room on the ground floor, where the roughness is taken off. A cutting machine squares uneven ends, and the frame is ready for the painting room. There are hundreds of different moulds for the various kinds of bedstead. The better class brass bedsteads are not fastened in this manner, no molten liquid being used. These are subjected to a considerably more lengthy process, as pouring on molten liquid would certainly not have any good effect on the brass. Most particular attention is paid to the correct moulding of the angle-iron dovetails or sockets at the four corners of the bedsteads. Were these sockets not to fit exactly the whole bedstead would be a complete failure. Frames are stored in all conditions of completeness from the roughly cast to the highly enamelled and finished frame. No bedsteads are stored intact, the volume of space required being too immense. One passed through corridor upon corridor of frames and corner-posts in varying stages of finish. A large storeroom was next seen, where were kept brass vases for bedposts, ball knobs, castors, and all the hundred and one sundries required in manufacture. An interesting model, specially constructed for epileptics and lunatics, was seen. It has a closed-in head and base, thus preventing patients from putting their arms out. The model is extensively used in the Lunacy Department.

Upon reaching the painting department the frames are subjected to a thorough overhauling. Numbers of men are busy removing any rust which may happen to have found its way on the iron. Workmen labour hard with sandpaper to remove all roughness, after which it is handed for treatment to the painter. A large oblong pit, six feet deep, is seen with a slanting slab running down to it. This pit contains 300 gallons of enamel. Each frame is hung on a moving hanger and dipped in the pit, coming out an inky black colour. It is hung for about half an hour over the slanting slab, during which time all superfluous paint drips off, the frame now being ready for the store. The store is a large heating oven, similar in appearance to a massive bank vault. There are hangers all over the ceiling, from which are suspended rows of painted frames. The doors are closed, the gas turned on, and the frames left over-night to dry. Another room contains apparatus for enamelling bedsteads white. The crude frame is dipped in the pit, it coming out a beautiful creamy white. The better-class frames are handed over to experts, who touch up all defective points. All brasswork is handed on to the lacquer experts. Upon entering this room one is immediately struck by the odour of the lacquer. It gives a distinctly Oriental impression, giving forth an aromatic smell very much akin to incense. The brass when brought in is nearly always a pale colour, but after having passed through the lacquer worker's hands, and having been dried in the oven, a much richer colour is produced. In another department fittings are nickel-plated in large troughs. In one corner of the great factory was a special department, the sole duty of which was to turn out cots for young Australia. The sides of the cots are woven by an automatic machine. Each bedstead before leaving the factory is put together, tested, numbered, and dated, absolute check being thus kept on all goods. Several men are employed all day packing, whilst conspicuous in this department was a little Oriental boy collecting together packing straw.

Another interesting section was that of the wire mattress making. The wood for the frames is passed in a window as it is received direct from the mills. A double-sided plane soon gives the rough wood a presentable appearance. The wood used is specially imported from Oregon, U.S.A. It is now cut up into whatever lengths are required, after which a sand-papering machine soon makes it smooth. A tenoning machine shapes the ends in a requisite manner. A special automatic wire-weaver is in course of erection. This machine will weave and cut into any length. At present there is a hand-weaving machine, in which it is necessary to cut the wire at each turn. Special wire of exceptional durability is used for hospital beds. The wire and frame is next placed on a stretching machine, the wire then being nailed on to the frame. A special stretching and nailing machine is being installed, by which all the nails on one side can be driven in with one operation.

Each State has a different taste for bedsteads. In Queensland there is a universal preference for nickel fittings. Numbers of the bedsteads are fitted with mother-o'-pearl ornaments. An ingenious bed has been made for hospital use. It contains an automatic head-rail, which is movable, so as to form a reading desk at any angle required. Couches, elaborate cots for children, folding verandah stretchers, and garden seats are all included in the list of manufactures.

COMMERCIAL.

THE GERMAN MEAT FAMINE.

The German Government is resolved at all hazards to prevent the importation of frozen meat, and the German Chancellor excuses his action on the ground that economic independence is necessary, and if high prices have to be paid, well, it is merely discharging a debt which Germans owe to the Fatherland for their safety. But there are other Germans who do not see the payment in this light. At meetings of the municipalities of Greater Berlin and of the Municipality of Stuttgart, resolutions were passed unanimously in favour of a reduction of duties, and such a reform of the inspection laws as would render the importation of frozen flesh foods possible. The inspecting laws provide that carcases of cattle and sheep shall enter Germany only if the principal internal organs are still attached to them. These two influential gatherings, writes the Berlin correspondent of the London "Daily Telegraph," are typical of innumerable others which have been held in all parts of the country, and it now looks as if the Government would be compelled to take some action, in spite of the opposition of the agrarians, who, with a premonition of what is coming, warn Herr Bethmann-Hollweg in their official organ that their confidence in him "is beginning to waver and diminish." The reforms which are now so vociferously demanded would certainly be passed by a substantial majority if they were presented to the Reichstag, but the sequel to them might easily be a very difficult political situation. Should considerable quantities of frozen meat be admitted to the country, a precedent would be created which it would not be easy to repudiate, and when prices declined it would require some ingenuity to invent fresh pretexts for putting a stop to supplies from abroad. Evidently the Chancellor has heeded well the threats of the agrarians.

INTRODUCTION OF AUSTRALIAN MUTTON.

The meat, when imported into Germany, besides complying with the inspection law, is subject to a duty of 2.18 per English pound. Some months ago an experimental consignment of 50 carcases of Australian mutton was sent to Chemnitz, in Saxony, but the reports which appeared in the papers suggested that it did not please the palates of the population of that town, and as nothing more was heard of further shipments it was assumed that the trial had been a failure. It appears, however, that the shippers were able to dispose of the meat at 1d per lb less than the rate prevailing for native mutton, and were quite satisfied with the success they attained, and that the delay in following it up has been due to technical difficulties, which have now been overcome. Chief of those (continues the Berlin correspondent of the London newspaper) seem to have been the absence of refrigerating waggons on the German railways, and this obstacle has been surmounted by a contract with a French company, which has undertaken the land transport. It is stated that cold storage of adequate capacity to accommodate the quantities of frozen mutton which it is proposed to import already exists in Hamburg, Berlin, and certain other large German towns. This enterprise threatens little short of a revolution in the German meat trade, for during the whole of last year there were imported only 1377 live sheep and 221 tons of mutton. Like all revolutions, it will meet with vigorous opposition, which is, indeed, already being sedulously organised. All the papers, which are more or less dependent on agrarian circles of readers, have for weeks been warning the public that the frozen meat is tough in consistency, insipid in flavour, deficient in nutriment, and swarming with deleterious microbes. Apart altogether from these interested persons, many Germans have the same prejudice which obtained against frozen meat in England when it was first introduced into the European market. Nor is mutton under any circumstances a favourite dish of the German. The animals slaughtered for food last year included 8¼ million cattle, of which considerably more than half were calves under three months old, 15¾ million pigs, and only 2½ million sheep. However, for some unfathomable reason, Berlin is a large consumer of mutton, half a million sheep, or more than one-fifth of the total from Germany, having been devoured last year.

EUCALYPTUS OIL.

More eucalyptus oil is wanted in Great Britain and on the Continent. Usually by the end of September or the beginning of October the wholesale trade has made provision for the winter demand, but this year (according to the "British Australasian," stocks in the Northern Hemisphere are low, and prices for medium quality oils higher than at any previous time. A firm, which cabled to Melbourne expressing its desire to have over one or two tons of oils in drums before the end of November, received a reply to the effect that half that amount might be shipped to London. The reports of the most conservative firms who do anything in the trade at all state that the oils are "dearer." They are decidedly so, and the demand is on the increase. The doctors are recommending it, but under present conditions the retail chemists and other sellers will soon have none to supply. In order to continue the trade consignments are wanted by dealers. Sales have been made at 1/6 per lb and over. The German trade have received supplies direct, but inquiries here confirm the idea that more oil could be exported from Australia without disturbing the present rates.

THE BUTTER MARKETS.

Prescott, Ltd., reports concerning the butter markets of the Commonwealth and of London:—

Sydney.—The market has been without variation this week, first grades remaining at 116/, with seconds from 108/ to 112/. The supply promises to increase rapidly within a fortnight, as a result of good rains on the northern rivers. There is no business being done at current rates for London, buyers' ideas being nearer 112/ for first grade.

Melbourne.—There is an easier feeling in the market as a result of London holding back. Supplies continue to show a good improvement; but it is very unlikely that they will reach anything like the figures of last year. Westerns are selling locally at 1 1, and first grades are offering at 114, f.o.b., for export, but buyers are not in evidence. Arrivals for the week ended October 18 are 24,935 boxes butter and 137 tons cream.

Brisbane.—The demand for first-grade butter is still very strong, and the bulk of the supplies coming on the market have been cleared without difficulty. The local trade for lower grades is very poor, and the majority of these are being exported. First grades are quoted at 114/, seconds at 106/ to 110/. Production for the week is estimated at 8016 boxes. These figures will improve considerably as a result of the rains.

New Zealand.—The market is without change, first grades selling at 12½ for salted, and 12¾ for unsalted, for shipment to London during October-November. The quantities of cheese and butter shipped to London both show heavy increases as compared with last season, and the present outlook points to a record export. Up to October 11 9464 boxes had been shipped to Vancouver.

London.—The market is bare of Australian butter, and quotations at the moment are nominal. The Orontes, with the first of the new season's butter, is due in London to-day (October 26), and next week should give a better idea of values.

Three hundred and twelve tons of wheat and 135 tons of flour were manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour yesterday.

Seven thousand six hundred and forty-two bales of wool were manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour yesterday.

EXPORT TRADE.

REQUEST FOR EXPORT DUTY ON HIDES.

STATEMENT BY MR. TUDOR.

The Minister of Customs has not been impressed by the arguments of members of the tanning trade in favour of an export duty on hides and skins. Mr. Tudor stated that he did not know what Mr. A. E. Kane was referring to when he said that up to the present the Government had done nothing but interfere, had taken away on one hand, and on the other had conceded Acts beyond number, each of which was a restriction more or less. Under the Commerce Act he had prescribed that there should be no barium in leather. He did not know whether that was regarded as a restriction, but the fact remained that some master tanners had passed resolutions in favour of it. As to the import duty being of absolutely no value, he would like to point out that, while the imports into the Commonwealth has increased since 1908 from £175,000 to £211,000, local production had increased during the same period from £937,000 to £1,208,000. The percentage of wages to the production represented 13.5 or in other words, £13 10s went in wages and salaries for every £100 worth of leather produced. The duty on leather was 25 per cent. general, and 20 per cent. preference. Mr. Kane had stated that as much as 1000 per cent. would be no use, and all he had to say to that was that he would certainly not be in favour of putting on 1000 per cent. when 13½ per cent. paid the whole of the wages and salaries. The figures which he had quoted were the employers' figures, as supplied to the State statisticians.

Mr. Tudor also mentioned that the last deputation which waited upon him to oppose an export duty, included several members of a deputation which had previously asked for it.

MINING.

RECOVERY IN BARRIERS.

COPPER STEADY, BUT INACTIVE.

GOLD SHARES QUIET, TIN SLACK.

The past week brought to a close on Saturday morning was anything but a satisfactory one as regards the volume of business transacted. As a matter of fact there was no volume—at least no great volume—of business done. Extreme caution characterised the attitude of buyers. They were willing to operate at reduced rates, but scrip-holders generally declined to mark down prices. Now and again there was an exception to the rule, with the result that a few stocks jigged a little, but, taken all round, values finished up at the close of the week pretty well "as you were" at the start.

The state of the market from day to day is briefly described in the following headings:—Monday, Stagnation Ruled; Tuesday, Copper and Lead Decline, Speculation Limited, Values Showed Easy Tendency; Wednesday, Lower Range of Values Ruled, Fair Amount of Business Done; Thursday, Big Drop in Lead, Set-back in Share Values, Market Generally Restless; Friday, London Slightly Firmer, Australian Markets Quiet; Prices Firmer, but Little Business.

To the above has to be added Saturday's business, which, as the heading to this column states, showed a recovery in Barriers, copper steady but inactive, with gold shares quiet and tin stocks slack. The feature of the market was undoubtedly the better feeling shown for Barriers, with the result that in the sales recorded British Broken Hill (old) recovered from 44/9 to 46/3, Broken Hill Proprietary from 44/6 to 45/3 (a dividend and bonus of 1/6 per share has, however, to be taken into account in this recovery of /9), Broken Hill South (contg) from £7/2/6 to £7/5/, and Broken Hill Junction North from 19/6 to 20/1½. On the other hand, B.H. Junctions (old) sold slightly easier.

The copper division was fairly steady, but decidedly inactive, whilst the Tongkah group of tin stocks showed marked weakness, a circumstance due not to the price of the white metal, as that is remarkably strong.

As regards mining developments during the week, considerable interest attaches to the operations of the Broken Hill Junction North Company, at No. 12 level. It was at this level that the lode, after proving to be 400 feet long and 40 feet wide of payable ore, cut right out, whilst exploration at a deeper level only proved barren ground. The management, however, persevered with the level, and has been rewarded with new development that accounts for the better demand for the shares. According to our Broken Hill correspondent, this new development gives the B.H. Junction North "a possibly unexpected ore body at the 1224 feet level, 250ft long by about 80ft wide, with every possibility of it going down for some distance, before disappearing into the North Broken Hill mine." Whilst the discovery is likely to be a decided advantage to the B.H. Junction North Company, the development is right in the northern corner of the lease, and must be of limited area.

The development on the big tin-stone lode discovered at Ardlethan, on a lease of the newly-formed Carpathia Tin-mining Company, is attracting attention, and as the assumed course of the lode has been pegged for some miles it is certain to be thoroughly prospected. Judging by the report of Dr. Logan Jack, the lode is a most promising one, ranging in width from 16 to 20 feet, and assays show values ranging from 33 to 57 per cent. of tin. During his examination of the principal work done on the Carpathia mine, Dr. Jack selected several samples of every class of ore in the formation, and after comparing the bulk of the crushed samples with that of the "prospect" of tin made after the impurities were eliminated he says, "I am positive that it is within the mark to say that the stone averaged over one-third tin." "The proof of the pudding is the eating of it," and already parcels of ore, easily won, have been sold for export to Germany.

Operations at the Mount Oxide Copper Mine continue to be very satisfactory, whilst the directors of the Iodide (Mineral Hill) Limited, have entered upon a wise policy of proving the downward continuity of by their lode sinking the main shaft, and putting down a winze in the chloride section.

MINING NOTES.

An extraordinary general meeting of shareholders in the Occidental Gold Mining Company will be held at Cobar on November 8, for the purpose of considering a resolution to increase the capital of the company, by the issue of 28,000 contributing shares of 10s each. The directors consider this should be done, as further plant is required for the proper treatment of the ore, and also to sink the shaft further. The directors have every confidence in the future of the mine, but find that additions to the plant are absolutely necessary. Samples from a winze below the bottom level give values of over 3oz of gold to the ton of ore—a very encouraging prospect indeed.

A telegram from the manager of the Vegetable Creek tin mine states that the east crosscut from the rock shaft is in 12ft, and shows 24in of fair grade wash in the face.

Our Yerranderie correspondent states:—"Several large teams carting ore from the Yerranderie mines have withdrawn, owing to the excessive wear and tear due to the dreadful state of the roads."

Operations at the Broken Hill Junction North mine during the past fortnight are officially recorded as follows:—"No. 12 level: The north drive advanced 28 feet; the total length is now 45 feet; the face is in low-grade ore, showing garnet sandstone freely. A rise has been started in 10/19, progress 17 feet. The tonnages raised from the various levels were as follows:—No. 9 level, 284 tons; No. 10 level, 493 tons; No. 11 level, 1733 tons; No. 12 level, 1361 tons. The assembling of locomotive and trucks for railway to slime dumps has been completed. Other work in this connection is progressing. Fair progress has been made with construction of the feed mixer. Erection of vanners, settlers, etc., at vanner extension plant has made slow progress."

ASSAYER AND ANALYST, Reasonable Fees, Scale on application. C. BRISTOWE, A.I.M.M., 69 Pitt-st.—Advt.

The output of the Hercules mine (Tas.) for the week ended October 18 was:—530 tons of sulphide ore to Zeehan, leaving on hand in trucks and bins 20 tons of sulphide ore and 30 tons of zinc ore.

The levels from the Federal shaft of the Pulganbar Quick-silver and Copper Mining Company still show the same quality of ores, every foot driven confirming the great value of the property. The greater part of the staff has been employed on construction works. The shed is partly ready for the iron roof, but trouble has arisen in connection with the carrying on of the brick work, on account of labour troubles. The manager, however, hopes the delay in the work will only be temporary. All the bricks are burnt and ready, and the fitting work, etc., was progressing satisfactorily until the stoppage.

A largely-attended statutory meeting of the shareholders of the North Australian Exploration, Limited, was held last week at the company's office, Martin-place. Mr. H. B. Jamieson occupied the chair, and reported that options had been secured for the company, including the Mount Lindsay, Mount Idster, and three leases immediately north of the Mount Oxide Mines, Limited, on the line of the outcrop spoken of by Mr. Williams, general manager of that company, in his report to his board. The Mount Lindsay mine had, it was stated, reached a stage justifying flotation into a separate company. The Mount Idster is highly thought of by the company's Queensland representative, Mr. H. W. Clark, and the prospective value of the Mount Oxide North leases was said to be considerable. The chairman then read the report of Mr. J. H. Fawcett, M.Inst.M.M., dealing with the property.

SULPHIDE CORPORATION.

MONTHLY OUTPUT.

During the four weeks ended October 19 17,240 tons of ore were milled at the Central mine, Broken Hill, producing 2704 tons of lead concentrates, and 5695 tons of zinc concentrates at the Cockle Creek works, during the same period, 3706 tons of purchased ore, and Central mine leadies, etc., were smelted, yielding 1263 tons of lead, containing 4290oz of gold and 95,736oz of silver.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Up to 4 p.m. to-day Mr. H. B. Dando, secretary, invites entries for the half-dozen items on the card for the Warwick Farm November meeting, on the 9th prox. The prize-money aggregates £475, of which £100 endows the Warwick Handicap.

The weights for the Moorefield November meeting are promised this forenoon.

Though the fields at Canterbury Park on Saturday were comparatively small, backers were not particularly happy in their selections, inasmuch as only one favourite and a joint favourite were successful, and the balance at the close of operations was on the side of the ringmen. The Moonee Valley Cup also came in for some attention, the demand for Ladies' Man and Almissa being most persistent, the former of whom had most friends; while Beverage also came in for sound support.

The programme for the meeting of the New South Wales Trotting Club on November 5 (Melbourne Cup day) demands the attention of owners and trainers before 8 p.m. to-day, when entries close with the secretary, Mr. R. C. Hungerford. The prize-money totals £300, distributed over five events, the principal of which is the Epping Handicap of £75.

The Multiform colt Mulford was sent out a very warm favourite for the Flying Handicap at Canterbury Park on Saturday, in a field of nine, only a shade of odds being available at the rise of the barrier, but, though he was well placed in the early stages of the contest, he had nothing to say in the settlement of the question. Truxton King took up the running soon after the first furlong had been cast behind, and at the distance looked all over a winner, but in the run home Salarino, who had run up to the heels of the leader near the three-furlongs post, wore him down, and beat him in the last few strides by a narrow margin. The winner was bred by his owner, Mr. J. T. Price, and is by Antonio (imp.), from Maid of Erin, by Seneschal from Idica, by Idalium, and his best performance hitherto was in a two-year-old handicap at Rosehill in December last.

Mr. H. Cobcroft, secretary, invites nominations up to 8 p.m. to-day, for the seven events on the card for the Australian Trotting Club's meeting on the 5th prox. (Melbourne Cup day). The prize-money totals £420, of which £100 goes to the A.T.C. Handicap, 1½m.

The first race of the season on the suburban tracks for two-year-olds was run at Canterbury Park on Saturday, when 18 youngsters were stripped for the Juvenile Stakes. Quite a number of the youngsters were sporting silk for the first time, but backers were right on the mark when they selected Lepta and Brattle as the best of the bunch, and backed them accordingly, the pair disputing favouritism at the last moment. As the market indicated, the issue lay between the best-fancied pair, who ran locked together until fairly in line for home; then Brattle shook off Lepta, and easily accounted for the Ayr Laddie filly at the end. Brattle, who cost her owner and trainer, W. Booth, 330 guineas as a yearling, was bred at the Widden stud, and is by Maltster from Astron (half-sister, by Grafton, to Lager) from Ebule, by Goldsbrough. Lepta who ran second, is by Ayr Laddie (imp.) from Silver, by Arsenal from Silvery, by The Assyrian, and was bred at Rylstone by Mr. S. M. Rutter; while Nombi, who filled third place, was bred by T. Payten, is by Maltster from Winkfield's Lass (imp.), by Winkfield from Wedding Cake, by Gallinule, and cost 390 guineas as a yearling.

The field for the Stewards' Mile at Canterbury Park on Saturday, was one short of a dozen, and the Flavus gelding, Mandowa, left the paddock a pronounced favourite, with Menes and Merie next fancied in order. Paanopa, with a substantial lead most of the way, set the pace to the turn for home, where the favourite cut her down, but was immediately challenged by Merei, who had the son of Flavus in difficulties ere the distance was reached and comfortably accounted for him at the end. Merei has not troubled the judge since last December at Wollongong, where he secured a race on protest. When rounding the turn for home Little Lill came down, and Locomotion tumbled over her, the jockeys (W. Osborne and M. Cairns), who had the respective mounts, receiving severe shock to the system. The stipendiary stewards opened an inquiry into the cause of the mishap, but adjourned it until the riders were in a fit state to give evidence. Little Lill received some injury to the neck, but Locomotion was little the worse for the fall.

An attractive bill of fare has been drafted for the Rosebery pony and galloway fixture of Saturday next, when £600 will be distributed over seven races, the best subsidised of which is the Rosebery Handicap of £100; four events carry £85 each, and two £80 each. Entries will be received up to 5 p.m. to-day by the secretary, Mr. J. Underhill.

Backers at Canterbury Park on Saturday made no mistake when they installed Santanno favourite for the Park Stakes, in a field of half a score, but he had a very close call from Orzilite, who had set the pace to the distance where the favourite put in his claim, and whence a ding-dong finish was fought out, ending in a head win. Santanno, who was bred by Mr. E. A. Shiel, is by Positano (imp.) from Yo San, by Projectile from Loch Mea, by Lochiel, and cost his owner 80 guineas as a yearling.

The imported horse Almissa, by Ayrshire from La Roche, by St. Simon, opened his winning career at Moonee Valley on Saturday in the Cup, accounting for Ladies' Man and Beverage. On this occasion he carried 6lb more than his Caulfield Cup weight, and, had he not met with an accident in that race, it is not improbable, in view of Saturday's performance, that he would have been handy at the end of the trip. His victory entails a 7lb penalty for the Melbourne Cup, and with only 7st on his five-years-old back he must be reckoned as a possibility in the two miles race at Flemington.

When executing her preliminary for the Canterbury Handicap on Saturday the New Zealand mare Monoplane displayed symptoms of soreness, but her rider, Curran, sharpened her up by sending her almost at her top for a couple of furlongs along the back stretch as she went to the post. She was not fancied in the betting market, and started as the outsider of the select party of five that took part in the race. The top weight, Barlow, was a pronounced favourite, with Patrimony next fancied. Patrimony made the early running, but a mile from home Bon Frisco took charge, while Monoplane was at the other end of the procession. Rubecula joined issue with Bon Frisco near the half-mile post, and the pair were together to the straight entrance, where the favourite ran through, and appeared to have the race at his mercy, but he had yet to reckon with Monoplane, who had made up some of her leeway at the bend, and, coming with a brilliant run from the distance, had the favourite in trouble at the half distance, and beat him home, while Bon Frisco cut Patrimony out of third money. Bred in New Zealand, the winner is by Monoform (son of Hotchkiss) from Lycia, by Soult (imp.) from Lady Musket, by Blairgowrie from Muskerina, by Musket, running back to Yatterina, by Yattendon, a remarkably stout pedigree. Her best performance on her native soil last season was in the Ohinemuri Cup at the Ohinemuri March meeting, and which she secured under 7st 7lb.

Four New South Wales-bred horses gained the winning list at Moonee Valley on Saturday. The Tarcutta-bred Arndel, by Ibex from Iodine, captured the St. Albans Handicap; North Woodleigh, who got the Phoenix Handicap on a protest, was bred by Mr. T. Longworth, and is by Rice (imp.) from Nitouche, by Eiridspord from She, by Nordenfeldt; Bibbenluke, who annexed the Steeplechase, was bred by his owners, Messrs. P. and W. Mitchell, at Bringenbong, and is by Reminder (son of Swiveller) from Corrie, by Corythus from Buckhi, by Guesswork; while Abdicator, who secured the Welter Handicap, is by the Duninald sire Prudent King (imp.) from Good-bye, by Autonomy from the Goldsbrough mare Broadside, and was bred by Messrs. Rouse Bros. at Biraganbil.

Another New Zealander, Wild West, secured a winning bracket in the Welter Handicap on Saturday. There were 16 starters, and the popular vote was for the Sylvanite mare Precision, who was backed down to 7 to 4, while Black and Gold, Lady Maltster, and Wild West were the only others marketable. A heavy thundershower set in when speculation opened, and the downpour was in full swing during the race. Lady Maltster essayed to win all the way, and turned into the home stretch with Precision and Black and Gold hard upon her; but when fairly in line for the judge's box Wild West, who had held a forward position all the way, came with a resolute run, and scored handsomely from Lady Maltster and Black and Gold, while the favourite melted out of it from the distance. Wild West has not won out of his turn, for he has not troubled the judge since he won a similar race at Rosehill nearly a year ago. According to the official time, the six furlongs were cut out in the particularly good time of 1m 14¾s, and, considering the state of the track, it compares more than favourably with that of 1m 14½s registered for the Flying Handicap.

The gallop at Flemington on Saturday, in which Duke Foote failed to catch Lord Alwyne, to whom he had given six lengths' start, was responsible for the Metropolitan winner receding half a point in the Melbourne Cup quotations at Canterbury Park on Saturday, but he firmed again as the afternoon wore on. Uncle Sam was five points behind Duke Foote, and a similar number in advance of Piastre; then two points away came Cadonia and Artesian, who were six in front of Hallowmas. There were inquiries for Almissa after his Cup success at Moonee Valley.

Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son announce that they will hold a sale of racehorses at their bazaar, Pitt-street, at noon to-day, when Flip Flap (by April Fool), Tess, by Shah-en-Shah, and b g by Impressario (imp.) will be brought under the hammer.

Nominations for the principal handicaps of the Orange Jockey Club's spring meeting to be held on the 8th and 9th prox. close with the secretary, Mr. W. Lamrock, on Wednesday next, the 30th inst. The items are the Opening Handicap, 6f., the November Handicap, 1m., and the Spring Handicap, 1m 1f.

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

CAULFIELD.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The weather was dull and close early this morning, but at about 8 o'clock the wind changed to the south, when it became cold and threatening. The grass was available for special gallops, and it was very fast indeed. Pinkerton and Onaser made a start with five furlongs, run in 1m 2¼s, and Anne Page and Maltravers did a furlong less in 53¾s. Rathlea did a good working gallop of a mile in 1m 57½s. Symetris, who has an easy style of galloping, ran a mile and a quarter in 2m 16¾s. Eudorus (A. Sparks), Bobadea (W. Sampson), and Aurofodina (W. Barnett) were bracketed for a mile and three furlongs. They ran the first five furlongs in 1m 4¼s, the mile in 1m 45¾s, and the full distance in 2m 26½s, with Eudorus a neck in front of Bobadea, and Aurofodina half a length farther back. None of them, however, was at his top, and they all pulled up well. Ireland sprinted five furlongs in 1m 6¼s. Martyre went nicely for a mile, run in 1m 46¾s. Golden Point (W. Sampson) started off slowly, and finished up nine furlongs in 2m 1s, the last four furlongs taking 54½s. Matouree was kept well in hand for a mile and a quarter, run in 2m 22s, and Aurifer beat Blind Harry over the same journey in 2m 14s. Toyland and Aboyne sprinted five furlongs in 1m 5¼s, and for the same distance Elvanite took 1m 5s, and Watch Key beat Macduff. Patriotic put in an even time mile and a quarter. Nata sprinted three furlongs in 39¼s. Kyoppa bowled along for nine furlongs in 2m 8¼s. Continuance was sent a mile and a quarter, which took 2m 19s. St. Vano made his way over a mile in 1m 50¾s, and May Dawn and Kyarra took 1m 54½s over a similar distance. Royal Fleet and Swagger were usefully employed. Porch sprinted four furlongs in 1m 5¼s. Buln Buln and Lady Mooltan sprinted three furlongs in 39½s. Mile gallops were done by John M'Elhone in 1m 51¼s, Dunolly 1m 52s, Oakleone 1m 52½s, and Iliad 1m 53½s. Belfast sprinted four furlongs in 53s. Fireglow did four furlongs in 54½s, and twice that distance in 1m 52¼s went down to Gladwyn.

FLEMINGTON.

BURRAWANG SHAPES WELL.

POOR GALLOP BY DUKE FOOTE.

It was fine but rather sultry this morning. The big sand and tan tracks were in splendid order, and the outside of the course proper was also available. Most of the work was done on the sand. Yarrum led off with four furlongs in the smart time of 50s on the tan, where Wilari and Nari followed, running nine furlongs in 2m 3s. King Flavus sprinted four furlongs in 53¼s. Piastre went the same distance, and did the last six furlongs in 1m 20s, going smoothly. Lady Medallist did not seem to have any difficulty in running a mile and a quarter on the course proper in 2m 16s. Widgiewa was keeping very wide out for five furlongs, run in 1m 8¼s. Monodia, Porthaven, and Bens ran four furlongs in 56s. Kwasind made similar time, but he went six furlongs. Wolawa gave Uncle Matt several lengths' start in a gallop of a mile and a half on the tan, but was soon up beside him. He ran the first mile in 1m 49s, and the full distance in 2m 47¼s. They finished very slowly, and were 16s in doing the last furlong. Moe galloped a mile and a quarter in 2m 17¾s, and was 57½s over the last four furlongs. Deeside did the last seven of eight furlongs in 1m 26s, and Eye Glass and Perdita were 1m 37¼s for the same distance. Wise King again did well, beating Kildalton and Golden Goblet in a sprint of four furlongs in 51s. Blackpool was going better than Herringbone at the conclusion of four furlongs run in 52¼s, and Shuja and Limelight were associated for a mile, run in 1m 48¼s. Blairgour had no difficulty in running seven furlongs on the tan in 1m 34s. Adgio galloped a mile and a quarter on the course proper in 2m 17s, King Mostyn joining in for the last mile. Nangar went strongly on the tan. Sandbath, Wool, and Cadonia kept company in a working gallop of a mile and a quarter on the course proper, run in 2m 21¾s. Gillamatong went nine furlongs, and ran the last mile in 1m 49¾s. Uncle Sam moved very freely while doing a working gallop of a mile and a half on the tan in 2m 54s. Obi did well to run a mile in 1m 47¼s. Captain White did not seem to have any trouble in covering a mile and a quarter on the tan in 2m 20s. Flavian and Effervescence kept company for a mile and three furlongs in 2m 34¼s. The Lintie ran six furlongs in 1m 22¼s. Hallowmas, going in excellent style, galloped nine furlongs on the course in 2m 1¼s. Duke Foote attempted to give Lord Alwyne some half-dozen lengths' start in a mile and a quarter on the course, but after reducing the gap somewhat he began to drop farther behind the Adelaide horse, who finally finished three seconds in front of him. Duke Foote's time for the journey was 2m 18¾s, and his indifferent showing came as a surprise. It was, however, the first occasion that he has been asked to extend himself since he has come here, and there will probably be a different tale to tell when next he gallops. Sylvander again had no difficulty in running six furlongs in 1m 20¼s. Beck's Lager was just outside even time for four furlongs on the course, where Beragoon did well to run five furlongs in 1m 5¼s. Milly Hilton also showed fine speed in beating Goree and Murillo Rose by four lengths over four furlongs on the course in 50¼s. Burrawang had the company of Reyle for the first four furlongs, done in 56s, and of Quiamong, whom he beat, for the remainder of the gallop of a mile and a quarter, run in 2m 18¼s. He did the last mile in 1m 49¼s, a very pleasing performance on the part of the Derby candidate, who finished very strongly. Royal Scotch was out for slow work.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

There was a fine race for the Moonee Valley Cup on Saturday, but, unfortunately, it was somewhat rough. In order to give the 16 starters a nice run to the final turn, the field was kept eight or ten yards from the inner rails, the clerk of the course preventing the horses from coming in. As soon as the word was given there was a lot of bumping, and two or three of the starters had their chances at once destroyed. Puringa, Tadanga, and Mountain Princess were among the principal sufferers, while Almissa was cut out, and, passing the stand, his chance of being returned the winner did not look very bright. Indiscreet, who had used his legs freely at the post, landed Mountain Princess a sharp one with his heels. Mountain Princess was probably feeling the effects of this visitation at the moment of the start, and could make no headway in the race for a long time. She was at the tail of the field for half the distance, but finished well. Beverage cut rather sharply across soon after the start, and this helped to jumble up the field. Perhaps the rider was not to blame, as Beverage has only one eye, and he cannot be depended upon to run a straight course. There was some more bumping at the back. Beverage had every chance of winning, as he was clear of all interference, and at one stage of the journey must have been ten lengths in front. Flaith and Mousme were the first to go after the runaway. Flaith did not last long, but Mousme was almost on terms with Beverage as the home turn was approached. Beverage was first into the straight, but Ladies' Man soon afterwards ranged alongside. There was a short, sharp struggle between the pair, and it ended in favour of Ladies' Man, who looked a certain winner until Almissa came from nowhere, as the saying is, and, in a few strides, the complexion of the situation was entirely altered. Finishing very strongly, the English horse scored a decisive victory by three-quarters of a length in time equal to the record for the race. Almissa only had a light weight, but his performance was a particularly good one, seeing that half-a-mile from home he must have been a dozen lengths behind the leader. He was then being hard ridden, and looked hopelessly beaten. The way he responded shows him to be a good, game horse. He has always displayed smart form on the track, but this was his maiden victory. He was imported from England by his owners, the Messrs. Baillieu, and is a five-year-old horse, by Ayrshire (son of Hampton) from La Roche, by St. Simon. His previous best public form was in running fifth to Popinjay in the Futurity Stakes, and second to Uncle Sam in the Toorak Handicap, but, unfortunately, he got a bad bump in the Caulfield Cup, and his rider was shot out of the saddle. He was ridden on Saturday by the Sydney pony rider J. Williams, who, if nothing else, is a vigorous finisher. Almissa is trained by F. Musgrave, who had a previous Moonee Valley Cup to his credit, Kerlie, prepared by him for Mr. M. Ellis, winning two years ago. Almissa has incurred 7lb penalty for the Melbourne Cup, but this only brings his weight up to 7st, or 1lb more than he carried on Saturday. He shapes like a horse that will get a distance, and he has more than an outside chance in the two miles race.

A field of 21 saddled up for the 2-year-old event, the St. Albans Handicap, which last year was taken by Cider, but T. Payten had not a representative on this occasion. A favourite was found in the Adelaide colt Arndel, who had won the Mona Nursery at Caulfield, and was up 15lb. Before reaching the home turn, Arndel was in front, and he eventually won by two lengths from another Adelaide representative, Chica.

The 3-year-old Golden Hop, carrying the colours of Malt King's owner, was a strong favourite for the Phoenix Handicap, run over a mile, while the Adelaide representative, Ptah, was next in demand. Ptah was very fractious at the post, and delayed the start. Golden Hop got off very smartly, and led for over five furlongs, when Walter Tyrril ranged up alongside of him. Walter Tyrril was first into the straight, and, stalling off North Woodleigh in the run home, won by a short neck; while Golden Hop (who, it turns out, has not been in work very long, and finished feebly), was four lengths further away. There was a protest against the winner for boring out North Woodleigh, and interfering with him in the straight. The protest was upheld, and the race awarded to North Woodleigh, while the stewards placed Walter Tyrril second. The verdict was, it is understood, disagreed with by the two stipendiary stewards. Notice of appeal to the V.R.C. committee was given.

There were several falls in the Steeplechase, and one of those to come to grief, Swan Hill, broke his neck. He was better known as a hunter than a steeplechaser, but was recently successful in a steeplechase at Sandown Park. He was owned by Mr. A. Randall, and trained by P. Cosgrove, who also rode him. Cosgrove sustained some abrasions to his face, and W. Cootes, with whom Roulette fell, met with slight injuries of a similar kind. The other jockeys were not injured.

A more valuable horse, Karnattan, was lost in the Moonee Valley Cup. Another horse bumped into him at the back of the course and brought him down, and in his fall he narrowly escaped bringing Pearl King to grass. Karnattan's rider, H. Jackson, luckily escaped with a shaking, but the horse had one of his shoulders broken, and was subsequently destroyed. Karnattan was a six-year-old brother to Melbourne Cup winner, The Parisian, by Bobadil from The Parisienne, by Trenton, and was owned by Mr. A. T. Creswick, in whose colours he won the Adelaide Birthday Cup and other races.

A conference between the members of the V.R.C. committee and the representatives of the other metropolitan registered clubs to consider the applications received for the positions of stipendiary stewards, reduced the number of applicants considered eligible for appointment to eight, and another meeting will be held next Friday to select three men from these to fill the positions. The eight left in are understood to be Messrs. A. B. Pearson (chairman of Williamstown Racing Club), W. J. Toohey (a well-known solicitor, and an honorary steward of the Moonee Valley Racing Club), A. H. Cox (one of present stipendiary stewards), J. H. Davies (racehorse owner, trainer, and handicapper), S. Griffiths (who has owned and trained horses, and acted as handicapper in India, and is at present the Moonee Valley handicapper), E. W. Ellis (of South Australia, owner of Lord Wilton and other well-known horses some years ago), D. Gibson (who acts as stipendiary steward for the Southern District Racing Association in New South Wales), and Wilson (a stipendiary steward in Queensland).

ADELAIDE SPORTING NOTES.

ADELAIDE, Sunday.

C. O'Neill, the rider of Labald in the Hurdle Race at Gawler on Saturday, was cautioned by the stewards for his careless riding at the finish of that event. The horse, apparently, had the race won coming to the last hurdle, which was partially down, and the stewards evidently considered that O'Neill, instead of easing his mount just at that point, should have kept him going. As it was, Butler, on the topweight, Destinist, drove his mount for all he was worth at the gap, and catching Labald just after the obstacle had been passed, he worried Mr. Patterson's gelding out of the stake.

Immediately after Haliastur had won the Second Division of the Trial Stakes at Gawler on Saturday, Mr. H. Lewis, the owner of Lady Camille, entered a protest on the ground that the winner was not eligible to run. The conditions of the race included the following proviso:—"For all horses that have not won on the flat a sum, being a stake or part of a stake, value 50 sovs or over." Haliastur ran second in the Hills Railway Stakes at Onkaparinga on Easter Monday, and became entitled to 60 sovs. She was disqualified, and Lady Camille, who was second, was placed first, and the second dividend was declared on Lartuen, who had finished third. The stewards wisely took it upon themselves to refund the investments made on Haliastur.

CANTERBURY PARK RACE CLUB.

OCTOBER MEETING.

SALARINO WINS FLYING HANDICAP.

MONOPLANE THE CANTERBURY HANDICAP.

The weather was fine, but rather sultry, in the early stages of the Canterbury Park October meeting on Saturday, but as the jockeys were being weighed out for the final event on the card a heavy thunderstorm broke over the course, and sheets of rain came down during the race, making things very unpleasant for all concerned. The attendance was very large, the sport was of an interesting character, and, with the exception of a couple of falls in the Stewards' Mile, the card was run through successfully. The general arrangements were ably supervised by the secretary, Mr. W. L. Davis. Results:—

FLYING HANDICAP of 100 sovs, second horse 20 sovs, and third horse 10 sovs from prize. 6f.

Mr. J. T. Price's ch c Salarino, by Antonio (imp.)—Maid of Erin, 3yrs, 8st 1lb (J. Lightfoot) 1
Mr. A. Gollan's ch h Truxton King, 4yrs, 7st 5lb (N. Russell) 2
Mr. C. O'Rourke's ch m Monie, 4yrs, 7st 5lb, inc. 7lb pen. (J. S. McDonald) 3

Other starters: Hymeneal, 9st 5lb (S. Lamond); Troon, 8st 10lb (S. Mackay); Lady Maltster, 8st 7lb (W. Osborne); Ashby, 8st (Lewis); Mulford, 7st 5lb (G. Pinn); Amy C, 7st (T. O'Keefe).

Betting: 5 to 4 v Mulford, 5 to 1 each v Lady Maltster and Monie, 6 to 1 each v Troon, Salarino, and Hymeneal, 10 to 1 each v Truxton King and others.

Troon, Monie, and Lady Maltster were quickest off the mark, but at the end of a furlong Mulford was in command from Lady Maltster, and Truxton King, after whom came Salarino, Monie, Amy C, Troon, and Ashby. A little further on Truxton King came through, and with Lady Maltster, Mulford, and Salarino in his wake, rattled past the half-mile post and round the bend. Truxton King turned into the straight clear from Salarino and Monie, and Salarino, tackling the leader inside the distance, got in front in time to beat him by a head. Monie was nearly three lengths off third, closely followed by Ashby, Hymeneal, Troon, and Mulford, with Amy C and Lady Maltster bringing up the rear. Time, 1m 14½s.

JUVENILE STAKES of 100 sovs, with a sweepstakes of one sov each for starters added; second horse 20 sovs and third 10 sovs from prize. 4f.

Mr. W. Booth's blk f Brattle, by Maltster—Astron, 8st (W. Dougherty) 1
Mr. J. Brown's br f Lepta, 8st (S. Lamond) 2
Messrs. E. H. Wills-Allen's and F. Macdonald's ch c Nombi, 8st 5lb (J. Lightfoot) 3

Other starters: Marchwood, 8st 5lb (R. Abbott); Chid, 8st 5lb (J. Campbell); Azoic, 8st 5lb (Bloomfield); Gold Gift, 8st 5lb (J. S. McDonald); Prudent Prince, 8st 5lb (W. Osborne); Zinti, 8st 5lb (Guy); Wallingford, 8st 5lb (L. Walker); Endear, 8st (G. Pinn); Aricia, 8st (P. Foley); Anartes, 8st (N. Russell); Pride of Lancaster, 8st (W. Stokes); Aye Aye Sir, 8st (W. Black); Kittle, 8st (G. Hook), Bonnie Florence, 8st (S. Mackay); Lady Earlston, 8st (K. Bracken).

Betting: 2 to [illegible] each v Brattle and Lepta, 10 to 1 each v Zinti, Gold Gift, Aye Aye Sir, and Nombi, 12 to 1 v Endear, 20 to 1 each v others.

Brattle and Lepta jumped off in front of Nombi and Gold Gift, and at the end of the first furlong Brattle and Lepta were followed a length away by Nombi, Gold Gift, Kittle, and Pride of Lancaster. Without change they turned into the straight, and Brattle, drawing out at the distance, came on, and won easily by three lengths from Lepta, who beat Nombi by a head for second place, then succeeded Azoic, Pride of Lancaster, Zinti, Chid, Prudent Prince, Bonnie Florence, and Aye Aye Sir, with Marchwood and Lady Earlston whipping-in. Time, 51s.

STEWARDS' MILE of 100 sovs, second horse 20 sovs and third 10 sovs from prize.

Mr. T. C. Trautwein's b g Merei, by Mozart—Maribell, aged, 8st 8lb (J. S. M'Donald) 1
Mr. G. Gilbert's ch h Mandowa, 6yrs, 9st 3lb (W. Dougherty) 2
Mr. A. W. Harry's ch g Menes, 5yrs, 8st 2lb (R. Abbott) 3

Other starters: Sir Artegal, 9st 7lb (Curran); Little Lill, 9st 5lb (W. Osborne); Fortius, 9st (J. King); Colma, 8st 5lb (S. Lamond); Locomotion, 7st 11lb (M. Cairns); Jack Hinton, 7st 10lb (J. M'Keown); Thalmous, 7st 9lb (J. Lightfoot); Paanopa, 7st 9lb, inc. 1lb over (P. Foley).

Betting: 6 to 4 v Mandowa, 3 to 1 v Menes, 5 to 1 v Merei, 7 to 1 v Paanopa, 10 to 1 v Sir Artegal, 14 to 1 v Thalmous, 25 to 1 each v the others.

Paanopa and Jack Hinton broke the line, and Paanopa led past the judge's box from Menes, Sir Artegal, Jack Hinton, Mandowa, and Merei, with Locomotion last. Racing down the hill Paanopa drew out four lengths from Menes, Jack Hinton, Mandowa, and Sir Artegal, who were followed by Little Lill and Merei. Without change they opened up the back stretch, and raced to the bend, where Paanopa was still leading by two lengths from Jack Hinton and Mandowa, who were succeeded by Thalmous, Menes, and Merei. Mandowa took charge as they swept into the straight, with Merei and Menes in pursuit, but Merei had the measure of the favourite inside the distance, and beat him home by two lengths. Menes was half a length away third, and followed in order by Paanopa, Fortius, Sir Artegal, and Jack Hinton, with Colma last. Little Lill and Locomotion fell at the bend. Time, 1m 42s.

PARK STAKES of 100 sovs, second horse 20 sovs and third 10 sovs from the prize. 1m.

Mr. W. Kendall's b f Santanno, by Positano (imp.)—Yo San, 3yrs, 8st 12lb (M. Ridley) 1
Mr. J. Thompson's b or bk h Orzilite, 6yrs, or aged, 7st 13lb (inc. 4lb over) (W. Black) 2
Mr. F. G. Craymer's b g Lord Emily, 3yrs, 7st 5lb (inc. 5lb over) (S. Mackay) 3

Other starters: Rosegraft, 8st 6lb (S. Lamond); Olga Romanof, 7st 13lb (L. Morris); Venusia, 7st 12lb (G. Pinn); Boy Blue, 7st 11lb (M. Kenny); Bonnie Ben, 7st 10lb (J. M'Keown); Lonesome, 7st 9lb (A. Thomas); Osmic, 7st 8lb (G. Hook).

Betting: 6 to 4 v Santanno, 4 to 1 v Osmic, 6 to 1 each v Boy Blue and Venusia, 8 to 1 v Orzilite, 10 to 1 v Rosegraft, 12 to 1 v Lord Emily, 10 to 1 each v the others.

When they had settled into their strides, Santanno took charge, and showed the way past the judge's box, followed by Lonesome, Rosegraft, Osmic, Venusia, Bonnie Ben, and Olga Romanof. As they raced down the hill Orzilite ran through, and opened up the back stretch well clear from the favourite, Venusia, Rosegraft, Orzilite, and Bonnie Ben. There was no material change as they raced past the half-mile post and round the bend, but as they neared the home turn Lord Emily moved up into third place. Orzilite turned into the straight clear from the favourite, and the latter, throwing out a bold challenge at the distance, just got up in time to win by a head, with Lord Emily a length away third. Then followed Rosegraft and Boy Blue, and, after a gap, came Osmic, Lonesome, and Bonnie Ben, with Olga Romanof and Venusia in the rear. Time, 1m 43s.

CANTERBURY HANDICAP of 150 sovs, second horse 20 sovs and third 10 sovs from the prize. 1¼m 100yds.

Mr. H. R. Mackenzie's b m Monoplane, by Monoform—Lycia, 5yrs, 8st 10lb (Curran) 1
Mr. H. Chippendall's b g Barlow, 4yrs, 9st 5lb (J. S. McDonald) 2
Messrs. S. Bedford and J. Barnes's b g Bon Frisco, (allowed 7lb), carried 7st 12lb (inc. 10lb pen.) (N. Russell) 3

Other starters: Patrimony (allowed 7lb) carried 7st 12lb (M. Kenney); Rubecula (allowed 7lb), carried 7st 9lb (R. Sinclair).

Betting: 6 to 4 v Barlow, 5 to 2 v Patrimony, 5 to 1 v Bon Frisco, 7 to 1 v Rubecula, 8 to 1 v Monoplane.

After Barlow had a short turn in front, Patrimony took charge, and came into the straight with Rubecula and Bon Frisco almost on terms, but as they neared the distance Bon Frisco shot through and passed the judge's box a couple of lengths in advance of Rubecula and Patrimony, with Barlow five lengths away, and Monoplane three lengths off last. That order was preserved to the half-mile post, where Rubecula joined issue with Bon Frisco, the pair being three lengths from Patrimony. Barlow was four lengths further back, and four clear from Monoplane. Bon Frisco retired at the bend, where Barlow came through and entered the home stretch, followed by Rubecula and Patrimony. When fairly in line for home Monoplane came with a wet sail, and, cutting down the favourite inside the distance, beat him by three parts of a length. Bon Frisco was a length off third, followed in order by Patrimony and Rubecula. Time, 2m 17s.

WELTER HANDICAP of 100 sovs, second horse 20 sovs and third horse 10 sovs from prize. 6f.

Mr. J. Birk's br g Wild West, by Soult (imp.)—The Squaw, 6yrs, 10st 2lb (J. S. M'Donald) .. 1
Mr. G. M. Paine's ch m Lady Maltster, aged, 10st 5lb (L. Walker) 2
Mr. S. Whitworth's ch h Black and Gold, 3yrs, 9st 5lb (F. Connolly) 3

Other starters: Precision, 9st 6lb (W. Black); Memeret, 9st 1lb (G. Selby); Fancy Vest, 9st (W. Bracken); Lotroma, 9st (S. Mackay); Firm, 9st (W. Dougherty); E.L.H., 8st 12lb (G. Whitehall); Flamstead, 8st 11lb (M. Sawyer); Minno, 8st 10lb (E. Carney); Maroomba, 8st 8lb (R. Abbott); Selbrook, 8st 8lb (S. Lamond); Lady Ely, 8st 7lb (J. Campbell); Lord Holman, 8st 7lb (J. Lightfoot); Gyarran, 8st 7lb (S. Hatfield).

Betting: 7 to 4 v Precision, 7 to 2 v Black and Gold, 7 to 1 each v Lady Maltster and Wild West, 10 to 1 each v others.

Lady Maltster took charge in the first furlong, and led along the back from Black and Gold, Precision, and Wild West. When they reached the half-mile post Lady Maltster and Black and Gold were together just in front of Precision and Wild West, but coming round the bend Lady Maltster again took charge, and was followed into the straight by Black and Gold, Precision, and Wild West. Wild West came with a fast run from the distance, and cutting down Lady Maltster at the half-distance beat her by half a length. Black and Gold was two lengths away third, followed by Memeret, Lotroma, Trainbearer, Firm, and the favourite, with E.L.H. last. Time, 1m 14¾s.

GOLF.

SATURDAY'S COMPETITIONS.

With beautiful weather and only the gentlest of breezes, there were more than the usual number of good scores returned on Saturday. The most important event was the Cadogan Cup, at Kensington, which was won by E. T. Thring, with a card of 86-9-77. H. B. Godbolt's round of 73 at Concord from scratch was a noteworthy achievement, though it did not win for him the competition. P. R. Russell's round of 74—3=71 at Bonnie Doon was also a very good performance, in which the player equalled his own previous record. Dr. G. B. Thomas established a new record by going round the Dobroyde course in 80, and on almost all the courses bogey figures were beaten often by several players.

Following are the results of competitions:—

LAWN TENNIS.

STRATHFIELD CLUB'S OPEN TOURNAMENT.

The efforts of the management committee of the Strathfield Lawn Tennis Club to complete the tournament last Saturday were frustrated by the downpour of rain which occurred about 4 o'clock. In consequence of this, three events are to be played off next Wednesday. A fourth—the first division of the Singles Handicap—was also unfinished, but, as Roxburgh, one of the finalists, was obliged to leave Sydney last night, he forfeited to Rossell, who had come through the other half of the draw. What promised to be a good final contest between one of the back-mark division and a limit man therefore fell through.

The Doubles Handicap No. 1 was won by Metcalfe and Robinson, who defeated two pairs on adjacent handicaps to themselves during the afternoon. The final, which was against Roxburgh and Smith, was a spirited affair. The services of Metcalfe, Roxburgh, and Smith were all very severe. For sheer pace Smith took the palm, but he failed to get so many in as the other two. Metcalfe and Robinson won after losing the first set rather easily. They improved when they kept their returns low, instead of lobbing, as Smith was not getting in quite close enough to the net. Metcalfe played a splendid game, full of dash and severity, and Robinson supported him well, his overhead work being sure and effective.

A. L. North and Miss Murray won the Mixed Handicap No. 1 from Lovegrove and Miss Johnston. They were in great danger of defeat in the semi-final from J. O. Anderson and Mrs. Doyle, and received much applause for successfully fighting out a determined finish against their formidable opponents. S. E. Bailey and Miss Greenfield were successful in the second division of the same event from the back mark. Bailey's generalship proved of much value, and he had great assistance from his partner, who comes from Victoria. Results:—

Doubles Handicap No. 1.

J. Metcalfe-F. Robinson (owe 15.3) beat E. Barton-E. Jordan (owe 15.3), 6-5, 6-4.

N. Roxburgh-E. Smith (owe 15) beat H. Kirkpatrick-E. Dennis (rec. .4), 6-4, 6-2.

BOWLS.

SATURDAY'S PLAY.

Saturday's bowling programme, a light one, owing to most of the greens being still under top-dressing, was interfered with by a thunderstorm, that prevented most of the games from being completed. But the rain did good so far as the top-dressed greens were concerned, and as the matches were not in the competition series, the rain was welcomed. The only match out of the ordinary on Saturday was a game at St. George's green. It was a field day in the district, and after interesting play between the vice-presidents and the committee's teams, in which the vice-presidents were successful by a few points, the members partook of the customary leg o' mutton supper, and a very pleasant evening was spent. Another item of interest was that the City Club was able to announce its full pennant team. It is a powerful combination, and ought to show out well in the championship of the State. Details of play:—

ATHLETICS.

EAST SYDNEY A.A.C. CARNIVAL.

The only athletic fixture on Saturday was the tenth annual sports of the East Sydney A.A.C., held at Rushcutter Bay oval. The attendance was good, and the fields large in all the running events, but the meeting was spoilt by the heavy rain, and a number of the club races had to be abandoned. The quarter-mile championship of New South Wales resulted in F. C. Madeley, of the South Sydney Harriers, defeating the holder of the title, W. F. Pattinson, of the Sydney University A.A.C., in 52⅘s, after a very fine race. T. J. Wood, of the East Sydney A.A.C., created a new State record, running three-quarters of a mile in 3m 19 1-5s. The open events decided were 100yds, one mile, one mile walk, and five mile interclub relief relay race, the running high jump having to be postponed owing to the unsatisfactory state of the ground. Results:—

440yds Championship of N.S.W.—First heat: W. F. Pattinson (University), 1; E. R. Cox (East Sydney), 2. Time, 53 3-5s. Second heat: F. C. Madeley (South Sydney), 1; W. J. M'Carthy (East Sydney), 2. Time, 54 7-10s. Final: F. C. Madeley, 1; W. F. Pattinson, 2; E. R. Cox, 3. Pattinson led at the start by fully three yards, and Madeley was in the rear. Fifty yards from the [illegible] Madeley ran past the others, and caught Pattinson [illegible] yards from the tape. Time, 52⅘s.

100yds Handicap, for members of A.A.A.—First heat: R. W. Stewart (East Sydney), 6½yds, 1; P. T. Redmond (South Sydney), scr, 2. Time, 10 2-5s. Second heat: C. Anderson (Redfern), 7½yds, 1; E. G. Sutton (University), 3yds, 2. Time, 10 4-5s. Third heat: E. A. Southee (University), 3½yds, and L. Buhl (East Sydney), 5½yds, dead heat. Time, 10 4-5s. Fourth heat: E. R. Cox (East Sydney), 5yds, 1; F. E. Bever (South Sydney), 3½yds, 2. Time, 10 3-5s. Fifth heat: R. J. O'Donnell (East Sydney), 6yds, 1; C. E. Harwood (East Sydney), 4½yds, 2. Time, 10 4-5s. Sixth heat: W. T. Turner (East Sydney), 5½yds, 1; W. J. Barker (Leichhardt), 7½yds, 2. Time, 11s. Seventh heat: R. V. Fell (East Sydney), 6½yds, 1; W. J. Simmons (Botany), 6yds, 2. Time, 10 4-5s. Eighth heat: J. C. Sloman (Cumberland), 5½yds, 1; P. B. Coll (Redfern), 7yds, 2. Time, 10 3-5s. Ninth heat: J. W. Leadley (Sydney Grammar School), 6yds, 1; G. P. Parke (South Sydney), 4½yds, 2. Time, 10 2-5s. Tenth heat: H. Hall (Auburn-Rookwood), 5½yds, 1; B. N. Hardwick (Leichhardt), 7½yds, 2. Time, [illegible]. Eleventh heat: M. Cohen (South Sydney), 7½yds, 1; G. E. Popplewell (East Sydney), 5½yds, 2. Time, 11 1-5s. Semi-finals:—First heat: J. H. Leadley, 1; E. A. Southee, 2; H. Hall, 3. Time, 10 3-5s. Second heat: R. V. Fell, 1; R. W. Stewart, 2; A. Anderson, 3. Time, 10 4-5s. Final: Leadley, 1; Southee, 2; Stewart, 3; Fell, 4. A very close finish. Time, [illegible].

High Jump Handicap.—Rain fell during this event, and it was decided to continue it next Saturday on the Sports Ground. Those who remain in are: G. W. Smith (East Sydney), N. Docker (South Sydney), G. Powell (Y.M.C.A.), and T. Smith (East Sydney), all of whom cleared 5ft 1in. There were 16 competitors in all.

One Mile Open Handicap, members of A.A.A.—P. Longman (Auburn-Rookwood), 65yds, 1; J. M. Abel (East Sydney), 45yds, 2; W. H. Lodge (Redfern), 45yds, 3. Time, 4m 32 2-5s.

One Mile Walk, open to A.A.A. members.—S. J. Carter (Redfern), 70s, 1; R. V. Benham (South Sydney), 15s, 2; L. J. Cooper (Cumberland), 65s, 3. Time, 8m 14 2-5s. C. B. Cockett (University) finished first, but he was disqualified.

Five Miles Interclub Relief Relay Race (teams of four).—East Sydney No. 1 team (W. J. M'Carthy, E. W. Morris, R. P. Warner, T. J. Wood), 1; Redfern (P. B. Coll, W. H. Lodge, P. Flowers, and F. E. Austen), 2; East Sydney No. 2 (L. Buhl, J. H. M'Kernon, G. C. Banks, S. Foran), 3.

75yds. Club Handicap.—Final heat: F. Bruce, 5yds, 1; W. F. Turner, 4½yds, 2; P. Marter, 3yds, 3. Won by half a yard, and a foot separating second and third. Time, 7 4-5s.

Three-quarter Mile Club Handicap.—T. J. Wood, scr, 1; H. Buhl, 30yds, 2; G. C. Banks, 75yds, 3. W. Browne was with Wood on scratch. They set off at a good pace, but at a lap and a half Browne retired. Wood went through the field quickly, and at the commencement of the last lap was leading. Then he was forced to make his own pace, but he succeeded in breaking the record held by G. R. S. Waddy by 1s, the time being 3m 19 1-5s, which now stands as an Australian record.

220yds. Novice Handicap, for East Sydney members.—The final was won by H. C. Campbell, 25yds; with G. Smith, 7yds, 2; and G. R. Popplewell, 3yds, 3. Time, 25s.

Potato Race.—L. Buhl, 1; A. L. Harwood, 2; R. V. Fell, 3.

100yds Handicap, for boys attending Double Bay School.—L. Stannard, 1yd, 1; R. Tarrant, 4yds, 2; V. Goldman, scr, 3.

220yds Handicap, for Double Bay School boys.—L. Stannard, 3yds, 1; V. Goldman, scr, 2.

SWIMMING.

GOOD SPRINT PERFORMANCES.

On Saturday afternoon events for members were held by 12 clubs, comprising one ladies' amateur club, ten male amateur clubs, and one male league club. The Sydney Ladies' Club provided six events, five for senior members and one for juniors. Miss Dorothy Farmer showed prominently throughout the races, winning the 50 yards breast stroke and the 50 yards back stroke handicaps, and being placed second in the 100 yards handicap. Miss Mina Wylie, as usual, swam well, being second to Miss Farmer from the scratch mark in both the breast stroke and back stroke handicaps, and also second in the diving to Miss Hensley.

The events held by the male clubs were responsible for excellent performances. In the premier club's 100 yards handicap, both F. Cummins and A. W. Barry swam well, the former establishing performances of 61 1-5s and 61 4-5s in heat and final, while the former was placed second in his heat in 59 4-5s. In the Rose Bay Club's handicap also several swimmers showed promising form. Both the brothers Wickham swam in fine style, although they both could get no closer than third in their respective heats, while Tasman Jones (late of the East Sydney Club) won his heat in 61 1-5s in his first competitive swim of the season.

At Manly the local club maintained its reputation of attracting entries, by holding a 50 yards handicap, in which 65 members competed, including L. Solomons, a member of the Sydney Club's champion squadron team for the past two seasons. Solomons covered 50 yards in his heat in the excellent time of 28s, but did not reach the final. At Bondi, Balmoral, and Lavender Bay the local clubs opened their season, in each instance with a 50 yards handicap. Other clubs holding events were the Newtown, Randwick and Coogee, Leichhardt (both amateur and league), and St. George clubs. The weather was hardly ideal for swimming, and threatening clouds towards the close of the afternoon culminated in sharp showers, which somewhat damped the enthusiasm of competitors.

MANLY CLUB.

General Handicap, 50yds.—First heat: C. Murray, 8s, 1; C. Hargraves, 11s, 2; R. Thorn, 8s, 3. Time, 30s. Second heat: T. Smith, 7s, 1; J. Gosper, 5s, 2; C. Seard, 20s, 3. Time, 28s. Third heat: C. Lindsay, 6s, 1; H. Hay, 1s, 2; A. M'Nulty, 7s, 3. Time, 30 2-5s. Fourth heat: S. Smith, 5s, 1; E. Merrett, 7s, 2; K. G. Childers, 6s, 3. Time, 29s. Fifth heat: W. Griffen, 8s, 1; C. Ferris, 14s, 2; N. M'Mullen, 4s, 3. Time, 29s. Sixth heat: A. Kyle, 6s, 1; J. Hale, 8s, 2; E. M'Cracken, 9s, 3. Time, 29 4-5s. Seventh heat: A. Kelly, 11s, 1; N. Marshall, 7s, 2; C. Hind, 8s, 3. Time, 30s. Eighth heat: J. Wilkins, 15s, 1; R. R. Brown, 8s, 2; S. M'Auliffe, 6s, 3. Time, 33s. Final: J. Wilkins, 1; T. Smith, 2; A. Kyle, 3. Won by a touch. Time, 38 3-5s.

SYDNEY CLUB.

Two events were held in the Domain baths. Results:—

50 Yards Junior Handicap.—M. Mooney, 6s, 1; G. Gunther, 7s, 2; H. Huxley, 8s, 3.

Collins, 1s, 2; S. Gallimore, 1s, 3. Time, 33s. Fourth heat: T. Hudson, 5s, 1; W. Geoghegan, scr, 2; J. Fairment, 6s, 3. Time, 32 4-5s. Final: L. Bryant, 1s, 1; H. Olsen, 1s, 2; J. Reid, 2s, 3. Time, 30s.

NORTH STEYNE SURF CLUB.

The North Steyne Surf Club has decided to hold its sixth annual carnival on December 28.

RANDWICK AND COOGEE CLUB.

Members' Handicap, 66 yards, was won by C. Newton, 12s, 1; G. Baker, 5s, 2; and L. M'Clenchan, 8s, 3. The finish was very close.

33 Yards Junior Handicap.—Final heat fell to T. Danks, 7s, with S. Danks, 11s, 2; and A. Grey, [illegible], 3.

NEWTOWN AMATEUR CLUB.

A 50 yards handicap was held at Drummoyne Baths, and resulted in a win for C. Bayer, 6s, with L. Roberts, 9s, 2; and W. Vickery, 14s, 3.

NORTH SYDNEY DISTRICT CLUB.

Following are the results of Saturday's events:—

50 Yards Handicap.

MR. WADE'S ILL-HEALTH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I trust you will kindly permit me, through your columns, to call upon Liberals to show their sympathy for their respected and able leader in his present misfortune, ill-health, largely due to the conscientious attention to his political duties by assembling in large numbers at the E. and A. Wharf, Circular Quay, at noon on Tuesday next. Our worthy leader is deserving of every encouragement, and a hearty send-off from the rank and file should merit his appreciation and convince him of our sympathy. We will only say "Au revoir," as we want him back as soon as his health permits.

I am, etc.,
ARTHUR IRELAND.

NO CONNECTION WITH ANY ASSOCIATION.

Straight dealing and careful attention to clients has ensured our success.

We supply any information with the least possible delay, and our standing in the Business is sufficient guarantee as to our ability.

We're here to make money and earn your respect, and don't want to work when we're grey-headed. We're triers all the time, and get a fair percentage of the plums.

If we can't effect a Sale by fair means we leave it to the other fellow.

We ask no favours in Business. It is our duty to prove to you that you can't afford to pass us.

ALL CORRESPONDENCE PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

NOTHING CONVINCES LIKE FACTS.

MERE WORDS

BLOUSE DEPARTMENT

THE DEPENDABLE STORES,

MARCUS CLARK & CO., LTD.,

CENTRAL-SQUARE.

And the Economy of getting two or three at a time will be evident when you see them.

The values are marvellous, and no taste need go unsatisfied. Quality considered, we know the prices to be UNASSAILABLE. Because the price is only 2/9 for a SMART WHITE LAWN BLOUSE, with front and collar of dainty embroidery and long sleeves, it's not cheap and nasty; we could get 4/9 easy for it. It's our solid value and low prices that do it.

DAINTY WHITE MUSLIN BLOUSE, square neck of narrow insertion, ½ sleeves, front trimmed panel of embroidery and fine insertion 4/11

PRETTY MAGYAR BLOUSE, of white muslin, low round collar and turn-back cuffs of handsome embroidery, front trimmed panel of embroidery and alternate wide and narrow tucks 6/11

SNOW'S "OCCASION" IS NEARING ITS CLOSE.

We are bound to give you fair warning that only for a limited time longer can you participate in the extraordinary savings. If you have the least thought of Clothes buying, come to Snow's "Occasion." Don't let lack of need stop you. Hundreds are buying for the months to come.

LINENS—IN A LUCKY "OCCASION."

In every factory there are fingers that will go wrong; and lucky for many housewives that they do. For here are gathered thousands of Linens that will be offered at about half usual prices simply because the Factory Inspector's sharp eyes discovered a few dropped stitches here, a few crossed threads there, or some other slight hurt elsewhere. No harm done to the serviceability or the wearability of the Linens. Come and see.

LINENS FOR THE TABLE.

THE MONEY QUESTION

IS ONE THAT DOMINATES THE HOME.

Those who wisely live within an income rarely have to live without one.

SAVING "FOY" PRICES. HELP!

To nine-tenths of the population the problem of MAKING BOTH ENDS MEET has to be SOLVED EVERY DAY. Each day brings its needs, and each day involves expenditure, and there is ALL THE DIFFERENCE in the way the money is spent. One man pays his monthly accounts, and goes on "ticking;" his neighbour pays a BIT ON ACCOUNT, and relegates the balance towards the development of A SURPLUS in the sweet by-and-bye; while another neighbour, and yet SOME OTHERS of the same kidney, take the FULL WHACK out of GLORIOUS APOLLO.

If those of the population who are forced to "count their shillings" only knew what is good, how they would go for
